REED WILL ASK G. O. P. TO OUST BOLTERS OF '32

Declares He Plans To Take Step at Next Caucus.

4 SENATORS MAY BE HIT

McNary Lately Took View Such Action Would Fail.

(Associated Press.)

Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, said last night he would ask the next Republican caucus in the Senate to expel from the party rolls the independents who supported Franklin D. Roosevelt in November.

Reed said that with the Republicans in the minority now, they could lose nothing by casting out those senators who rebelled against the leadership of President Hoover.

Four senators—Johnson, of California; Cutting, of New Mexico; La Follette, of Wisconsin, and Norris, of Nebraska—possibly would be affected should Reed's purpose carry in the caucus.

Opposition of McNary.

However, Senator McNary, of Oregon, who will be the party leader in the next Senate, said recently that he would oppose an effort to punish the bolters.

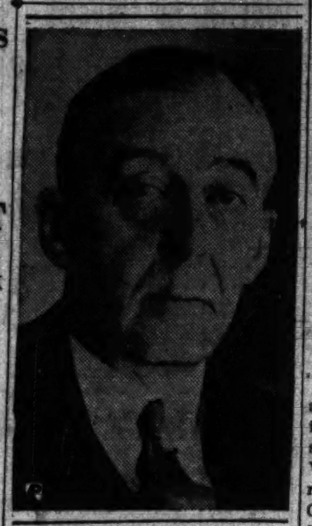
He took the view that it was the privilege of the States to define the Republicanism of their senators and forecast that any move like that planned by Reed would be defeated

Warned by Norris.

Norris, who supported Alfred E. Smith in 1928, suggested when the question came up before that those wanting to expel members from the party had better tread carefully "or we might read them out."

The Republicans, of course, will hold no committee chairmanships in the next Congress. Democratic leaders vetoed some time ago a proposal that some of the four who supported Roosevelt be permitted to keep their ranking places because of their position during the campaign.

Reed proposes to take from them their places on the committees as Republican members.



SENATOR DAVID A. REED.

Glass to Be Head Of Appropriations

Virginian Chooses Chair From Which He Can Guard Public Cash.

(Associated Press.)

Carter Glass, the wiry, eagle-eyed senator from Virginia, once Secretary of the Treasury and offered it again, will stand guard over the public purse as Senate Appropriations Committee chairman in the new Congress.

The Virginian, who decided against becoming head of the Treasury in the Roosevelt administration, said definitely yesterday he had chosen the chairmanship of Appropriations over Banking and Currency, which he might have headed.

Although long identified with banking legislation, first as House Banking chairman, then as Treasury Secretary and lately as a Senate subcommittee chairman, it has been known for some time Glass was inclined toward taking charge of the powerful Appropriations body.

Glass said his choice of chairmanships would not check his drive for banking reform. He will remain on the Banking and Currency Committee and if his banking bill fails in this Congress he will prese for it in the next.

BUREAU REVIEW OF NONSERVICE CASES ORDERED

Hines Overrides Veterans Demand That Ratings Be Undisturbed.

$50,000,000 SAVINGS ANNUALLY EXPECTED

New Adjudication of Claims Governed by Standards Not Possible Before.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

Sharp curtailment of disability allowances to those not actually incapacitated in the military service is the objective of the Veterans' Administration in its review of all such awards, Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines has informed members of Congress.

Overriding the vigorous protest of certain groups of organized veterans, who have demanded that existing awards and ratings be undisturbed, the Veterans' Administration has set down the rule that every case involving nonservice disabilities will be reviewed.

Although no official estimate has been presented as to the amount of savings which may be realized from the application of the new scale of disability ratings, members of Congress have placed the figure at approximately $50,000,000 annually. These savings will be in addition to whatever reductions may be realized through economy legislation applicable to veteran awards in the new Congress.

Drastic Cuts Prevented.

Passage of the independent offices bill in the Senate ended all hope of drastic cuts in veteran appropriations in the present session of Congress. As now approved by both houses the 1934 veteran appropriation of approximately $950,000,000 throws over completely all economy recommendations presented by President Hoover in his budget program last December. The budget message called for cuts of $127,000,000 in the 1934 veterans' bill.

Pending future action of Congress, however, Administrator Hines is pressing forward with the work of reviewing all nonservice awards. Since the enactment of the law authorizing this type of veteran payment in July, 1930, no less than 431,000 former service men have qualified for regular monthly payments. These payments range from $12 to $40 a month and the total outlay for the nonservice disabilities since the law became effective now aggregate some $127,072,374.

As outlined by Gen. Hines recently in communications to Congress, the new adjudication of these claims will be based upon a set of "standards and definitions" regarding disabilities which could not be formulated when the law became operative.

Veteran Posts Protest.

Veteran posts throughout the country have entered vigorous protest against the reexamination policy. Identic resolutions are flooding in on members of the House and Senate from every quarter, and many others are being sent directly to the Veterans' Administration.

In response to these resolutions, as forwarded from the Senate, Gen. Hines

HULL TODAY BEGINS DEBT CONFERENCES

Will See Stimson, Claudel and Lindsay Within Next Few Days.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

Secretary of State-Designate Cordell Hull immediately will begin conversations with Great Britain and France in preparation for settlement of the war debt problem and hastening of the World Economic Conference.

In his first statement yesterday in the capacity of Secretary of State, Senator Hull announced he would confer with Secretary Stimson today, with French Ambassador Claudel on Monday and with British Ambassador Sir Ronald Lindsay in the meantime. The conversations, which were inaugurated by the President-elect in his New York home, will be carried on by the first member of the Roosevelt Cabinet with the diplomatic representatives of France and England.

The new Secretary of State declined to make any pronouncements about his assistants and indicated he would confer with the President-elect before any formal nominations are made. It is believed assured that Prof. Raymond I. Moley, instructor in public law at Barnard College and one of the advisers of the President-elect, will be made one of the Assistant Secretaries of State. The post of undersecretary is said to lie between William Phillips, of Massachusetts, and Sumner Welles, of Maryland. Both are career diplomats and are personal friends of the President-elect.

Mr. Phillips belonged to the coterie of State Department men who got the most desirable posts in Europe after their stay here in Washington. The other members were Hugh Wilson, who was appointed to Switzerland; Hugh Gibson, who succeeded Mr Phillips in Belgium; Leland Harrison, who went as Minister to Sweden, and Joseph Grew, as Ambassador to Turkey.

Mr. Wells is generally credited with bringing the Marines out of Santo Domingo and during his stay in the Department of State was the author

Man Found Dazed Says He Took Poison to Die

Picked up at Eleventh and G streets northwest in a dazed condition, a man who identified himself as Hugh Glenn, 1705 East Capitol street, last night told Emergency Hospital attaches that he had swallowed 100 grains of a poison in an attempt to commit suicide. It was evident that he had taken a large amount of the poison, hospital authorities said.

Mrs. Elkins Named in Suit for $47,000

Amount Allegedly Is Due to Estate of Late Arnold Waters.

Mrs. Hallie D. Elkins, of 2029 Connecticut avenue, yesterday was named defendant in a suit for $47,500, alleged to be due to the estate of Arnold Elzey Waters, deceased.

Suit against Mrs. Elkins, who is described as also being known as Mrs. Stephen B. Elkins, was filed by F. Henry Barclay.

The suit alleges Mrs. Elkins guaranteed a note due Mr. Waters, on which John T. Davis, of West Virginia, was the maker. The note came due and collateral posted to guarantee the payment was found to be worthless because of the insolvency of the maker.

POSTAL SUPPLY BILL REJECTED IN SENATE

Effort Will Be Made Today to Send Measure Back to Conference.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

The Senate yesterday turned down the report of its conferees on the Treasury-Postoffice bill, and left the huge supply measure, economy rider and all, high and dry on an already overcrowded Senate calendar.

An attempt will be made today to send the bill back to conference, in hope of salvaging, before the session closes, at least the supply feature, and the broad authorization for Franklin D. Roosevelt to reorganize the Government.

Senate Democratic Floor Leader Joseph T. Robinson predicted last night that the reorganization powers and the appropriation bill proper will pass this session. He said this much of the measure "has a ten to one chance."

Among those not so optimistic was Senator Hiram Bingham (Republican), Connecticut, chairman of the Senate Economy Committee. He thinks the Senate action in rejecting the report yesterday spells the doom of the bill for this term.

Defeat of the report came on a 38 to 38 vote, after Senator Robinson, Senator William E. Borah (Republican), Idaho, and Senator William H. King (Democrat), Utah, had urged that the measure be sent back to conference.

So close was the vote, that a motion may be entered today to reconsider the ballot. If this fails to develop, Senator Tasker L. Oddie (Republican), Nevada, chairman of the Treasury-Postoffice Appropriations subcommit-

Tacoma, Wash., Feb. 24 (A.P.).—Claude V. Allen, 46, said by police to have been the last person to see Miss Mary Fitzgerald, Tacoma Junior League president, before her mysterious death by drowning in the sound early this week, committed suicide in his home here tonight.

New York, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—Harvey Parry, Coast Guard boatswain, was acquitted today of the murder of Garnet Brotherton, Staten Island riding master, whom he accused of being intimate with Parry's wife.

The jury considered the case a little over two hours.

Parry, testifying yesterday, told of his encounter with the riding master and said he could remember reaching for his pocket after Brotherton had taunted him for losing his wife's love and had struck him in the face. Beyond that, he said, he could remember nothing.

Lindbergh Suspects Released Under Bond

Roanoke, Va., Feb. 24 (A.P.).—Joe Bryant, 19, and Norman Harvey, 26, obtained their liberty, under bond, and the Government was given additional time for investigation by an agreement today deferring until July 3 the hearing of the two men and Harvey's wife, Elsie, on charges in connection with an attempt to extort $50,000 from Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, by threats against his second son.

6 HELD IN LOSS OF THOUSANDS BY EMPLOYERS

BILLING CLERK AIDED SWINDLE, IS CHARGE

Juggling of Orders and Cash Said to Have Cost Firm $300 Per Week.

The Washington Tobacco Co., 631 Massachusetts avenue northwest, has been losing a lot of money during the last year and a half, but it was learned yesterday, with the arrest of six employes, that the loss was not due to the depression, but to the clever manner in which some one appropriated $300 a week without the knowledge of the company.

The six suspects, all except one who was a billing clerk, were route salesmen. They are: Adolph R. Deitz, 26, of 1245 K street southeast, alleged "brains" and ringleader; Clarence R. Gillespie, 24, of 1113 Massachusetts avenue northwest; George M. Downs, 26, of Seat Pleasant, Md.; Malcolm C. Miller, 26, of 529 Eighth street southeast; George E. De Chard, 31, of 1259 Sixth street northwest, and Floyd J. Stoner, 28, of 418 B street northeast, the billing clerk.

Confessions Claimed.

The men were arrested yesterday by Detective Sergeants Steve Brodie, Leo Murray, Mike Dowd and A. D. Mansfield after a month's investigating.

According to Dietz all the salesmen worked independently, except Stoner, who got a "cut" from the other men's profits. All six are stated to have confessed their parts after questioning by the detectives.

The method described by police was rather simple. A route salesman would get an order for a certain quantity of tobacco which would be checked out of the warehouse by the billing clerk. The salesman would deliver the order, receive payment and return with the bills of lading.

Total Thefts Thousands.

The billing clerk now came into the picture, for salesmen had to turn over their receipts to him to be filed. However, before the money for the tobacco sold was turned over to the cashier with the proper bills of lading the salesman would help himself to a certain part of the cash. This, of course, left a discrepancy in the receipts and the billing clerk took care of this by tearing up some of the receipts or altering them to conform with the

RITCHIE CLOSES BANKS OF STATE FOR 3 DAYS AS PROTECTION MOVE

District Tax Increase Decried by Donovan

Urges Boost in Federal Sum if Big Shortage Is Avoided.

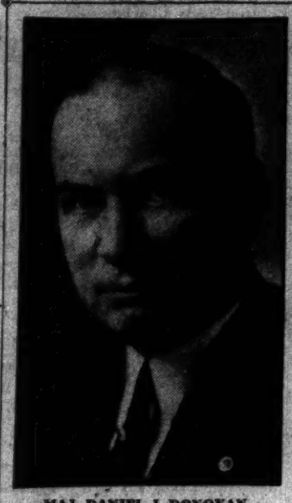
A picture of declining District revenues, that will lead to a deficit of $440,934 on June 30, and a possible shortage of $40,000,000 in five years, if necessary improvements are carried out, was presented yesterday to the Senate District Appropriations subcommittee by Maj. Daniel J. Donovan, District auditor.

An increase in the Federal "lump sum" contribution far above the $6,500,000 recommended by the House was declared the only equitable solution of the situation.

"If you increase the taxes, you're only going to pile up unpaid taxes," Maj. Donovan told the committee. "You are not going to collect any more money, because the mony is not here to pay."

Senator Arthur Capper (Republican), Kansas, chairman of the Senate District Committee, told Donovan he was "absolutely right."

"There is no way out of the situation as I see it, except by increasing the Federal contribution," said Senator Capper.



MAJ. DANIEL J. DONOVAN.

He added, however, that the situation is "discouraging," in view of the House stand for a $6,500,000 lump sum.

Maj. Donovan told the subcommittee the only reason the District is keeping its head financially above

FITZGERALD DEATH IS NOW LAID TO FEAR

Wife Sticks to Her Story and Says That Mate Often Threatened Suicide.

The words, "I tried, I suffered, I loved," written on the margin of a pulp magazine story, "Death's Right of Way," shortly before his body was found in his apartment Thursday night, and the failure to "shake" his wife's story of innocence after several hours' questioning, yesterday led police to believe that John F. Fitzgerald, 24, of 11 Third street northeast, committed suicide by strangulation rather than meet death at the hands of another person.

The wife, Mrs. Mary Fitzgerald, 21 told police she cut a tightly knotted necktie from the neck of her husband when she entered the kitchen and found him lying on the floor with a gas jet partly open. She put the tie in a bureau drawer and did not tell police of the incident until questioned yesterday.

She said her husband had often threatened suicide and that he frequently smeared his lips with merourochrome and tomato catsup and lay on the floor.

Following an autopsy yesterday Deputy Coroner C. J. Murphy announced he was unable to determine what had caused Fitzgerald's death, but thought it was due to strangulation. He ordered the contents of the dead man's stomach sent to the District chemist for analysis. Meanwhile, Mrs. Fitzgerald is being held pending

Sheriff Is Killed; Posse Seizes Boys

Three Youths Transferred for Safekeeping After Ire Is Aroused.

Marfa, Tex., Feb. 24 (A.P.).—Three boys were brought to the jail here today for safekeeping after Lee Sproul, 45, sheriff of Jeff Davis County, was shot and killed in the mountains, 20 miles northeast of here.

They were captured just south of Fort Davis by a hastily formed posse and were transferred here because of the intense feeling in that town. They refused to give their names, but said two of them were from Illinois and one from Oklahoma. None was believed to be more than 20 years old.

Sproul was shot as he and another officer hunted through the mountains for three strangers who robbed a ranch of pistols and rifles last night.

Storthing's Vote Causes Norway's Cabinet to Quit

Oslo, Norway, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—Premier Jens Hunseld announced tonight that the government will resign tomorrow in consequence of the adoption by the Storthing (the national legislature) by a vote of 80 to 67 of a resolution of regret at the government's noncooperation with the Radicals.

SCORE IN ILLINOIS HURT IN MINE WAR

One Shot as Several Hundred Battle Deputies; Tear Bombs Exploded.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 24 (A.P.).—In a brief but violent flare-up of the Illinois miners' wage war tonight in Springfield proper, one man was shot, nearly a score others were hurt, and ten were arrested.

A throng of several hundred members of the Progressive Miners of America clashed with a force of deputy sheriffs at the tipple of the Capitol Mine of the Peabody Coal Co., fourteen blocks from the city's center, which employs United Mine Workers of America.

Officers exploded tear gas bombs, but a strong wind quickly drove the fumes away. Several shots were fired at the height of the melee and Joseph Poder, a picket, was wounded in the fact and taken to a hospital. Lee Leonard, a deputy, and several other combatants from both sides suffered cuts and bruises from flying missles and clubs.

The trouble at the Capitol mine came after a surprise move by the striking miners. They originally set out for the Peerless mine, also manned by United Mine Workers, but learned that a strong force of deputies awaited them there as the result of a clash between members of the two unions last night when one man was shot.

A minor struggle occurred at quitting time at the Woodside mine, in the south end of Springfield. Several were injured slightly.

The outbreaks followed shortly after a legislative commission had called in Sangamon County and Springfield City officials, and leaders of both miners' factions in an effort to effect a truce.

State Representative Frank McCarthy declared the situation in Springfield was "ominous" and "grave trouble" might result unless some agreement were reached.

LaFontaine Funds Attached in Suit

Attorneys Seek $5,000 Alleged Due for Defending Him in Tax Case.

James A. (Jimmie) LaFontaine's account in a Marlboro bank was attached yesterday after three lawyers had filed suit against him for attorney's fees in connection with his income tax litigation in 1931. The attachment was released a few hours later after bond was posted to satisfy the lien.

The suit was filed by Attorneys William Curran, Morton Fisher and R. Bartett Prettyman for $5,000. According to the bill, the lawyers were paid an original retainer of $3,000, with a similar sum due later in two installments. This was never paid, they allege.

LaFontaine was indicted by a Federal grand jury of evasion of income tax payments and was later sentenced to jail for nine months. After serving 37 days in the Ellicott City jail, he was released on account of his health. In addition, he also paid back taxes to the Government.

Huge Withdrawals Of Past Week Cause Step.

LEGISLATION TO BE ASKED

More Than 200 Fiscal Institutions Affected by Maryland Order.

Baltimore, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—A proclamation, declaring tomorrow a legal holiday, and a statement that daily proclamations would be given to make Monday and Tuesday legal holidays, were issued late tonight by Gov. Albert C. Ritchie to close every bank and financial institution in Maryland until Wednesday morning.

Heavy withdrawals, principally on Baltimore banks this week, was given as the reason for the governor's action in declaring the holidays. Withdrawals at the Baltimore City banks amounted to $13,000,000 out of half a billion deposits, bankers said.

Financial officials were unable to state the exact number of banks and concerns affected but said there were 205 banks, State and National, savings institutions and building and loan associations operating in the State on December 31, 1932, with total resources of $889,000,000.

Statement by Ritchie.

Gov. Ritchie said in a formal statement:

"I attended the meeting of bankers this evening with the idea of doing whatever is best for the depositors. The interest of those who have placed their money in the banks must be preserved above everything else.

"I believe there is no justification for the withdrawals which have recently been taking place. But to protect the property and savings of the people of the city and State, these large withdrawals should stop.

"It was the consensus of opinion that a bank holiday should be declared tomorrow, Monday and Tuesday during which time certain legislation for the protection of the depositors and security of the banks could be presented to the Legislature.

Reopening Wednesday.

"The bank holiday will cease as soon as this legislation has been passed, and I am expecting that this will be done Tuesday, and that the banks will be able to reopen on Wednesday, with ample facilities available for the needs of the people."

The Maryland General Assembly adjourned today until 8 p. m., Monday.

William Preston Lane, jr., attorney general of Maryland, who began work tonight on the legislation to which the governor referred, said it would be

Babe Found Smothered In Blankets by Father

When Claude Johnson, 706 Eleventh street southeast, went to look after his five-month-old baby, Donald, late last night he found the infant unconscious, smothered by its blankets. The child was rushed to Casualty Hospital but pronounced dead on arrival.

The father was at a loss to explain how the child could have become entangled in the blankets while asleep in its crib. He told police the blankets were drawn tightly over the baby's face.

MITCHELL REQUESTS STOCKS PROBE DATA

(Associated Press.)

Striking swiftly, the Federal Government last night sought to determine whether recent testimony before the Senate Stock Market Investigating Committee has disclosed law violations that are open to criminal prosecution.

The Justice Department swung into action as the Senate investigators were presented with evidence that the National City Bank of New York, forbidden by law to deal in its own securities, advanced credit for the purchase of its stock through a brokerage house. The committee has been investigating the Insull Utilities crash also.

Almost simultaneously, authority to continue the investigation through the next session of Congress was sought from the Senate by Senator Costigan (Democrat), Colorado, a member of the Steering Committee in charge of the inquiry which is now slated to end March 4.

Inquiry at New York.

The first indication that the Federal Government might institute criminal proceedings as a result of the testimony came in an announcement from the Justice Department that Attorney General Mitchell had asked for copies of the recent testimony.

Almost simultaneously it became known that an investigation of the testimony was being made by Federal authorities at New York for possible evasion of income tax laws. George Medalie, district attorney, refused to discuss the inquiry and there was no information whether the grand jury would be asked to act.

Charles E. Mitchell, internationally known chairman of the National City Bank, told the Senate investigators early this week that in order to avoid paying an income tax in 1929 he sold stock in his bank to a relative at a loss of nearly $2,800,000. Later, he testified, he repurchased the securities.

Justice Announcement.

No mention of any specific case was made, however, either in Washington or New York. The Justice Department merely announced it would examine the testimony to determine whether it reveals violations of banking, income tax or other Federal laws, or contained anything that might be of use in current grand jury proceedings.

Recent testimony before the banking committee has dealt exclusively with the operations of the National City Bank; its security affiliate, the National City Company, and the Insull Utilities crash, including the part played by Halsey, Stuart & Co., Chicago investment house.

Violation of the banking laws has been suggested frequently during the National City inquiry by Ferdinand Pecora, counsel for the banking committee, in connection with the marketing of the bank stock and loans by the bank to its officers.

Late yesterday afternoon Pecora laid before the committee an opinion prepared in 1911 by Frederick W Lehmann, then Solicitor General, holding that formation of the National City Company was illegal. The opinion was placed in the Congressional Record last spring by Senator Glass (Democrat), Virginia, with the charge that it had been "suppressed."

New York, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—United States Attorney George Z. Medalie has requested that copies of the 1929 income tax return of Charles E. Mitchell, chairman of the board of the National City Bank, be sent here from Washington for investigation, it was learned at the Federal Building today.

Bankruptcy Relief Passage Doubtful

Senate Debate Opens But Leaders Fear Time Is Too Short.

(Associated Press.)

The long-awaited bankruptcy relief bill reached the Senate debate stage yesterday, and while some progress was made in perfecting it, leaders expressed grave doubt the legislation could be enacted this session.

The bill as reported from the Judiciary Committee sets up machinery by which individuals and farm debtors may, with the consent of their creditors and the courts, obtain an extension or a reduction of their obligations. A similar measure which passed the House carries provisions for reorganization of railroads and other corporations facing receivership.

Senator Hastings (Republican), Delaware, in charge of the Senate bill, proposed amendments yesterday to cover the railroad and other corporate groups, and an extended debate followed on whether this would endanger passage before March 4.

Blanton Delays House Vote On Medical Rum Measure

Staves Off Action by Technicality, But Celler's Bill to Remove Restrictions on Doctors Is Due to Pass Today.

By J. BERNARD McDONNELL.

Representative Thomas L. Blanton (Democrat), of Texas, "blantonized" the House again yesterday and thereby prevented passage of the Celler bill which would remove existing restrictions on the issuance of prescriptions for whisky by physicians.

Passage of the bill was imminent when Blanton arose and achieved recognition by Speaker Garner. The Texan has been fighting hard for some time for recognition as the fair-haired boy of the Antisaloon League and similar organizations but has fallen short of his apparent ideal because of the tactics which has caused the House to coin a new word—"Blantonizing."

Blanton stayed off passage of the Celler bill by a technicality in the closing minutes of the session, after he and such other drys as Representative Malcolm C. Tarver (Democrat), of Georgia, had been soundly beaten on various votes. Mr. Blanton demanded that the engrossed copy of the bill be read. The engrossed copy wasn't on the Speaker's desk. There was nothing for Speaker Garner to do but let the decision go over until today, to the glee of Tarver and Blanton whose fast working jaws chewed faster than ever.

Before the climax of the "blantonizing" the House had agreed to amend the bill as demanded by the bull-voiced Representative John Schafer (Republican), of Wisconsin. Mr. Schafer was licked for reelection last November and is going to be retired to private life effective March 4. It is reported that the former railroad fireman and engineer cherishes ambitions to take the seat of Senator Robert M. LaFollette in the elections next year.

The House adopted Mr. Schafer's amendment to include beer along with whisky as something which doctors might prescribe without limitation, except under such regulations of the Prohibition Bureau as conform to the general idea.

Passage of the bill is anticipated soon after the House meets today. The futile drys launched their battle as soon as it was called up in the House yesterday. Representative John J. O'Connor (Democrat), of New York, moved that the debate on the measure be cut from two hours to 40 minutes. Mr. Blanton insisted that he control the time of the drys. The final vote on the proposition was 81 to 7. Thereupon Tarver made a point of no quorum and Speaker Garner started a roll call, a mere matter of 45 minutes in itself.

water today is because of a $2,135,000 economy act saving, and because it is not making necessary improvements.

Improvements Cited.

"We are losing out on improvements all along the line," he said. "We have got to stop building needed schools and sewers. We have had to abandon our municipal center project. And all the while we are building up an accumulation of arrearages, that some day will have to be met."

Despite House removal against the restriction which formerly prevented the Commissioners from reducing the tax rate, Donovan said there can be no reduction of taxes under present conditions, adding that, in justice, he felt some of the taxes should be reduced.

The only prospect of additional revenue lies in the Senate bill to increase the gasoline tax 1 cent. He pointed out that repairs to streets and other items already have been shifted to the gasoline tax fund.

Will Have Balance.

Despite the $440,534 deficit at the end of this fiscal year, Donovan said the District will have a balance of $2,478,000 at the end of the 1934 fiscal year, due entirely to the operation of the economy act. To this might be added $1,300,000 from gasoline revenues and $900,000 from water rents, he said.

The auditor discussed at length a "five-year plan" of operation authorized by Congress, ending in 1938. On the basis of a $9,500,000 Federal contribution, he said income in that period would approximate $225,163,000, while $252,810,775 would be required to make necessary improvements. If the lump sum is reduced to $6,500,000, he said the District would fall short by $17,000,000 more.

$8,000,000 Is Owed.

Maj. Donovan told the committee that $8,000,000 in unpaid taxes is now owing to the District, and the trend of revenues from all sources is steadily downward. Unpaid real estate taxes constitute the bulk of the amount owing to the city, he said.

He cited comparative figures showing the steady falling off in collections not only in real estate taxes, but also in tangible personal taxes, the intangibles tax and revenues from the personal tax on automobiles.

While a prospective balance of $2,478,000 in the local treasury is in sight for the close of the next fiscal year, any District appropriation increases made by the Senate will curtail this balance accordingly, he said.

Meter Fight Renewed.

Yesterday's District Appropriation Committee hearing opened with a renewal of the Public Utilities Commission fight for metered operation of taxicabs in the District. People's Counsel Richmond B. Keech, first on the stand, said public preference is for the zone system. He was supported in this position by George E. Sullivan, representing the Federation of Citizens Associations.

A. Jacobson, of the City Cab Corporation, said his company operates 500 cabs and their drivers appear to be satisfied. He said they make one-fourth of the first $5 they take in, and 90 per cent of all over that.

T. W. Fowler, who said he represents the rank and file of cab drivers, declared they are "sick and disgusted with present conditions."

NONSERVICE CASE WILL BE REVIEWED inaugurated last week the policy that awards "will not be discontinued in any instance unless the available information of the record is entirely adequate to support the action taken."

In response to the demand of the veteran organizations that no award be modified until opportunity has been afforded for a new physical examination of the beneficiary, however, the new policy is that the existing records in the bureau will be the final authority, save in unusual cases where new evidence is offered by the veteran.

In his recent letters to Congress, Gen. Hines has emphasized that re-examinations in every case would entail a prohibitive expense.

Definition of Permanence.

One of the most significant revisions of the Veterans' Administration procedure established for the review of the disability allowances relates to the definition of permanence. Under the old scheme of adjudication a disability was regarded as qualifying under the intent of the 1930 law if it was "reasonably certain to continue unimproved for an indefinite period." Under the new arrangement such disabilities must be adjudged "reasonably certain to continue unimproved throughout the veteran's life."

Another revision provides that certain injuries which counted as partial disabilities under the old scheme shall not weigh at all under the new procedure. Thus many veterans who were able to show the required minimum of 25 per cent disability will not be able to maintain that standing under the new ratings.

In setting forth these new regulations, however, General Hines has informed members of Congress, in response to the protests of the organized veterans, that no veteran need fear discontinuance of his disability allowance if he still can show a 25 per cent incapacity "actually constituting a permanent disability within the minimum requirements of the law."

Mills Spikes Report Of Offer From Bank

(Associated Press.)

Reports circulated in New York that Secretary Mills has been offered an important executive position with the National City Bank, with a possibility of succeeding Charles E Mitchell as chairman of the board, were termed "untrue" last night by the Secretary of the Treasury.

Mills said he had not heard from anyone of any offer of the kind.

tee, is expected to move that the Senate insist on its amendments, and send the entire bill back to conference.

Oddie sought yesterday to agree to the supply bill features, and then call a new conference on the economy provisions at issue.

He reckoned, however, without Senator Robinson's opposition to the $19,000,000 air mail subsidy, stricken by the Senate, but put back in the bill in conference. And he reckoned without Senator King's charge that Senate conferees receded on every point, except in the economy rider. House recessions, he said, were all of a technical nature.

In vain, Senator George H. Moses (Republican), New Hampshire, argued for adoption of the report.

"If you don't accept this report, your action will gravely endanger the passage of the entire bill," Senator Moses admonished the Senate.

Says Economy Lost.

Senator Robinson replied that adoption of the partial report would pave the way for later acceptance of all the terms dictated by the House.

Earlier, Senator Kenneth McKellar (Democrat), Tennessee, charged that the Senate conferees, in collaboration with the House, already had "destroyed every semblance of economy in this bill." He said the six Republican Senate conferees stood unanimously with the House conferees against major economies in the bill.

There was a hot verbal tilt between Senator McKellar and Senator Bingham, after the latter had accused McKellar of "misleading" the Senate. McKellar demanded to know what Mr. Bingham meant by the word "misleading." When Senator Bingham replied that Senator McKellar was confusing the economy provisions with the supply features of the bill, Mr. McKellar retorted that it was Senator Bingham who was misleading the Senate.

Deplores Their Failure.

The Tennessee Senator deplored the failure of the conferees to agree on the 5 per cent departmental cut, the amendment providing for tax refund review by the Board of Tax Appeals, the air mail subsidy cut and the provision abolishing the Bureau of Efficiency.

Then Senator Warren R. Austin (Republican), Vermont, launched into criticism of conference action in eliminating exemptions granted vocational education funds and money for agriculture extension, from permanent appropropriations passed on annually by Congress.

"Are we here in the Senate in a position that we can not save ourselves?" he asked.

Members of the Oklahoma delegation in the House understood yesterday that President-elect Roosevelt was considering the appointment of Pat Malloy, prominent in Tulsa, as First Assistant Secretary of the Interior.

HOUSE IMPEACHES JUDGE LOUDERBACK

(Associated Press.)

Federal Judge Harold Louderback, of California was impeached by the House yesterday for "misdemeanors in office" on which he must stand trial by the Senate.

Five articles of impeachment, founded on the jurist's handling of receivership cases, were adopted by a 183 to 142 vote. These were ordered exhibited to the Senate which must try the case as an impeachment court. It requires a two-thirds Senate majority to convict.

The impeachment vote, coming after two hours of debate, was a surprise even to sponsors of the motion, especially in view of the Judiciary Committee's 10 to 5 vote against impeachment.

Censored By Majority.

But the committee majority had gone so far as to censure Judge Louderback "for conduct prejudicial to the dignity of the judiciary in appointing incompetent receivers * * * and for a high degree of indifference to the interests of litigants in receiverships."

It was argued vigorously by Chairman Sumners of the Judiciary Committee, La Guardia, of New York, a Republican member, and Browning, of Tennessee, a Democrat, that if a judge were guilty of such actions as those named in the censure report, he should be impeached.

The opposition came from McKeown, of Oklahoma, and Condon, of Rhode Island, Democrats, and Dyer, of Missouri, and Bachmann, of West Virginia, Republicans.

Causes Stir in Senate.

Judge Louderback, when advised in California of the action, refused to comment.

The decision caused a stir in the Senate. Borah, of Idaho, suggested that since no time remains for the trial before March 4, the next House would have to vote the impeachment over again.

But Ashurst, of Arizona, another Senate Judiciary Committee member, said the Senate, when officially advised of the House action, could set a date for the trial after March 4. This view was shared by Sumners and La Guardia.

San Francisco, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—Federal Judge Harold Louderback, against whom the House of Representatives voted impeachment proceedings in Washington today, said here tonight: "I welcome the opportunity to meet before the United States Senate, face-to-face, all accusers and openly and fairly submit my case."

Judge Louderback gave his brief statement in writing to newspaper men in a hotel lobby to which they were summoned.

U. S. Bond Issue Urged by Griffin

House Member Addresses Federal Employes; Hits Salary Cuts.

The need for a bond issue to aid the Government to meet its financial obligations is just as great now as it was in wartime, Representative Anthony J. Griffin, of New York, declared last night in an address before the District department of the American Federation of Government Employes at the Hamilton Hotel.

He said the economic crisis is just as great as the war crisis and reminded his hearers that the people then were urged "to buy until it hurts." They should be urged to lend the Government similar aid now, he said, and in that way bring millions of dollars out of hoarding. Representative Griffin voiced his opposition to salary cuts for Federal workers "on humanitarian grounds and because they are unnecessary."

Clarke J. McLane, chairman of the credit union committee, reported for that group and the department delegates voted favorably on the establishment of a credit union. Samuel Sacco reported for a committee surveying prospective quarters for the department's offices. Almon Barber, chairman of the District membership subcommittee, outlined membership gains since last meeting. Michael D. Schaefer presided.

BANKS IN MARYLAND CLOSED THREE DAYS

drafted "with the interest of the depositors paramount." Lane and the governor joined in saying they were not prepared to forecast what form the legislation would take.

The conference was attended by representatives of most of the banks in Baltimore City and many banks in other parts of the State. The county bankers said their institutions were unaffected for the most part by the "growing public unrest."

E. Brooke Lee's Opinion.

For technical reasons, the governor did not declare the three-day holiday in a single pronouncement. Instead, he issued a formal proclamation declaring tomorrow a legal holiday. He will issue, he said, another declaring Monday a legal holiday and likewise for Tuesday.

Attorney General Lane explained this procedure was adopted in order there might be no legal complications, the governor's power to declare individual holidays being undisputed.

John J. Ghingher, recently appointed State bank commissioner, was among the first to arrive at the meeting held in the Federal Reserve Bank Building. He left later with an assistant to go to his office for further work. The State law and bank departments were placed at the service of the attorney general for preparing his legislation.

E. Brooke Lee, former speaker of the House of Delegates and one of the governor's advisers, said tonight necessary legislation could be passed by the General Assembly at a single setting, adding a two-thirds vote in each house would be needed to suspend the rules.

Large Silverware Stock Thief's Loot in Church

Blow Returns to Man His Speech and Hearing

Thanks for the smack on the ear.

That's the way Roland A. Wright, 20, colored, of Twelfth, near N street northwest, feels about his latest fistic defeat. Seven years ago a blow on the side of the head rendered him hors de combat and deprived him of his speech and hearing. Night before last he was again rendered hors de combat, when an unidentified friend became miffed by his gesticulations. But when he recovered consciousness he could again speak and hear.

In the meantime, the friend who delivered the curative blow had disappeared. Wright would like to express his thanks vocally, but the friend has not been seen since the fistic clash.

SAMOAN CITIZENSHIP BILL DIES, 72 TO 26

House Sees Measure as Full of Grief and Expense to Taxpayers.

(Associated Press.)

The House yesterday killed a bill favored by five leading members of Congress, including Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, to give American citizenship to 10,000 Samoans and establish a civil government in those South Sea isles.

The bill was sponsored by Robinson, Democratic leader in the Senate; Senator Bingham (Republican), Connecticut, chairman of the Territories Committee; Representative Williams (Democrat), Texas, chairman of the House Territories Committee; Representative Beedy, of Maine, another influential Republican, and Representative Hare (Democrat), South Carolina, chairman of the House Insular Affairs Committee.

It was drafted after the first four as a commission named by President Coolidge made a special inspection trip to American Samoa. A year ago the Senate passed the bill, but it languished in the House until Robinson and Bingham paid a special call on Speaker Garner to ask that it be passed. Garner agreed to permit the vote.

When the bill came up yesterday, Williams and Beedy argued that if the United States intended to keep the islands it should make citizens of the natives, whom they praised. But opponents, including Schafer, of Wisconsin; Jenkins, of Ohio; Eaton, of Colorado, and French, of Idaho, Republicans, and Blanton, of Texas, and Martin, of Oregon, Democrats, succeeded in killing it.

The opposition was based chiefly on the idea that establishment of the new government would "take money out of American taxpayers pockets," that it "is deplorable that the House is spending time considering this bill to take care of foreigners when so many Americans are hungry," and that "there is more trouble and grief wrapped up in this bill than in any that has been before the House in a number of days."

A bill that does not say at the start "be it enacted by the Senate and the House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled," can not become law. So the bill died when on the motion of Representative Dyer (Republican), Missouri, the House voted 72 to 26 to strike out that language.

War Declaration Asked in Paraguay

Asuncion, Paraguay, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—President Eusebio Ayala sent a message to Congress today asking a declaration of war against Bolivia.

The president's message said that a declaration of war would enable other South American countries to establish their neutrality. This was interpreted in some quarters as indicating hope that Argentina, Chile, Peru and Brazil would blockade Bolivia.

Declaring that a state of war already existed in fact, the message said: "In giving official status to the existing situation Paraguay fulfills her duties toward her sister nations, especially her neighbors whose attitude may thus be defined in accordance with customary traditions and principles."

Boettcher Kidnap Deadline Midnight

Father of Victim Scoffs at Paying Ransom Before Delivery.

Denver, Colo., Feb. 24 (U.P.).—Twenty-four hours remained tonight for kidnapers to return Charles Boettcher 2d, young Denver millionaire, before the deadline set by his multimillionaire father.

Saturday night at midnight was the zero hour. If his son was not returned then Claude K. Boettcher declared he would "take very definite action." What his course might be he did not reveal.

"I would be signing my son's death warrant if I handed $60,000 over to the kidnapers and waited for them to deliver my boy," said Boettcher tonight. "Once they had the money in their possession they would kill Charlie, to destroy all evidence of their extortion."

amount of actual cash turned in to the company, police say.

Brodie was not certain last night just what charges would be placed against the men, but he was of the opinion that it would be either larceny after trust or grand larceny. This has to be decided by the District attorney.

RICH HIT BY BANKER IN PROSPERITY PLAN

(Associated Press.)

An outspoken young banker from the West—Marriner S. Eccles, of Ogden, Utah—discounted before the Senate Finance Committee yesterday what the Government has done to bring back better times and advocated a program so sweeping that he said it might "frighten those of our people who possess wealth."

Eccles, president of the $50,000,000 First Security Corporation flung over Utah and southern Idaho, and president of construction, lumber and creamery companies in those States, California and Oregon, appeared in the committee's study of ways to return prosperity.

J. David Stern, editor and publisher of the Philadelphia Record and the Camden, N. J., Courier-Post, who proposed a gold embargo and temporary suspension of gold payments, and W. Mont Ferry, of Salt Lake City, pleading for rehabilitation of silver, added their views for the committee's consideration.

Urges Expanded Credits.

Stern, who contended balancing the budget was not the first requisite to economic restoration, differed from such financial leaders as Bernard M. Baruch, W. W. Aldrich and others who have urged this. He recommended expanded credits to bring better times.

Suspension of gold payments and an embargo to prevent flow of gold from the country, he said, would permit the issuance of ample credit facilities for consumers only. He suggested that the depression be fought just as the World War was fought.

"We did not talk of balancing the budget during the World war," Stern told the committee. To get more funds into circulation through consumers, he suggested:

Advancement by the Government of 50 per cent of the deposits in closed banks; Federal construction activities costing $5,000,000,000; amending the home loan bank system so loans could be made direct to home owners; enlargement of unemployment relief steps and advancing of 50 per cent of the $9,000,000,000 owed on farm mortgages.

Five-Point Program.

Eccles, just beyond 40, smilingly told the committee: "I'm a capitalist." He presented a five-point emergency program, and a policy calling for:

More equitable distribution of wealth production through a unification of the banking system under the supervision of the Federal Reserve Bank, and a high income and inheritance tax to control capital accumulation.

National anti-child labor, minimum wage, unemployment and old age pension laws, and a national planning board to coordinate public and private activities in the economic world.

As a further step he said all financial issues, private and foreign, should be rigidly controlled by the Government, with this control extended to all transportation and communication facilities.

Dam Park Dispute Renewed by Oddie

Charges Wilbur Seeks to Save Six Companies Annual Taxes.

(Associated Press.)

Nevada, through Senator Tasker L. Oddie (Republican), yesterday renewed before the Senate Public Lands Committee its quarrel with the Interior Department over the Boulder Dam Federal Reservation, Oddie presenting opposition to a bill to make the area a national park.

Oddie contended in a written statement submitted to the committee, that Secretary Wilbur, in urging making the area a park, sought to save the Six Companies, Inc., builders of the giant Hoover Dam, from paying $100,000 annually in taxes to the State.

Oddie reminded the committee a Federal Court recently dismissed proceedings brought by the Six Companies to escape State tax payments, and added:

"Having failed to win in the courts, the Secretary of the Interior has conceived and is now pressing this legislation for action to create a national park—all for the purpose of circumventing and evading the sovereignty and laws of Nevada."

Emergency Bank Bill Ballot in House Today

(Associated Press.)

Emergency powers over National banks for emergency times will be voted upon in the House today. All leaders agreed last night that they expected no considerable opposition to the measure, giving this new authority to the Comptroller of the Currency.

The measure to be pressed is sponsored by Senator Couzens, Michigan, Republican, and is being rushed to passage, to meet the situation that exists in his State. It has the unanimous indorsement of two House committees—Banking and Currency and Rules—and unanimously has passed the Senate in a slightly different form.

WALSH IN HAVANA; TO MARRY MONDAY

Senator and His Bride Will Return to Washington Shortly Afterward.

Havana, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, who is expected to be the new administration's Attorney General, arrived in Havana today to marry Senora Mina Perez Chaumont Truffin, wealthy widow of Regino Truffin and member of one of Cuba's most prominent families.

The ceremony will take place Monday in the United States Embassy here. Almost immediately thereafter the couple will return to Washington to live.

Accompanied by Regino, the eldest son of his bride-to-be, Senator Walsh came in unexpectedly on this morning's Pan-American plane from Miami. He was met at the dock by United States Ambassador Harry F. Guggenheim, and was taken immediately to the Truffin country estate, Finca Mina, in Buena Vista, Marianao. Subsequently it was said that members of the family, accompanied by the senator, had gone to the country.

"We're going to be married Monday—that's all," said Senora Perez Chaumont before the senator arrived.

Other members of the family said Mr. Walsh and Senora Perez Chaumont had known each other two or three years, meeting first in New York. Since then they have met on his frequent visits to Cuba, and in the United States. Senora Perez Chaumont, whose husband died in July, 1926, has two sons, Regino and Marcial, the latter connected with the National City Bank here, and two stepdaughters, one the wife of Havana's mayor, Dr. Tirso Mesa, and the other the widow of Clemente Vazquez Bello, president of the Cuban senate, who was assassinated September 27, 1932.

Friends who visited the Truffin estate described it as a beehive of activity, what with the packing that is going forward preparatory to the departure of its mistress for Washington.

Davis Aloof as Pinchot Holds Back Certificate

(Associated Press.)

Senator Davis, of Pennsylvania, said last night he did not intend to get "into any controversy" with Gov. Gifford Pinchot because the governor so far has failed to send the Senate a certificate of Davis' reelection.

Within a few hours yesterday after Charles Pace, Senate financial secretary, said that Davis and his office force would go off the Government pay roll March 4, unless Pinchot forwarded the certificate to the Senate before that date, Pinchot refused to say when, or if the certificate would be forthcoming.

MORGENTHAU NEXT FARM BOARD HEAD

Empire Conservation Chief Slated to Coordinate Rural Agencies.

Hyde Park, N. Y., Feb. 24 (A.P.).—President-elect Roosevelt is relying upon Henry Morgenthau, Jr., to head the Farm Board and to coordinate the various independent agriculture agencies into a cohesive organization.

Mr. Morgenthau, present State conservation commissioner, of New York, has been the right-hand man of Mr. Roosevelt in his efforts to obtain farm relief legislation at this session of Congress. He is well acquainted with the agriculture problems.

Returning here shortly after noon today from Albany, the President-elect went into immediate conference with James A. Farley, national party chairman and master of patronage. They talked over the multitude of men to be picked for places in the new Government. There were no announcements.

Mr. Roosevelt made it emphatic that he would have no more selections to announce before next week. On the porch of his home here, he told newspapermen that most of the last week before his inauguration would be devoted to preparation of his inaugural address and to packing for the White House.

There is no doubt that the President-elect is giving plenty of consideration to the farm problem. He disclosed today that he had discussed the subject of wheat and its surplus with W. D. Herridge, the Canadian Minister, at their recent meeting.

GANG PLOT IS HINTED IN 2 PLANE SLAYINGS

12 Men Arrested in Texas After Student, Suicide, Shoots Instructor.

Brownsville, Tex., Feb. 24 (A.P.).—A police theory that a youthful student flier had slain his instructor during a practice flight in order to obtain possession of an airplane for use by a gang of robbers today led to the detention of 12 men.

The student, Erin McCall, 21, shot and killed himself late yesterday at San Benito, Tex., after landing the plane, containing the body of Lehman Nelson, the instructor. Nelson, with a bullet wound in the back of the head, was in the front cockpit of the plane.

At a secret hearing today, District Attorney D. S. Purl began questioning the dozen men taken into custody.

Court records showed that McCall had been convicted for theft several years ago and had served a term in the State Reform School.

Purl said that Nelson was an "entirely innocent victim of circumstances." It was by chance that Nelson flew the plane.

McCall telephoned Bill Williams, who usually piloted the plane, at Harlingen, Tex., yesterday afternoon asking for a lesson. Williams said he could not make the flight, but communicated with Nelson, who agreed to take over the assignment.

Two Kreuger Directors Draw $263,355 Fine

Stockholm, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—The largest fine ever imposed in a Swedish court was entered in the minutes today when Nils Ahlstroem and Erik Sjoestroem, directors of Kreuger & Toll Co., were fined a total of 1,455,000 kronor (approximately $263,355 at current exchange).

The board members were charged with failure to pay receipt stamp duty on a majority of their shares in Boliden gold mine. Ahlstroem and Sjoestroem were convicted and other directors exonerated.

Papal Legate Is Ill Upon Eve of Sailing

New York, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—The Most Rev. Pietro Fumasoni-Biondi, Apostolic Delegate to the United States, who is scheduled to sail for Rome tomorrow to become a cardinal, was ordered to bed today with a heavy cold at the residence of Patrick Cardinal Hayes.

Dr. Raymond P. Sullovan said, however, that the prelate's condition was not serious, that he was sent to bed chiefly as a precautionary measure and that he almost certainly would be able to sail tomorrow on the liner Conte di Savoia. Plans for a farewell archdiocesan service in his honor today were canceled, but a group of churchmen will escort him to the boat, including Mgr. James A. Ryan, president of the Catholic University at Washington, Mgr. Filippo Bernardini, professor of canon law at the university, and Mgr. Paul Marella, auditor of the papal legation in Washington.

Archbishop Fumasoni-Biondi, before leaving Washington, said:

"In bidding farewell to America I do so with a sense of gratitude to God for the abundant blessings He has measured out to me during the decade of my service here. Naturally, too, that farewell is spoken with a certain feeling of sadness in the knowledge that the duties, the association, the friendships, the plans so dear to me during the past years, must yield to the new life tomorrow."

WOMAN BACK HOME, GIRL STILL MISSING

Miss Scholl Seen on Street by Father, Had Recently Been Flu Victim.

While the anxious parents of a 15-year-old Gordon Junior High School girl student, missing since Thursday, sought word of her whereabouts a 24-year-old young woman, who had disappeared, was found by her father as she strolled along a street in Georgetown.

After being missing without word for nearly 30 hours, Miss Anna-Jean Scholl, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Philip Scholl, 4451 Greenwich Parkway, was found late yesterday as she walked along Q street.

Miss Scholl, who has been recovering from a serious attack of influenza, was not questioned at length by her parents as to her absence, but was put to bed against a recurrence of her illness. Col. Scholl said he believed she had gone to a movie the night before with a girl friend, and, missing the last bus, had decided to spend the night with her companion.

Col. Scholl said a friend had called him earlier in the afternoon and told of seeing his daughter in a downtown department store.

The girl still missing is Rosalie Karns, of 2454 Tunlaw road northwest. She left home to go to school Thursday morning. When she did not appear late in the afternoon her parents began inquiries and finally learned she had not arrived at school that day.

Police have since sought fruitlessly to trace her.

Embassy Bomb Proves To Be Sample Grenade

London, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—The Japanese embassy had all the thrill of having received a bomb this afternoon, but tonight smiles replaced careworn frowns when it was revealed the bomb was nothing more than a sample hand grenade, sent by the inventor, who thought the Japanese government might be interested.

The grenade was three to four times the size of an egg and contained no explosives. A letter from the inventor, received tonight, cleared up the mystery after every one had had a good fright.

ALBERT HARRIS DIES OF HEART AILMENT

Architect, 65, Was Designer of Municipal Center for District.

Albert L. Harris, municipal architect of the District since 1921, dropped dead of a heart attack yesterday morning at his home at 1619 Thirtieth street northwest. He suffered an initial heart attack Thursday night, when a physician was called to treat him.

Mr. Harris, who was 65, had designed or supervised the planning of many of the notable District government buildings and schools.

The plan for the Municipal Center approved by the Fine Arts Commission was regarded by Mr. Harris and his associates as one of the most notable pieces of his work for the District.

He was born in Wales, coming to this country at an early age. He had been a District resident for 40 years. For a long period he was engaged in private practice and at the time of his appointment as municipal architect was a member of the firm of Hornblower & Marshall, architects. During the World War he served with the Bureau of Yards and Docks of the Navy Department.

District officials were shocked to learn of the sudden death of Mr. Harris, and many expressed their condolences to the family.

S. B. Walsh, assistant municipal architect, will be acting architect pending action by the Commissioners. He formerly had charge of the office for some time while Mr. Harris was in charge of a separate staff assigned to drafting the municipal center plans and stationed in the Ford Building.

He leaves his wife and a son, William H. Mrs. Harris was visiting in Rochester, N. Y., when he was fatally stricken. Funeral arrangements had not been completed last night.

DRY AGENT ACCUSED OF CONVOYING RUM

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., Feb. 24.—Joseph Randolph Brewer, dry agent formerly in charge of southern Maryland, was accused of convoying truck loads of liquor belonging to an alleged bootlegger of Charles County by a witness in the United States District Court today. The testimony was given by Elmer Maske, 23, of Washington, who was a surprise witness for the Government in the trial of 28 residents of Charles County on charges of conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws.

Brewer, Maske said, used to drive in a car behind the truck which the witness was driving and which contained liquor being taken from Waldorf, the alleged seat of the conspiracy, to Washington.

Describes Brewer Convoy.

Asked by R. Palmer Ingram, defense attorney, whether he knew that Brewer was a prohibition agent, Maske said that he did and that he had met Brewer at a garage in Waldorf.

"I worked for Paul Robinson (Paul C. Robinson, one of the men on trial) and used to drive trucks with his whisky into Washington," the witness said, adding that the liquor came from four warehouses owned by the defendant.

In reply to another question by Mr. Ingram the witness said:

"I worked for Mr. Robinson and his friend, Mr. Joe Brewer. I met Mr. Brewer after I started to work for Mr. Robinson in August, 1928. Mr. Brewer used to meet me on the road at night and give me protection while I was driving the truck with the whisky in it. He never followed me all the way to Washington."

Brewer to Get Subpena.

During the trips, Maske said, Brewer always was alone in his car.

"Is Mr. Brewer in this district?" Judge W. Calvin Chest, who is presiding at the trial, asked.

When the judge was informed that he was not, Mr. Ingram asked that a subpena be issued to have Brewer in court Monday.

The subpena later was dispatched by air mail to Brewer, who recently was transferred to Charleston, S. C.

JAPAN'S DELEGATES QUIT LEAGUE GROUP

Geneva, Feb. 24 (U.P.).—A defiant Japanese delegation haughtily withdrew from the League of Nations Assembly today when the assembly unanimously approved a report condemning Japan for her military activity in Manchuria.

The assembly's report, recommending that Japan withdraw her troops now occupying Manchuria and return the country to Chinese sovereignty, was adopted, 42 to 1. Japan voted against it. Paul Hymans, presiding, announced the vote was unanimous, since the vote of interested parties does not count. Siam abstained from voting, and 13 states, mostly Latin-American, failed to answer the roll call.

The Japanese listened silently to the roll call. Then, as the final ballot was announced, the entire delegation, led by Yosuke Matsuoka, austere in his garb of black, arose and walked from the assembly room.

Hisses and Applause.

"We are not coming back!" Matsuoka said, as they left.

The assembly sat in silence, watching the withdrawal. It had been expected, but the actual departure was a shock to the stunned international conclave, representing almost every nation. From the crowded galleries came mingled hisses and applause.

A moment later Sir Eric Drummond, secretary general of the league, hurried from the hall to his office. A letter, already typed and awaiting his signature lay on his desk. He signed it and sent copies to the postoffice for immediate dispatch to the powers.

It was an invitation to participate in a consultative committee which is the league's next step in its persistent efforts to arrange a peaceful settlement of the Manchuria dispute between China and Japan. The United States and Soviet Russia were invited, although not members of the league. Their participation was anticipated.

Japan's Final Appeal.

Matsuoka's departure came after his final appeal that the assembly refrain from condemning Japan and move more slowly in its conciliation proceedings. The league refused.

"This means the withdrawal of our delegation from the league," he said later. "We can not longer cooperate with the league on this question."

The Chinese delegation was jubilant at the assembly's action.

"The policy of my country has been upheld," Dr. W. W. Yen, chief delegate, commented. "The sufferings of my people for the last 17 months against the most wanton aggression ever recorded in the annals of human civilization have not been in vain."

Japan's formal resignation from the league was expected to be filed shortly.

Chinchow, Manchuria, (Saturday), Feb. 25 (A.P.).—In the opening phase of their offensive in the Chinese province of Jehol, the Japanese have encountered the feeblest resistance, and seized the strategic cities of Chaoyang, Kailu and Peipiao at little cost.

20,000 Surrender.

Twenty thousand Chinese "guerillas" had surrendered to the Japanese today, mostly in the region west of Tungliao.

Chinese defenders at several points fled as the Japanese approached. This was particularly true at Peipiao, railhead of the Chinchow-Peipiao railroad spur and a jumping-off place for the drive to wrest Jehol from the Chinese and add it to the Japanese sponsored State of Manchukuo.

Last Wednesday 35 Japanese soldiers on an armored train occupied the city, losing only one private. (Previous reports said the Japanese sufferred one casualty in a "preliminary" assault on Chaoyangsu, near Chaoyang).

Heavy cannonading was heard yesterday in the vicinity of Shanhaikwan, the city where the great Chinese wall goes down to the sea, which was taken early in January by the Japanese. It was believed that the Chinese were attempting to ascertain the strength of the Japanese garrison there, but the Japanese did not reply to the gunfire.

Two Kill Union Agent In Streets of Chicago

Chicago, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—Dennis Ziegler, 57, business agent for the Hoisting Engineers Union, was shot to death on a street tonight by two men who escaped in an automobile. He was wounded in the head and was unable to talk before he died.

There were recent reports of trouble in the union's ranks and its offices were guarded by police until about two weeks ago, when an agreement was reached by the disputing factions, authorities said.

Mrs. Roosevelt Backs Employment of Wives

New York, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—Discussing the employment of married women in a time of economic depression, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt tonight said it "seems foolish and arbitrary . . . not worthy of American traditions" to say "indiscriminately" that no married woman shall continue her work.

Tennesseean, in Larceny of $100,000, Says Fund Is for Politics.

Acting under a search warrant issued by Judge Isaac R. Hitt, in Police Court, deputy United States marshals yesterday seized $22,000 in cash in a safety deposit box in the District National Bank.

The money is believed to be part of the proceeds of the sale of securities valued at $100,000 which allegedly disappeared from the office of Joseph I. Reece, former commissioner of insurance and banking, at Nashville, Tenn.

The bills, 14 of then being of $1,000 denomination and the remainder in $500 notes, are in the custody of United States Marshal E. C. Snyder, pending the outcome of court litigation to determine ownership.

Brother of Representative.

Reece, a brother of Representative-elect B. Carroll Reece, of Tennessee, was taken into custody here February 11, as a fugitive from Tennessee.

He voluntarily agreed to go back to his home State, where, it is understood, charges of the larceny of $100,000 of the funds of the blue sky division of the Tennessee State Insurance Department have been placed against him.

Tennessee authorities yesterday secured from Acting United States Attorney John W. Fihelly his sanction to the searching of the safety deposit box.

Deposit Slips Found.

Mr. Fihelly was informed that L. L. Reece, brother to Joseph I. Reece, had rented the box in the name of W. H. Myers. They also informed Mr. Fihelly they expected to find either securities or cash in the box.

When Joseph Reece was arrested here on the complaint of Tennessee authorities, four safety deposit box keys and deposit slips ranging from $75 to $3,000 were found. The deposit slips were from banks in various portions of the country.

Reece is now in Tennessee where a further investigation of his alleged defalcations is being made.

Political Campaign Funds.

Nashville, Tenn., Feb. 24 (A.P.).—Former State Insurance Commissioner Joseph I. Reece said in an answer filed yesterday to a civil suit that the $22,000 found in a lock box in Washington in no way related to the alleged $100,000 bond abstraction from the State Insurance Department here but constituted political campaign funds.

Reece declared he had gathered campaign funds for his brother, Representative-elect B. Carroll Reece, a Republican, and Gov. Hill McAlister, a Democrat, and that the $22,000 did not constitute "any part, directly or indirectly, of the proceeds" from the sale of the insurance department bonds.

"The said currency," the answer continued, referring to the $22,000, "was transferred by this defendant from Tennessee to said lock box in Washington and were a part of the collections for the anticipated McAlister-Reece campaign funds."

Reece denied knowledge of the disappearance of the $100,000 of bonds.

Roosevelt Asked to Give Mitchell Army Air Post

(Associated Press.)

Representative McClintic (Democrat), Oklahoma, has suggested to President-elect Roosevelt the appointment of Brig. Gen. William Mitchell, retired, as Assistant Secretary of War for Aviation. The Oklahoman, ranking Democrat on the House Naval Committee, yesterday made public a letter he sent to Mr. Roosevelt in December urging Mitchell's appointment.

Mitchell, former chief of the Army Air Corps and head of the American Air Forces in Europe during the World War, now lives at Middleburg, Va. He was active in the support of former Gov. Harry Flood Byrd for the presidential nomination.

Extradition Treaty Strengthening, Aim

(Associated Press.)

Aroused over the escapes of fraudulent stock promoters and others from extradition proceedings abroad, Attorney General Mitchell yesterday disclosed the start of an effort to strengthen the Nation's extradition treaties.

After a conference with Secretary Stimson, at which it was agreed to initiate this move, Mitchell said he hoped to plug such avenues as those through which Samuel Insull has evaded efforts to return him to the United States.

The Attorney General said that although considerable time would be required to alter existing treaties, he hoped that some changes might be made retroactive, and that if present efforts to return Insull were unavailing, the treaty changes would provide suitable weapons.

Several stock promoters wanted by the Government for using the mails to defraud, Mitchell said, have escaped to foreign countries and have likewise evaded extradition through a "queer quirk" in the agreements. He did not name the men wanted.

Worst Blizzard for Years Sweeps Over British Isles

80 Members of Children's Choir Are Rescued in Wales; Were Marooned in Snow-Blocked Roads; Man Found Dead in Drift.

London, Feb. 24 (U.P.).—The worst blizzard in years swept the British Isles today, isolating villages and interrupting communications.

Eighty children of the Trecynon Juvenile Choir, whose whereabouts were unknown for several hours, were located by police at St. Clears, in West Wales, where they were stranded by the storm. They were en route to London by bus.

One man was found dead in a snowdrift near Bridgent, Wales.

Icy winds piled the blinding snow into drifts 10 to 12 feet deep. Communications with Ireland were interrupted. The greater part of Wales was completely cut off.

The greatest suffering was reported in Yorkshire, in northeastern England. Farmers reported scores of flocks of sheep buried deep in drifts, where many perished. Farmers, braving the storm, dug into the snow to liberate them.

Weather bureau officials said the storm in Yorkshire was the worst in 38 years.

Thousands of persons in the countryside, both in northern England and throughout Wales, were snowbound in their homes. Roads throughout the country were impassable, and hundreds of motor cars were abandoned, while their occupants plodded afoot to the nearest houses.

Japanese to Warn Jehol Missionaries

Planes Will Drop Leaflets Urging Them to Quit Danger Zones.

Chinchow, Manchuria, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—Leaflets warning missionaries to quit "danger zones" in the Province of Jehol, theater of Japan's latest military campaign, will be dropped from airplanes, the Japanese command announced today.

So far as the American consul in Mukden knows, there are no Americans in Jehol. At Chaoyang, Chihfeng, Lingyuan and Jehol City there are about a score of British Protestant missionaries, and in southeastern Jehol there are about 50 Belgian Catholic priests.

The Japanese reported that Gov. Tang Yu-Lin of Jehol has constructed three elaborate and lavishly furnished underground chambers at different points in the province as protection against air raids. Each of these chambers would hold 100 persons, the Japanese said.

Disturbances Mark Cuban Liberty Day

Machete Wielders Slash Wires But Officials Report All Quiet.

Havana, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—Various disturbances throughout Cuba last night and today marked the republic's celebration of its thirty-eighth independence day, but tonight the capital was without evidence to indicate any organized movement against President Machado's government, as has been rumored.

Telephone and telegraph lines slashed by machete wielders near Camaguey last evening were repaired. Despite the restoration of communications, however, military censorship continued to veil with deepest secrecy the true situation in the interior.

The few government offices open on the holiday gave out word that "all is tranquil."

Doctor on Parole In Counterfeit Case

Is Ordered to Chicago to Face Indictment But May Appeal.

New York, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—Dr. V. Gregory Burtan, New York heart specialist, must go to Chicago to face an indictment charging possession of counterfeit money, Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe ruled today.

The physician, who says he was innocently involved through professional services to a patient, was given until Monday to appeal the order and paroled to his attorney. The Government charges that he possessed $90,000 in counterfeit bills in Chicago last December 10, and that he is a principal in an international plot.

Meanwhile Federal agents continued their search to locate the source of the counterfeit bills, said to have been the best imitation ever uncovered in this country.

Ruth Judd Mercy Hearing Postponed

Date Is Changed to March 14 Due to Press of Official Business.

Phoenix, Ariz., Feb. 24 (A.P.).—The State Board of Pardons and Paroles today postponed until March 14 the date for the clemency hearing of Winnie Ruth Judd, under death sentence in the double trunk murder case.

The date had been set for March 6, but was changed because of legislative matters pending before Attorney General Arthur T. Laprade and absence from the State of Herman Hendrix, superintendent of public instruction. Both are members of the board, with Lynn B. Orme, chairman.

A 56-day reprieve granted the blonde slayer, sentenced to be hanged for the murder of Agnes Anne Leroi, fixed the execution date for April 14.

Five Experts Study Budget Reductions

Roosevelt Group Pushes Plan to Cut U. S. Costs Billion.

(Associated Press.)

Five persons, all of whom may play a prominent part in the incoming administration, were busily engaged last night in a sweeping inquiry into governmental expenditures and every possible method of tightening the Federal purse string.

They were Representative Lewis Douglas, of Arizona, who will be Director of the Budget in the Roosevelt administration; Swagar Sherley, former member of the House of Representatives; Senator Byrnes, of South Carolina; Walker D. Hines, former director general of the railroads, and Daniel C. Roper, former Internal Revenue Commissioner and the next Secretary of Commerce.

The purpose of the survey is to have perpared almost the moment Mr. Roosevelt takes office next week, a complete program approaching as nearly as possible the promise of the President-elect during the campaign to slice $1,000,000,000 annually from the Federal budget.

Conference to Be Held On Andrews' Resigning

Richmond, Va., Feb. 24 (A.P.).—Gov. Pollard will confer tomorrow with members of the State corporation commission, the State auditing committee and Attorney General John R. Saunders on the question of accepting the proffered resignation of T. Coleman Andrews, State auditor of public accounts.

Mr. Andrews has offered to resign if, in the opinion of the governor, his connection and that of his firm of accountants with the investigation of power rates in Virginia would prove embarrassing to any one.

RITCHIE ASKS STATE SLASH OF $2,823,000

Legislature Told Economy Would Remove Need of New General Tax.

By Staff Correspondent.

Annapolis, Md., Feb. 24.—Additional budget cuts of $2,823,000, including a 40 per cent reduction in the University of Maryland appropriation, were proposed by Gov. Albert C. Ritchie to a joint session of the Senate Finance and House Ways and Means committees today.

These savings will remove the necessity for any new general tax, Gov. Ritchie said. He will ask the Assembly to levy a 1 cent tax on race track bets, which will be the only new source of income. With these savings county taxes will be reduced 20 cents on $100 and Baltimore City's relief expenditures will be funded.

The additional $2,823,000 was cut from the budget by "drastic reductions" in the appropriations for all departments and institutions, and by a graduated salary cut. Reorganization of State departments, probably by Budget Director Walter N. Kirkman, is also a part of the program.

The salary cuts will be 10 per cent on less than $1,200; 11 per cent, $1,200 to $1,799; 12 per cent, $1,800 to $2,399; 13 per cent, $2,400 to $2,999; 14 per cent, $3,000 to $3,599; 15 per cent, over $3,600. This graduated scale is expected to result in a saving of $248,536.

The University of Maryland is cut $466,474, including the original recommended cut of $201,018. The reduction has not been itemized, but will be worked out with university officials after the Senate investigating committee has rendered its report.

"The reductions I propose approximate 10 per cent on departmental operating expenses, 3 to 5 per cent on institutional operating expenses, and a further flat reduction of 10 per cent on the total budgets of all departments and institutions," the governor said.

Schools Cut Half Million.

A saving of $1,335,129 is expected under this item, not including cuts from the Motor Vehicle Department and the State Roads Commission. The 25 new State policemen are being cut from the motor vehicle budget and with other reductions will save $147,214. The roads commission is being cut $256,596.

The school system is being reduced a little over half a million dollars through:

(1). Eliminating raises in teachers' salaries given for increased experience.

(2). Eliminating additional teachers where called for by increased enrollment.

(3). Cutting one-half from the State aid for school buses, leaving the counties to pay the other half.

Cutting Special Studies.

Gov. Ritchie did not advise cutting out home economics, manual training and music, but said that their elimination would save $97,186. If they are struck out by the Legislature, he will rebudget this additional saving to apply it to tax relief, he said. He also suggested that the minimum number of school supervisors be reduced to one per county, and pointed out that any county could eliminate its attendance officer by local action.

State aid to a number of private schools and other semipublic institutions will be cut 10 per cent, saving $42,200.

The budget savings will be pooled with the $300,000 expected from the tax on bets, and $300,000 in motor vehicle fines to be diverted to this pool, making a total of $3,400,000. Of this amount the $400,000 will be set aside, and the remaining $3,000,000 will be divided equally between the counties and Baltimore City.

$400,000 Deficit Fund.

If, after reorganization and in spite of drastic economy, any department finds it impossible to operate on its reduced budget, its deficit will be made up out of the $400,000 fund, Gov. Ritchie said. "Possibly these cuts are too severe, so the $400,000 will be kept in a reserve fund," he added.

"The $1,500,000 of said fund allotted to the counties will be apportioned on the population basis and applied to the reduction of county school levies. This will enable the counties in the equalization fund to reduce their 67-cent school levies to 47 cents, and will also afford substantial relief to the nonequalization counties in their local school taxes," the governor said.

Gov. Ritchie presented a table showing total tax reductions so far effected in the counties. This includes the 3-cent reduction in the State tax rate and the road taxes eliminated by the gas tax diversion. According to the table, the Montgomery County saving is 32 cents on $100; the Prince Georges cut, 44 cents on $100; the Frederick County saving, 58 cents; Charles County, $1.38 lower, and St. Marys, $1.32 lower.

FITZGERALD DEATH NOW LAID TO FEAR

outcome of a coroner's inquest, scheduled for noon today.

When questioned about a mop found with bloodstains, Mrs. Fitzgerald said that Helen Roberts, 8, who told police she heard the body strike the floor, must have mopped the floor as she did not "remember doing it." Later, Helen Roberts denied she had mopped the floor.

Cut Laid to Fall.

A deep cut found in the back of Fitzgerald's head was caused by his fall, Detective Flaherty, of headquarters, said. A scarlet welt just under the dead man's chin, running from ear to ear, was caused by the tight necktie, police said.

Among the dead man's effects was found a note saying that a small life insurance policy had been paid until March 15.

Mrs. Fitzgerald, mother of a 3-year-old child, said she and her husband had been separated about a year ago. She went to Pittsburgh, leaving her baby with her husband's parents here. She returned to Washington about a year ago after they became reconciled.

The Federal Diary

By GEORGE D. RILEY.

WHEN a new Cabinet minister is announced the public at large is interested in knowing what kind of a man he is. Sometimes a small incident will indicate his character. Such an incident is related by a former special examiner of the old Pension Bureau, who in the course of his official work had to call upon Cordell Hull at his home in Gainesboro, Jackson County, Tenn., north of Nashville, in the year 1905, when he was plain "Judge Hull," a local magistrate.

The special examiner, upon interviewing him, found the young judge possessed of phenomenal memory of details of the pension case in hand, which involved a member of his company in the Spanish War, and his manner of giving testimony in the case marked him as an unusually clear-headed witness. The pension man incidentally heard some stories of the character of the young magistrate, one of which was as follows:

One of the Gainesboro boys, whose father was a leading politician of the little town, was decidedly tough, and in company with other incipient gangsters, committed some serious offense, such as possibly burglary. "Charlie," or whatever was the name of the bad boy, was caught and held for trial. His uncle, also a political power in the town, approached Judge Hull with the request that he "go easy" on the boy, and "send him home to his mammy, for you know, Judge, that none of us has ever been in jail, and we hold the political situation here in the hollow of our hands, and have always stuck up for you."

"Is the boy guilty?" asked the judge.

"I guess he is," answered the uncle nonchalantly; "you know boys will be boys."

"Well, if he is guilty, he will go to jail; that's all I can tell you. Politics don't cut any figure with me; I am here to administer the law according to the evidence, and that's what I am going to do."

THE result was that Charlie went to jail and served his sentence.

One story was to the effect that when he got out he went to Judge Hull and thanked him, declaring: "You've taught me my lesson, and made a man of me." And instead of losing ground, Judge Hull grew in popular favor and went to Congress, since which time his history as the author of the Federal income tax law and other distinguished services have made him a familiar figure in national history.

It is predicted that the calm, cool judgment and unswerving adherence to the right course that distinguished him as an obscure magistrate in northern Tennessee will mark his course as a world figure in the immensely important position of the head of our foreign office.

Sergt. York, who came from one of the neighboring counties of northern Tennessee, the outstanding hero of the World War, is another representative of the stern stuff of which these fellow-countrymen of Andrew Jackson are made.

LEGISLATIVE disorganization of the Federal Trade Commission is opposed by the national legislative committee of the American Federation of Government Employes. Indorsement of opposition to such move is voiced in a resolution.

The A. F. G. E. headquarters announced the following statement prepared by the committee also has received the approval of William Green, president American Federation of Labor:

"Consumers throughout the country feel that the present legislative tactics leading to the disorganization of the Federal Trade Commission are in effect an effort to deprive them of their constitutional right to legal economic counsel. Without the benefit of such a permanent organization of trained and experienced economists consumers would have no legally constituted body to advise and protect them. The commission has saved billions of dollars to the consumers of the country by its alertness in minimizing exploitation, fraud and misrepresentation in interstate business. The women, particularly, recognize the fact that the activity of the commission is their safeguard in the daily transactions which make up the bulk of the Nation's business.

"The action of the House of Representatives in curtailing the appropriation for the work of the Federal Trade Commission is tantamount to a revocation of representative government. Popular or representative government ceases when important legislation affecting the economic stability of the Government and the welfare of the individual is dictated by selfish classes."

BENJAMIN D. STALLINGS, formerly in Agriculture, division of publications, and one of the old-timers, was a caller at the department last week. He moved from place to place, never failing to see a familiar face and, on occasion, he held a general get-together with former associates. After 42 years in Government employ—32 years of which period was in the Department of Agriculture—he retired in 1928. He held successively the positions of proofreader, indexer, assistant editor, associate editor, editor and assistant chief, and administrative officer of the division.

"B. D." is endowed with a genial personality and, while he has reached fourscore years of life, his gentility of manner is still evident. During his active service departmentally, he gained a distinct reputation for his willingness to be always of aid to any one. It is one of his fine heritages as a public servant.

New York, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—Social duties incident to her position as wife of the incoming President are going to prevent Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt from carrying out her wish to drive her own car to Washington for the inauguration, accompanied by her two dogs.

"Of course," she said, "my place will be on the train, too, as their hostess."

DISTRICT MAY SEEK $300,000 MORE AID

Commissioners Study Plea of Welfare Board for Increased Relief.

The District Commissioners today will consider the recommendation of the Board of Public Welfare that an additional appropriation of $300,000 be asked of Congress to meet unemployment relief needs for the remainder of the fiscal year ending June 30. It is expected that the request will be sped along to the Budget Bureau, so that it may reach Capitol Hill early next week.

At a special meeting yesterday afternoon the welfare board decided upon an estimate of $300,000 upon the basis of reports from Leroy A. Halbert, director of emergency relief, that the present appropriation of $625,000 would fall $300,000 short of caring for the more than 8,000 dependent families now on the municipal welfare lists until July 1. The motion was made by Sidney P. Taliaferro, chairman of the emergency unemployment relief committee.

The extra $100,000 is intended to take care of anticipated increases in applications for relief and a limited number of single men now barred because of inadequate funds.

Bingham Urged Meeting.

The welfare board was called into special session at the suggestion of Senator Bingham (Republican), Connecticut, and other members of the Senate District Committee, which Thursday heard a report of the dire need from George S. Wilson, public welfare director.

If the number of unemployed in Washington remains the same or increases during the second half of the calendar year, additional funds will have to be asked to supplement the expected $625,000 item carried in the District appropriations bill. Whether this money will be asked of the special session of Congress or whether reliance will be placed on the passage of the bill to enable the District government to borrow money from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is conjectural.

$3.65 Family Quota.

Although the last appropriation of $625,000 was not made available until the latter part of January, $193,000 has been expended, though approximately $75,000 was applied to private loans and charge accounts which had arisen after the exhaustion of previous funds.

Despite the fact that unemployment relief is being distributed at the rate of $33,000 a week, the average amount paid a family of four still runs close to $3.65 and a number of applicants equal to those being cared for has been rejected for one reason or another.

HULL TODAY BEGINS DEBT CONFERENCES

of many treaties in use at present. Several liberal groups in New York and Boston are urging his appointment.

Senator Hull first read a prepared statement but later developed this in his replies to questions. The reference to "sanctity of treaties" contained in his formal announcement was first made by the President-elect after he had indicated his intention of following the policy of the Hoover administration in the Far East. This was confirmed in the Senator's statement where he said:

"There should be no laxity on the part of this or any other nation in the observance of both the letter and the spirit of treaties and of international good faith."

In view of the Japanese resignation from the League of Nations yesterday and the sudden renewal of the operations against China in Jehol, the emphasis of this part of the statement was significant. The principal concern of the new Secretary of State will be in the field of economic improvement through reciprocal tariff treaties. He has long enjoyed a reputation as an expert on tariffs and his appointment by the President-elect is characteristic of the importance which will be attached to these treaties. Negotiations undoubtedly will be inaugurated soon for the first of these treaties with the Dominion of Canada.

Society of Cincinnati Annual Dinner Tonight.

Although no official branch of the Society of the Cincinnati exists in the District of Columbia, it has for many years been the custom for members to gather at an annual dinner at the Army and Navy Club. The 1933 dinner will be held tonight.

The dinner this year will be of special significance, since 1933 will mark the 150th anniversary of the founding of the Society of the Cincinnati. This, the oldest of American hereditary societies, was formed by officers of the Continental line after the American independence had been achieved. In a century and a half of its existence the society has had but twelve presidents general, the present incumbent being Mr. John C. Daves, of Baltimore, who is also the president of the North Carolina branch society. The Cincinnati is divided into fourteen societies, one in each of the 13 original States and one in France. It is expected that the 1933 dinner will be attended by the presidents of a number of the State societies, including Dr. William S. Thomas, president of the New York Society; Col. Bryce Metcalf, president of the Connecticut Society; Dr. William H. Wilmer, president of the New Jersey Society; Judge H. Randall Webb, president of the Maryland Society; Maj. Edgar Erskine Hume, president of the Virginia Society; Mr. John C. Daves, president of the North Carolina Society, and possibly a few others.

The society comprises now approximately 1,500 members, there having been 2,000 at the time of its foundation in 1783. Succession of membership follows the line of primogeniture, a member being succeeded by his eldest son.

The toastmaster at the dinner will be Admiral Hilary P. Jones, U. S. N., retired, and it is expected that five of the six general officers will be present, including President General Daves, Vice President General Metcalf, Secretary General Foster, Assistant Secretary General Hume, Treasurer General Webb. The president general will wear on this occasion the eagle of this society, which was designed by Maj. l'Enfant, who laid out the City of Washington.

The St. Thomas Dramatic and Social Club will hold its first annual dance at the Shoreham Hotel tonight. The committee is headed by Miss Shannon Baker, assisted by Miss Marian Ryan, Miss Adrienne Doyle, Mr. Bernard Folliard and Mr. James Shinn.

The Women's Guild of American University is holding a tea and food sale at the home of Mrs. George B. Woods, in Wesley Heights, today from 2 to 6 p. m., when the hostess will be assisted in receiving by Mrs. Delos O. Kinsman, Mrs. Peter M. Anderson, and Mrs. Wright. Presiding at the tea table will be Mrs. Frederick Harris, Mrs. Mary Logan Tucker, Mrs. Franklin D. Jones and Mrs. Olds. Mrs. Wesley M. Gewehr is in charge of arrangements.

Tuesday Music Club Reception Tomorrow.

The Tuesday Evening Music Club will hold its annual winter reception on tomorrow afternoon from 4 to 7 o'clock at the studios, 1729 G street. Florence Howard, the director, has planned an elaborate program of choral and solo music to be given in the large studio, while tea will be served in the smaller studios.

Mrs. Eugene Byrnes, Miss Lucy Brickenstein, Mrs. Walter Hilton, Mrs. Grete von Bayer, Mrs. Earle Shinn, Mrs. Edgar Nelson, Mrs. William T. Pierson and Miss Fannie Noack will pour. Mrs. Ethel Hoffman Kane and Miss Katherine Heald will assist Mrs. Howard in receiving, as will Miss Elma Dotter, president of the club; Mrs. Helen Neumeyer Perry and Mrs. Laura Hayes Lyle, members of the board of governors, and Miss Harriette Rissler, chairman of the reception committee. Miss Marjorie Davis is the accompanist for the singers.

Miss Elsie Wade Stone, president of the Columbia Bible Training School, will entertain at tea tomorrow afternoon, at 4 o'clock, in the parlors of the school, 1724 H street northwest, in honor of Miss Lucy Steele, who is on furlough from the Americano Evangelico College of Mines, Vergniha, Brazil, South America, the missionary college of the eastern coast of South America under the Southern Presbyterian Church. Miss Steele will tell of her interesting experiences as a missionary.

Mr. Maurice Bates, organizer of the American Christian Youth, will speak on the "Present Day Needs of America."

The staff of the Trinity College Times is sponsoring a tea dance to be held at the Willard this afternoon from 4 until 7 o'clock. Mary Colina, of Waterbury, Conn., editor in chief of the Trinity Times, is general chairman. Assisting her are Helen Cusick, Roberta Leonard, Lucie McAnany, Eileen McGrath, Mary McDonald, Ruth Sullivan, Florence Cusick and Elinor Kane.

Col. Donelson Chapter Has Afternoon Tea.

Col. John Donelson Chapter, D. A. R., entertained at a tea yesterday afternoon at the home of the regent, Mrs. Harry C. Oberholser, when the guest of honor was Miss Helen Harman, candidate for vice president general from the District of Columbia.

Those receiving with Miss Harman were Mrs. John M. Beavers, corresponding secretary general; Mrs. Harry Colfax Grove, State regent, District of Columbia D. A. R.; Mrs. David D. Caldwell, vice president general; Mrs. Carl G. Bachmann, an associate member of the chapter, and Miss Louise Smith. Those assisting in the dining room were Mrs. G. F. Day, Mrs. Lyman P. Kebler, Mrs. O. E. Gibson and other chapter members.

Among those pouring were Mrs. Frances A. Clair, Mrs. William B. Hardy, Mrs. G. Wallace W. Hanger, Mrs. George M. Grimes, State vice regent; Mrs. James H. Mackey and Mrs. S. S. Allen.

A musical program was rendered by Mrs. Ralph P. Barnard and Mrs. Frank Rice, accompanied by Mrs. James Shera Montgomery.

Veterans of Holy Land Campaign Will Speak

Capt. James d'Orsay Murray, staff captain liaison officer, G. H. Q., with Field Marshal Allenby in his Palestine campaign which won the Holy Land from the Turks in 1917, will describe the campaign in a lecture at the Central Y. M. C. A. Sunday at 4:30 p. m.

Capt. Murray has had a varied military career. He is a veteran of the Spanish War. From March to May, 1915, he was an ambulance driver in France. He enlisted in the British army, where he had the distinction of being the only American to serve on the staff of five British generals. He was in the Flanders campaign of 1915 and the Somme in 1916. Among his seven decorations are the Mons Star, British General Service Medal, and the Medal of Cavaliere, Order of the Crown of Italy.

Letters of a Capital Society Divorcee to Her Mother

Dearest Mother: Perhaps you have wondered about the people who live here in Reno other than the Divorce Colony. The best residential district is called Newlands Circle, after Senator Newlands, and the houses around there are mostly occupied by the most successful lawyers and doctors and their families. Then there is a university set, also a number of women's clubs. The several churches are well attended. For a small town they are a very active lot, and don't seem to avail themselves much of the 24-hour divorce privilege. In cases where divorcees from the East have broken up their homes the women are bitter, but for the most part, Reno residents are indulgent toward the "mistake makers" that invade their town. After all, they realize that without "us" Reno could not be the "biggest little city in the world." What would the shops do without these transients and how would the lawyers wax rich? We are the goose that lays their golden egg. Besides, a fair per cent of their own women are Easterners who came to divorce and remained to marry. These are particularly hospitable and glad of contacts with other Easterners. On the whole, it is a very agreeable, progressive and popular town. It is only because we are here under compulsion and scratching off days on the calendar that we are so restless and anxious to leave. As I said to one of the natives, even Paradise under those circumstances wouldn't seem desirable.

The manicurist was funny today. She came to my room, and I was out, so she read the New York Social Register while she waited, and told me that "really she knew lots of those people." She has been here for nine years.

One of the girls told me that her sister is coming out the day she gets back. Her mother didn't want them both to come out at once, as the sisters are very congenial and going to live together after this is over, and she didn't want people saying that they influenced each other to leave their husbands. Apparently this girl is one of the few exceptions who do not want to marry again. She said: "Won't it be nice? We will have all the advantages of being married and none of the disadvantages." Neither one is asking any alimony, but they have plenty. ELIZABETH.

CHOOSING THE RIGHT BID.

An immediate Overcall of opponents' bid suit is rarely justified by one's holding. Usually a hand does not contain quite enough strength to require partner to continue bidding until a game is reached, and the alternate course of the Take-out Double is always available. However, in those rare cases where such a bid is possible it should be given at once, as undue delay may shut out a valuable round of bidding.

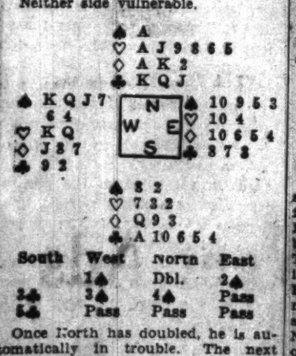
West, Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.



South	West	North	East
1♠	3♣	Dbl.	4♠
5♣	Pass	Pass	Pass

Once North has doubled, he is automatically in trouble. The next time the bidding reaches him he is confronted with a choice between showing his heart suit and showing his control of the spade suit. His decision to bid for spades is probably correct, as it seems almost certain that a bid of four hearts will be passed. South, having already made a free bid, can do no more than bid five clubs, and now if North wishes to show the hearts he has to do so at the range of five. His decision to pass was a little conservative, but can not be severely criticized.

The whole trouble with the hand was the Double. An immediate bid of two spades would have enabled him to bid the hearts later at a lower figure, as East's Raise would have been shut out and West would not have dared rebid to three spades without any help from partner. The bidding would, therefore, proceed along these lines:

South	West	North	East
	1♠	2♠	Pass
3♣	Pass	3♡	Pass
4♡	Pass	6♡	Pass
Pass	Pass

Even if West does put in the three spade bid, South should do some further bidding over four hearts, as his bid of three clubs was a forced bid and showed no strength at all. This hand illustrates the many subtle inferences available in the game of Bridge. The two spade bid must be made so that the heart suit can be shown below game, and even though North may not be entirely conscious of this at first, he should make his technically correct bid.

A New Yorker At Large

By MARK MARRON.

NEW YORK—Joe Cook is back from a very unhappy invasion of London, and the great trek of celebrities has started anew to his Lake Hoptacong estate.

This pride of Evansville, Ind. (although he is really Spanish and born Joseph Lopez), brought his comicalities to the Piccadilly stage right at the heat of the "Buy British" campaign, and he found our cousins across the sea in no mood to entertain Broadway stars.

Mine Host Joe.

When a brochure upon world famous hosts is compiled, then the name of Cook must come well up at the head of the list. His domain on a New Jersey lake has been built especially for the entertainment of his famous guests.

And what a line-up of guests: Jack Dempsey, Gov. A. Harry Moore, Marc Connelly, the late Hudson Maxim — in fact, the list includes spotlight names from such varied professions as politics, journalism, art, music, theater, police departments, diplomacy. His parties are democratic. Virtually every stage hand in Manhattan has been there.

One of his typical parties will include a senator, a prize fighter, a portrait painter, a newspaperman, a stage hand, a musician, a detective, and a couple of fellows who are just out of work.

They come there for conversation, sports and food that delights the most exacting of epicures. Besides his many talents on the stage, Joe is a noted chef. His pride is a huge outdoor fireplace where he barbecues chickens, steaks and spare ribs in the wood of a smoke fire and smothers them in paprika-flavored gravy.

Maxim, whose laboratories were nearby, often put aside his experiments with high explosives to drop over to Cook's and try out his own favorite recipes at that outdoor fireplace.

The two show spots of the place are the museum and the golf course. The museum has for its purpose the exhibition of any article one can name which is now larger than a man's hand, and there is a prize for anyone who can name such an article that isn't there. The prize never has been claimed.

Fore!

The golf course has several fantastic features. There is one hole where the player must drive through a tunnel. One of the tees is atop a high water tower. Another green is in the shap of a bowl so if the drive goes on the green the player is bound to make a hole in one.

Another green is merely a small island surrounded by a canal. Some players have taken as many as 40 drives to sink a ball on that one.

Cook also has a huge outdoor stage where he and his troupe of acrobat-comedians practice the stunts they pull in his new shows.

JAPAN'S FATEFUL STEP.

Japan has taken the fateful step of breaking off relations with the League of Nations, and is following this by making war against China. The assembly of the league, by a vote of 42 nations, holds Japan responsible for aggression in Manchuria.

On the day when Japan antagonizes practically all nations, the policy of the United States is set forth by President-elect Roosevelt's Secretary of State, Cordell Hull, as follows:

> There should be no laxity on the part of this or any other nation in the observance of both the letter and spirit of treaties and of international good faith.

The assembly of the league has appointed a committee of 21 to advise it as to events in the Far East, and has invited the United States and Soviet Russia to appoint representatives on the committee. The United States may or may not accept this invitation, but its co-operation with the nations in holding Japan to account is inevitable; not because of any obligations to the League of Nations, but because Japan is guilty of a breach of "the letter and spirit of treaties and of international good faith."

Whatever the course of events in the Far East from now on, the world indictment against Japan stands, and can not be effaced. As though she were driven by giant forces beyond her control, Japan moves step by step into a position from which she can extricate herself only by slow and painful means if she is to regain an honored place among the nations.

Mr. Matsuoka, in his final word before stalking from the representatives of the nations, stated that "Japan will make the utmost efforts for establishment of peace in the Far East and for maintenance and strengthening of cordial relations with other powers."

The world stands amazed at the blindness of Japanese diplomacy in thus assuming that Japan can maintain cordial relations with other powers while trampling upon treaties which she has made with them. They do not intend to take her by the throat in Manchuria, it is true; but the Japanese Empire is concerned with many matters besides the Manchurian adventure. As events are developing it is a certainty that the world powers must and will place Japan in the special category of a nation that can not be trusted to observe international good faith.

What is the signature of Japan now worth at the bottom of a treaty for the reduction or limitation of armaments?

What value can be attached to the pledge of Japan in any treaties or agreements resulting from the proposed world economic conference?

Is the purpose of the Roosevelt administration to associate itself with Japan in international conferences, as an honored equal, in spite of Japan's breach of treaties and of international good faith, after Mr. Roosevelt has held that "the sanctity of treaties is the corner stone upon which all relations between nations must rest"?

The logical consequence of Japan's breach of treaties and war aggression is the breaking of diplomatic relations. The nations have been hoping that this step could be avoided by a change of policy on the part of Japan. If the break comes it will not be the fault of the nations. It will be because Japan forces the nations to take notice that they can no longer deal with her on the basis of respect for treaties and the observance of good faith.

It is not because Japan flouts the assembly of the League of Nations that the nations will be forced to deal with her in a special manner. If there were no league of nations the fact would remain that Japan had made herself an outcast by dishonoring her own signature to treaties pledging peace and respect for the rights of other nations. The current flowing from such a foul source can run in only one direction—toward a rupture of relations. What will follow afterward depends upon the degree of insanity with which Japan's policy is tainted.

BUDGET DIRECTOR DOUGLAS.

Selection of Representative Lewis Douglas, of Arizona, to be Director of the Budget is one of the most popular appointments President-elect Roosevelt has made. During his three terms in Congress Mr. Douglas has acquired a reputation for hard work, conservative views and fearless action. He is precisely the type of man needed to head the Bureau of the Budget during this difficult period.

The appointment of Mr. Douglas takes on special significance because of the tasks that have been assigned to him. President-elect Roosevelt expects him to work out a plan for balancing the budget and for reorganization of the Government service. Both are major undertakings. Under ordinary circumstances Mr. Douglas might have been reluctant to give up his seat in the House, but the grave problems of balancing the budget and of eliminating useless appendages to the Federal service presented to him a challenge that he could not resist.

If Representative Douglas is given a free hand, probably the first economy he will recommend will be the elimination of veterans who were not injured in the war from the pension rolls. The new Budget Director is a veteran himself. A number of decorations attest his bravery under fire. But he is vigorously opposed to the payment of hundreds of millions of dollars in doles to veterans who suffered no injury in the war. He was a leading member of the House economy committee which recommended extensive cuts in veterans' allowances last year. Defying the veterans' lobby, he has carried his fight for economy in this field to the floor of the House on several occasions.

In view of his stand for the sales tax as well as for economy, Mr. Douglas may be expected to attack the deficit with a two-edged sword. Economy will doubtless be recommended first; then revenue legislation to make up any deficiency that may remain. It is not to be supposed that he will advocate a sales tax, in view of Mr. Roosevelt's opposition to such a levy, but Mr. Douglas may be trusted to find other means of balancing the budget. The grave danger is not that his program will be inadequate, but that Congress will be less courageous than he.

President-elect Roosevelt's intention to balance the budget could not have been more emphatically made known than through the appointment of Mr. Douglas.

BUSINESS AND POLITICS.

While the country has awaited bulletins from the bedside of Mayor Anton Cermak and hoping for his recovery, much interest has been aroused by his article in the Nation's Business in which, as the result of long experience, he gives his views on the question why the business man placed in a position of political authority often fails to make the success that is expected of him.

The primary cause for failure, he finds, lies in the difference between business and politics. With business organized on the army principle, the head man gives orders like a general, and if they are not obeyed, or properly carried out, the disobedient or inefficient subordinates are quickly replaced. A public official, on the other hand, may have a few people he can dismiss, but as a rule he can't get rid of the more important ones.

The result, the mayor finds, is that the executive must work with men who were elected as he was, or appointed for fixed terms. In order to get things done under such circumstances it is necessary to "pull the wires, bring pressure to bear and use all the tricks that make people shudder. Any man's success as a public administrator depends largely upon his doing this day in and day out in the interest of good public service; if he's no good at it, little is accomplished."

Mayor Cermak has had much experience in both business and politics, and he has observed that many a champion business man fails when he tries to use direct business methods in a political office, and does not learn, or believe it necessary to learn, other ways of accomplishing a desired end until it is too late. These men can analyze a problem and decide what should be done, but decision and accomplishment are quite different.

The business man does not always have the patience to resort to roundabout methods, and the mayor finds that many a good, strong man who takes public office, unless he has an expert politician as his lieutenant, often fails without ever knowing why. Mayor Cermak would like to see more business men in public office, but he thinks they should possess political skill as well as a business temperament.

A HOHENZOLLERN AGAIN?

The day following the change of administrations in the United States may be a fateful one for the German republic. On that date a new Reichstag is to be elected. If Chancellor Hitler's national Socialists, Alfred Hugenberg's Nationalists and Franz Seldte's Steel Helmets secure control of a majority of the seats through their combined party strength, the result may be an effort to restore the monarchy.

The prolonged period of government by "authoritization" has been so foreign to republican rule that it has done much to instill a general feeling that a return to monarchical authority would not be a very radical change. Monarchists are organized and spreading insistent propaganda as never before. No less than nine reactionary groups have recently combined in a working alliance. This monarchist organization has issued a joint program which says: "The more we see government by party in Germany being displaced by the 'authoritarian' idea, the more it becomes plain that law and order in the Reich and its states can be reestablished only on the basis of a restored hereditary monarchy." Prominent monarchist advocates claim that a popular secret vote would disclose a large majority in favor of recalling the Hohenzollerns.

There are advocates of calling the kaiser from Doorn, while others support the proposal to make the former crown prince regent as a preliminary step to the ultimate elevation of his son, the 26-year-old Wilhelm Friedrich, to the throne. More than a score of former royal rulers are quietly aiding the monarchist cause in their own interest in Bavaria, Wuerttemberg, Saxony, Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, Baden and elsewhere.

INTERCOAST SHIPPING.

Under suspension of the rules, the House of Representatives is expected next week to take up the Copeland bill to regulate intercoastal shipping traffic. In the interest of all concerned this bill should be passed as speedily as possible, to allow time for acceptance of House amendments by the Senate.

This bill, passed in the Senate last spring, is the result of long years of uncertainty and generally demoralized conditions in this important branch of the American merchant marine—a branch in which American companies have invested more than $150,000,000. It has been shown over and over again that these companies are unable to govern themselves. The only solution, in the interest of shippers, shipowners and consumers alike, is to give the Government power to regulate rates and the conditions under which the ships are operated.

The Government itself has a $50,000,000 stake in this trade, as a result of mortgages held on ships sold by the Shipping Board. If Congress fails to protect the lines against the probability of a rate war, which is confidently expected by the operators if this bill is not passed, a large part of this investment may be lost, with consequent additional burden to the taxpayers. It is the plain duty of the House, therefore, to pass this legislation. In doing so, it will preserve this huge Government investment and place the lines in a position to meet their obligations to the Government, continue to support the Panama Canal, and pay their share of taxes to the Treasury.

Wall Street has heart failure because of the Senate banking committee's inquiry. Don't worry, lads; the committee is only locking the stable door.

Japan walks right out of the company of nations, knowing that they will continue to sell her all the war material she needs.

Is there no District Democrat who cares to succeed Gen. Crosby as Commissioner? Come, come, gentlemen, don't hang back.

OUTRAGING NATURE

From the Boston Transcript.

Intimations are not lacking that nature is weary of the incessant efforts of science to introduce the element of supersalesmanship into her processes, forcing her to multiply her old, leisurely productivity a hundred and a thousandfold. She has been pushed too far. It is now 25 or 30 years since egg-laying contests in New England began to attract general attention. Poultry breeders from across the sea brought their flocks here to compete with our native strains. Amazing records were established, the result of scientific feeding, of splitting up large flocks into small colonies. Unless memory is at fault Mrs. Ignace Paderewski paid $2,000 for a champion layer. Settings of eggs of certain prolific breeds fetched fancy prices.

Up to that point the egg-laying faculty of the hen had been stimulated along the line of her hereditary instincts—proper food, favorable surroundings. But now, science stepped in. More and more the mother hen was bereft of her clutch so that it might be hatched in an incubator and the progeny be reared in a brooder. The hen was reduced to the condition of a mere egg-laying machine. All her maternal solicitude was denied an outlet. Not only that: the science-crazed poultrymen, in their eagerness to get the very last egg from their layers, began to try to fool the birds by flooding their houses with artificial light an hour before dawn in the morning and for an hour after dusk at night. By thus lengthening their apparent day it was hoped to get the birds to work unnaturally overtime—lay seven eggs a week apiece where four were laid before.

But in spite of all the dreams of science, it was not long before there were signs that the limits of a hen's laying capacity had been reached. The hen began to ask herself what she got out of it. Life, which to her ancestors had been one of infinite variety, was for her nothing but one confounded egg after another, and every egg snatched away just as she felt the fever of incubation coming upon her. Lovers of nature are not surprised, therefore, to read the admissions of a Massachusetts authority on poultry that "the intensive life of the modern hen is terribly increasing the mortality in model poultry plants; the birds are worn out before their time." A hen which under the conditions prevailing formerly would have gone on laying well for several years is now done for at the end of her first season—good only for the pot, and with little meat on her bones at that, so wasted is she from her labors. Perhaps this lesson of the futility of forcing the hen beyond her powers may not be lost upon those who are leaving nature out of the account in some other fields of activity, human and otherwise.

THE HOPELESS MAN.

They found him dead beneath a tree!
"Once rich," they said, "he used to be,
But thinking hope from life had fled
He'd put a bullet through his head."

The birds will come again in spring,
The yellow wild canaries sing,
The tulip bloom, and in the town
Friends will go plodding up and down.

Poor men who once were rich will grow
Geraniums and Golden Glow
And find the means and time to spend
To play the neighbor and the friend.

And while he's sleeping in his grave,
Mothers the odds of life will brave
To give their children tender care
In spite of worry and despair.

And even those who trusted him
Will take his heavy burden grim
And bear it on with courage stout
Until the sun comes shining out.

In but a few brief weeks there'll be
The budding leaf on vine and tree,
In but another month or more

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Flapper Daughter.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MY Dear Louise:

I wish you and your crowd could determine once for all the proper time to leave a party or a "date."

The present uncertainty keeps all of you feeling sat upon or ill at ease, and causes parents to suffer in silence or feel ashamed of their rudeness.

This controversy between youngsters and parents is older than history, yet neither group has yet learned to consider the other's viewpoint or grievance.

The chief trouble, as in all such matters, seems to be want of frankness. The effort to preserve an appearance of good manners results in bad manners of the worst kind.

Parents are more to blame because they are deliberately unfair. They require either rudeness or disobedience.

What parent in this town, having entertained guests until 11 p. m., would then arise and say: "I'm sorry, but it's time for you to go home."

Not one would do it, howsoever insufferably bored. And, what is more, they never would forgive a host or hostess who thus invited them to leave.

Yet they force their children to be that rude. They call Willie from his play at twilight and say: "Tell those kids to go home; it's supper time." Or in later years they call Mary Elizabeth to the door and hiss loudly: "It's your bedtime, young lady. Get rid of him quickly."

They never deliver these ultimatums in person. They are too polite. They make the youngsters do it. He is a rare parent who does his own disagreeable errands.

So much for that side. I know the shame and humiliation of those who are sent home and of those who do the sending. Both get a raw deal.

But there's the other side. Parents don't do these things willingly. They, also, suffer shame and remorse. But they are forced to be rude and to require rudeness because youngsters don't know when to go home.

You see, parents are working people who need sleep, and they can't slumber in the midst of whoopee. They can't turn in until the cat is put out and the door locked. And they have a right to some consideration, for they furnish the house.

Why not fix a regular hour for partings? Each of you consult his parents to learn at what hour they desire peace; then compare notes and decide on a common quitting time—whether 11 o'clock, midnight or 3 a. m. That would show a decent consideration for youth's need of whoopee and age's need of sleep. Love,

DAD.

POLITICAL COMMENT

Repeal to a Final Test.

Kansas City Times.

The submission of repeal has been brought about not only through a marked change of sentiment in Congress, but apparently in the country. It has become increasingly obvious that a test of popular opinion on this controversial issue was both desirable and inevitable. The State convention method of ratification has been selected. If that method is followed through in accordance with its spirit and purpose, there will be the definite and conclusive popular test that is required.

The repeal resolution that now goes to the States carries one vital safeguard and omits another. It provides for the protection of dry territory, through a pledge of the Federal authority itself. That is specific, and it should be both helpful and reassuring to those areas that elect to retain prohibition. A Federal guarantee against return of the saloon, however, was stricken from the resolution as passed upon finally by both the Senate and the House. That raises grave doubts as to the reception that may be accorded the proposal in certain numbers of the States.

Millennial Measure.

Los Angeles Times.

Here is added proof that Kansans take their politics more seriously than the rest of us. A legislator of that State has introduced a bill to subject to ouster all officials who fail to fill campaign promises or pledges. But who shall decide?

Fewer Dates to Remember.

Los Angeles Times.

There's good in everything. If one nation can shoot up another without a war, history will be much easier for the next generation.

Non, Monsieur.

Boston Herald.

French experts, an industrial note informs us, have found many new uses for frogskins. Paying Uncle Sam, however, doesn't appear to be among them.

There's the Rub.

Boston Herald.

Possibly there should be more give and take in international relations, as an eminent diplomat says, but it would be sort of nice if Uncle Sam didn't always have to grab the front end of that combination.

The Democratic Deficit.

Los Angeles Times.

Chairman Farley's demand that members of the Democratic party wipe out the campaign deficit between now and the incoming of the Roosevelt administration, so that there can be no suspicion that any one has bought an office, is interesting in several respects. The Democrats are going to inherit the task of balancing the national budget and it is a good idea to get some practice on the party budget first.

Election Safe for Somebody.

Kansas City Star.

Representative Rainey, of Illinois, a candidate for the speakership in the next Congress, says that two other candidates (McDuffie, of Alabama, and Byrns, of Tennessee) are claiming together six more votes than there are Democrats in the new House. But that is good politics, isn't it? Maybe the other candidates have campaign managers who have urged them to "claim everything, concede nothing." And who knows that an even extra six votes might not be garnered from a disheartened Republican minority in the next House?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Faithful Democrats Hurt By Selection of Two Republicans for Cabinet Jobs.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Those of us Democrats who have consistently voted the Democratic ticket because we believe not only in the principles enunciated by the party, but also in party regularity, and who have ignored the mistakes and whims of certain leaders in the party in the belief that the party is bigger than any man or group of men in the party, will find little encouragement in the appointment to the Cabinet of two Republicans. Especially is this so at this time, after waiting on the outside for twelve long years and the fact that there are so many able and capable Democrats who were certainly more deserving of these appointments because of their unwavering allegiance to our party.

If the Republican party were to adopt a similar procedure of awarding Cabinet posts to Democrats who bolt their party every time the candidate selected by the majority (or a two-thirds majority under present rules) is not of their own choice, our party system of government will in a short time disappear or deteriorate to something worse than any spoils system heretofore known. At least such a practice will place a premium on irregularity of party allegiance.

While these two appointments of Republicans are obnoxious to the rank and file of faithful Democrats, the country at large will nevertheless breathe a sigh of relief and gratitude that none of the appointments has gone to such nationally known radical leaders as some of those senators in Congress, whose names have been mentioned so frequently by the Cabinet guessers. /. Preservation of American Homes the Prime Necessity—No Place for Soviet Propaganda.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Writing against national recognition of the Soviet Russian government, "American Citizen," in The Post of February 22, expresses the sentiment of the American people in deprecating the possibility of propaganda in this country by which, if successful, "our American women would be nationalized, our homes destroyed, all our social institutions debauched."

In other words, the success of sovietism, as of any other kind of communism, depends on destruction of the home. To destroy home life the world over is of necessity its first aim.

Home life in this country is in no danger. But there is a possibility that under changed conditions we may get too far away from home life of the old-fashioned kind. In the increase of all sorts of outside attractions old fireside ideals may be dimmed.

I think it is a good idea to keep harping on this subject—to keep the home fires burning in our hearts, in the pulpit, in the newspapers, in radio forums and in the public and private schools.

Our republic, to a great extent, got its successful start in the steadying influence of the home life of the log cabins and straggling villages and towns of pioneer days.

Surely it is not too much to wish that the picture of American home life as we have always known it may be kept fresh in mind free from the slightest taint of Soviet propaganda.

Liaison With Congress a Good Feature of the Roosevelt Cabinet.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It strikes me that the President-elect shows a good deal of common sense in selecting a Cabinet. The liaison with Congress through former members of that body as heads of departments will be a great help in the very difficult administration of national business during the next four years. Drafting a member of the Senate for Secretary of State and another for Secretary of the Navy may prove a ten-strike. In the present tangled state of foreign affairs they will come in mighty handy, especially as to war debts and naval armaments, in the administration's dealings with the legislative body, without "the advice and consent" of which treaties with foreign powers and even confidential understandings between diplomats may cause much worry and hard feeling.

In that connection I think the State Department in its dealings with foreign diplomats ought to make them understand that a treaty's real test is when it reaches the Senate, and what a gantlet a treaty has to run before it can jump the Senate hurdle. I think the rulers and people, as well as the diplomats of other countries, should be taught something about this feature of our Constitution. It could save a lot of trouble.

F. C. PARKER.

Commends Senator Glass for Insisting That States Help Their Own People.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I want heartily to endorse what Senator Glass said yesterday in the Senate. He expresses fully what I have believed throughout this depression when he says:

"There isn't a respectable community in the United States," he said, "with any humanitarian spirit whatsoever that isn't able to take care of its own destitute."

Out of this, perhaps the greatest depression of selfishness of all time, there is the remedy: "Give; cooperation and charity."

Let the States throw away the extended hand with a cup seeking loans and let the individual rich, as the good Samaritan, help, give to the poor and the depression will fade away as the mist before the morning sun.

PATRICK OFFERS AID IN COUNTY GAS FIGHT

Montgomery and Arlington Are Promised Data by P. U. C. Chief.

With the promise of Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick that he will render every assistance possible, Maryland and Virginia Public Service Commissions are preparing for a far-reaching inquiry into the gas-rate situation in Montgomery County, Md., and Arlington County, Va.

The Maryland Public Service Commission yesterday ordered an investigation by its experts into the "rates, charges, services, properties and affairs" of the Washington Gas Light Co. of Montgomery County and the Georgetown Gas Light Co. of Montgomery County, both subsidiaries of the Washington Gas Light Co. The order followed a number of complaints from consumers in Montgomery County that they were being unfairly charged. One of the most active groups asking the investigation was the public service committee of the Bethesda Chamber of Commerce, of which Samuel Stonebraker is chairman.

The Virginia State Corporation Commission has ordered a reopening of hearings on the Rosslyn Gas Co. and the Arlington County Public Utility Commission has directed the Rosslyn company to submit a full inventory and appraisal of its property, in addition to other data and definite information as to the cost of manufacture and delivery of wholesale gas by the Washington parent companies.

Gen. Patrick, who is chairman of the District Public Utility Commission, said he would turn over any data necessary to either or both of the commissions. The Washington Public Utility Commission has jurisdiction over the Washington and Georgetown companies and would have necessary information regarding cost of manufacture and delivery. Chairman Edmund D. Campbell, of Arlington County Commission, asked formally for such data yesterday at a conference with Gen. Patrick.

Tobacco and Net Bills Submitted

Oyster Tonging Measure Is Also Placed Before Maryland Assembly.

(By Staff Correspondent.)

Annapolis, Md., Feb. 24.—Bills controlling tobacco grading and resale, restricting oyster tonging in the Patuxent River, and prohibiting purse nets in the Potomac were introduced in the General Assembly today.

The tobacco measures were offered by the Prince Georges County delegation in both Houses. They authorize the State to appoint graders and stipulate that all tobacco must be sold under the name of the owner. Previously tobacco has been bought by dealers and resold under the name of the grower, so that a false idea of the market price has been given.

The oyster law would prohibit any but citizens of St. Marys and Calvert Counties from tonging at the mouth of the river, inside a line drawn from the Cedar Point lighthouse to the Cove Point lighthouse. The purse net measure would not become effective unless the State of Virginia passes a similar law.

Farmers Discuss Tax In Sandy Spring Today

The sixty-first annual farmers' convention at Sherwood High School, Sandy Spring, Md., today will have "Relief From the Tax Situation" as its theme. The principal speakers will be Maj. E. Brooke Lee, member of the Maryland State Roads Commission, and F. Barnard Welsh, Rockville lawyer.

O. M. Kile, of Mohican Hills, farm economist and writer, will talk on the "Domestic Allotment Plan," and L. T. Skeffington, manager of the Eastern Live Stock Cooperative Marketing Association, who will talk on cooperative marketing.

Allegany Citizens Demand Tax Slash

Lobby Accused of Working to Defeat Bill Providing School Cost Cut.

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Feb. 24.—The Taxpayers League of Allegany County at a lively meeting last night in the City Hall further emphasized demands for tax reduction, President Finley C. Hendrickson declaring it was the first time in two generations citizens have conscientiously taken a serious interest in government because of being overburdened by taxes.

Former city commissioners and former Sheriff Harry N. Irvine declared the entire school system in Maryland is controlled by a Democratic machine and the greatest lobby in the State is working against the bill of Robert B. Kimble, of this county, to reduce public school costs. He understood that all the school teachers of the county have been requested to write senators and delegates urging the defeat of the Kimble bill.

Mr. Irvine introduced a resolution, which was unanimously adopted, recommending a reduction in the salary of superintendent of schools from $6,000 to $3,500, abolition of the attorney to the school board and the truant officer, as well as school supervisors.

Woman Flees Home Fire With Her 12-Hour Baby

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., Feb. 24.—A mother, Mrs. Charles Johnson, with her 12-hour-old baby, was forced to flee from her home, River Road, Dinwiddie County, Wednesday afternoon, when fire destroyed the building. No one was at home to assist the mother at the time.

Mrs. Johnson and two other children were nearly trapped in the house, which was falling in when they made their escape. The father was at work at a sawmill at the time some distance away, and knew nothing of the plight of the family until some time later. A defective flue was the cause of the fire.

Airless Bugs

Breed of Insects Is Found Which Lives Largely Under Water.

There is an insect or breed of insects which, although equipped for the breathing of air and seemingly dependent upon it for their existence, can live for months under water without rising to the surface.

These creatures are beetles. The Smithsonian Institution yesterday received a new species, which was found in the brooklets of the Great Smoky Mountain region.

A plausible explanation advanced to explain how the creatures live is that they are so inactive that very little oxygen is sufficient to keep them alive for an indefinite period.

Only on one occasion do they leave the water. This is a "dispersal flight" immediately after their transformation from pupae to adults. They immediately return to the water, where they lay their eggs and spend the rest of their lives.

JURORS ARE NAMED FOR MONTGOMERY

Will Report at Opening of Term on March 20 in Rockville.

Drawn in accordance with time-honored tradition, the jury for the March term of Montgomery County Circuit Court at Rockville, Md., was selected yesterday by Judge Charles W. Woodward, assisted by Clayton K. Watkins, clerk of the court, in the presence of the Rockville bar.

Names of qualified persons were placed in the 13 sections of the jury box, one section for each election district, and the appropriate number for each district drawn by the judge. The jurors will report at the opening of the term on March 20, when 23 grand jurors will be selected from the group. The remaining 25 jurors will serve as petit jurors.

Those selected are:

Roger A. Bogley, Jeremiah T. Williams, Leslie C. Wachter, Joseph W. Woodfield, Ernest W. Mullican, Charles H. Musgrove, Charles S. Butler, William L. Aud, Elbert K. Ruble, Joseph Frank Allnutt, George C. Fry, Cooke A. Robertson, Harry A. Dawson, jr., A. Guy Watkins, John Ertter, William A. Ostmann, William V. Graybill, John T. Seibel, Eugene L. Duvall, William F. Briggs, John F. Hargett, Albert J. Cissel, Beal W. Unglesbee, Charles H. Smoot, James D. Holman, William D. Cosgrave, Douglas H. Riggs, Harry S. Easton, Mahlon Kirk, jr., Josiah J. Hutton, jr., Mehrle T. Jacobs, James M. Mount, Roger T. Pumphrey, Harry Walton, Charles H. Merryman, Charles E. Snouffer, Bernard C. Perry, Walter B. Montgomery Citizens Against School Slash

Montgomery County's present school system should be kept intact, with no lowering of standards and no teachers' salary cuts, the Montgomery County Federation of Women's Club executive board contended yesterday in a resolution adopted at its meeting in the Woodside Methodist Church. The resolution was forwarded to the State Legislature.

Mrs. B. Peyton Whalen, president of the federation, announced that the 21 constituent clubs have renewed their universal memberships in the County, State and National Federations for the year. She also announced that the meeting of the Maryland Federation will be May 9, 10 and 11 at Baltimore and that the General Federation Council will meet May 22 to 24 at Richmond.

Frederick Citizens Ask Deposit Probe

Taxpayers for Grand Jury Inquiry of Funds Put in Suspended Bank.

Frederick, Md., Feb. 24.—A move to have the present grand jury investigate the action of the county commissioners in depositing county funds in the Central Trust Co., which closed its doors September 3, 1931, was made today by the Frederick County Taxpayers Association.

Officials of the association asked State's Attorney Walter E. Sinn to present the matter to the grand jury and he informed them that laying the complaint rested with them. He explained that his duty is merely to assist and advise the jury. The amount, said to have been $186,000, was deposited to meet payments on refunding bonds due shortly after the bank closed. It is alleged that the law required the county commissioners to turn over all county monies to the county treasurer.

The Rev. H. G. Bickle, Brunswick, chairman of the taxpayers' association, appeared before the grand jury today. It is said that the county commissioners had a total of $330,837.07 on deposit in the trust company when it closed.

TAXPAYERS LEAGUE VOTES BUDGET CUT

Monarch Club of Arlington Again Appeals for Gifts in Relief Drive.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST, Tel. Clar. 809. Clarendon, Va.

A straight 25 per cent reduction in the entire county budget with the elimination of $90,000 from the school board budget will be demanded bf the county board by the Business and Professional Men's Taxpayers League, it was voted by the organization at its meeting last night at the courthouse.

Those items which the league asks be stricken from the school budget are $60,000 for an anticipated deficit and $30,000 for the payment of bonds held in the State literary fund.

After a lengthy discussion of salary reductions, the league favored a reduction in taxes of 25 per cent.

The final report made yesterday by Grover E. Payne, campaign chairman of the citizens' relief committee, to the Arlington County Welfare Board, shows $7,772 raised by the recent county-wide campaign. Results by groups are as follows:

Besides his wife he is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Pearl Roberts.

The Monarch Club relief committee of which Joseph C. Anderson is chairman, again appeals to the citizens of Arlington County to continue to contribute to the baskets placed in all grocery stores for the collection of food, Mr. Anderson says the club has undertaken care of fifteen families.

Woodrum Obtains Gavel as Memento

Garner Presents Him With Implement Both Have Used in Session.

(Associated Press.)

A gavel linked with history made at the present session of Congress was presented yesterday to Representative Woodrum, of Roanoke, Va., by Speaker Garner. Both had pounded for order with it at crucial sessions of the House.

Garner used it in opening the second session of the Seventy-second Congress last December, then turned it over later in the day to Woodrum, who presided with it during consideration of the Garner prohibition repeal resolution. That repeal resolution failed, but when another—the Blaine resolution—came to the House and was passed Garner used the gavel again. Between times Woodrum used it to preside over several sessions.

It is a plain, stock gavel, but it bears the autograph of the Speaker and, together with its stand, is being laid away by Woodrum in a specially made case.

A jury in the Corporation Court, Judge William F. Woolls presiding, yesterday returned a verdict for the defendant in the suit of Mrs. Catherine Jacobs, administrator of the estate of John Jacobs, an infant, against the Harrison Wright Co., of North Carolina. The object of the suit was to recover $10,000 for the death of the child, John Jacobs, who was fatally injured by a truck of the defendant company on September 13 last. The child was en route to school and the testimony was to the effect that he ran into the side of the truck, was not struck by the truck through any fault of the driver.

What Today Means

"PISCES."

IF February 25 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11:20 a. m. to 12:30 p. m., from 3 p. m. to 4 p. m. and from 7:30 p. m. to 9 p. m. The danger periods are from 8:30 a. m. to 9:45 a. m. and from 5:30 p. m. to 6:30 p. m.

You may find yourself forced on this day to assume duties not rightly yours, to make decisions that would seem not to be within your jurisdiction or to assume leadership where it seems you should remain in the background. Fate has led you to this, and fate will see you through. Do not become panicky. Be calm, reasoning and approach your problems knowing that you are master, and you will win out.

The child born on this February 25 will be dominated by a strong desire to win. He will have to learn to lose gracefully. Strong-willed and fiery-tempered, he will give way to violent emotional outbursts whenever crossed. It will be difficult for him to pull in harness. He will succeed in life by himself and in spite of himself.

Born on February 25, you are a person who makes the most of every opportunity that comes your way. You do not bother with anything unless you see your way clear to turn it to your advantage. In choosing your friends, you select only those who have something to offer toward your advancement.

If February 25 is the date of your birth, you have planned for yourself a well-ordered existence. You know what is good for you, and what is bad; you know when to say "yes" and when to say "no." You speak out fearlessly when you know you are in the right regardless of whether you might step on some one's toes.

Successful people born on February 25:

Parke Godwin, journalist and author.

Jane Goodwin Austin, author.

Charlton T. Lewis, lawyer and author.

Ida Lewis, "Grace Darling of America."

Enrico Caruso, operatic tenor.

Charles C. Pinckney, soldier and statesman.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

LACK OF WINTER SUNSHINE.

THERE is an old children's story about the grasshopper that sang all summer and, being very busy enjoying himself, stored nothing for the future. When the winter came he starved.

When it comes to sunshine man is no grasshopper. He may sing all summer, but nature does not permit him to be improvident, so far as sunshine goes. He stores it for the winter in the form of oil soluble vitamins and this supply he draws on for his own protection and welfare during the very lean winter season.

In Northern climates in midwinter the sun stays above the horizon less than nine hours. Until it is somewhere near three hours up in the morning its rays penetrate so much dirt and water soaked air that they lose all of their ingredients needed by man except light and heat. And the same holds true of the several hours just preceding the setting. From this small remainder are to be subtracted the hours of cloud, rain, snow and fog. Between the few hours of sunlight and the poor quality of the ray very little of the health-giving properties of sunlight are available to inhabitants of Northern cities in midwinter.

A study of the vitamin-producing capacity of sunlight in different months of the year, made at New Brunswick, N. J., and extending over four years, showed January as the worst month, giving that month a value of 3. December and February tied for second place with one of 4. Conditions are practically as bad in these two months as in January. November had a rating of 6; March, 8. In the opinion of many March is the month in which the supply about equals the need, November, December, January and February being the debtor months. April had a rating of 9; October and May, 14; June, 15; September, 16; July, 25; August, 27.

In hours of effective sunshine the rating was substantially the same. In this table December was lowest with a rating of 1. January followed with a rating of 15; November, 2; February and October, 2.5; March, 4; September and April, 6; May, 7.5; July, 11; June, 12; August, 15.

It is worth while noting that in sickness prevalence the months arrange themselves in practically the opposite order. July and August are the healthiest months. Sickness begins to increase in the autumn and reaches its peak about March 1. Then begins the spring decline.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

DEAR Miss Pierce: Please tell me if there is any preparation or home method that would increase the size of very thin legs. My proportions are otherwise good, though somewhat slender.

ANNE.

Dear Anne: Swimming is the best possible exercise for general development and particularly good for legs and thighs. If swimming in a pool isn't possible, you can get as much benefit from practicing swimming motions at home. Do a few simple exercises night and morning: kicking forward and back, raising legs alternately sideways up and down, walking on toes, running in place and squatting exercises. And in addition massage in a firm rotary motion with a cream made of equal parts of lanolin, cocoa butter and warm olive oil. Melt lanolin and cocoa butter in order to measure, pour into a clean container, stir to a creamy consistency and allow to cool somewhat before using. Walking, climbing, rope jumping and dancing are also all excellent to develop the legs.

* * * *

Dear Miss Pierce: A few weeks ago you wrote of an oil made of equal parts of olive oil and castor oil and a few drops of tincture of benzoin and a few drops of perfume. As it was recommended for lines under the eyes, I am wondering if it can also be used for forehead lines.

MRS. L. A., Milwaukee.

Dear Mrs. L. A.: This same oil may be used on any part of the face or neck where there are wrinkles. Apply it generously to the forehead, molding and patting with an upward and outward movement. Once or twice a week soak pads of absorbent cotton in the oil and apply to forehead for half an hour.

Fifth Avenue Fashions

A NEW day dress in girlish mood. It carries a sporty air through its buttoned wrapped closing—and isn't the puffed-sleeve guimpe smart?

Gray crinkly crepe silk was used for the jumper. The guimpe is a dainty affair of crisp white organdy. You could also make a yellow crepe silk guimpe to wear with the gray jumper. Rabbits'-hair woolen with pique guimpe is a smart scheme. Linen and wooly type cottons would be nice for summer wear.

Style no. 3378 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 28 and 20 years, 36 and 38 inches bust. Size 16 requires 2¾ yards of 39-inch material for jumper, with 1¼ yards of 39-inch material for blouse. Price of pattern, 15 cents.

NEW GREEN CHEESE POPULAR IN BOSTON

Wisconsin Maker Creates Cheddar Variety With Delicious Flavor.

By MARTHA LOGAN.

Way back when John Heywood wrote his book of proverbs he made the statement, "The moon is made of greens cheese." This little segment of his proverb seemed to appeal to those of fantastic mind and we have heard it since in poem and song. And every time we heard it we smiled a sly little smile at the thought of green cheese. But we can no longer smile our smile, for green cheese is a reality.

In 1931, Boston wanted something new and different in cheese, so a Wisconsin cheese-maker complied with a delicious and unusual variation of Cheddar cheese. To the Cheddar cheese he added a sprinkling of alfalfa leaves and a savory dash of sage. It gave a delicious green and yellow combination with a certain zest. So the newest of the very large cheese family made its bow in June of that year.

There are, of course, hundreds of varieties of cheese, many nationally known and many only known in certain communities.

Varieties of Cheese.

American cheddar cheese is sometimes called store cheese. It is copied from the English cheddar cheese. It is a hard cheese, keeps well and is excellent when used in rarebits, in combination with vegetables and cream sauce dishes. Cubes are always welcome with pie.

Brick cheese is a great deal like Cheddar, except that the latter is made of soured whole milk, whereas the former is made of sweet whole milk. Brick cheese has a more bland flavor and is excellent for use in main course dishes.

Camembert cheese is a soft cheese made from whole milk. It originated in France and is quite perishable. A cultivated bacteria is added to it during the process of manufacture to give its individual flavor. It is generally sold in small wooden boxes and is best used for buffet dinners or at the end of the meal with crackers.

Uses of Cream Cheese.

Cream cheese is made of either a sweet heavy cream or of a rich milk. It is not cured and is placed in your market as soon as possible after it is made. It is very soft and very perishable. The uses for cream cheese are infinite. There is no limit to its combination with fruits or vegetables for sandwiches. It can also be used as frosting for fancy sandwiches or a decoration for salads or desserts. It is available on the market in 3-ounce packages. Three-pound packages are also available, containing cream cheese and pimiento, pickle relish, or pineapple.

Edam cheese is a Dutch cheese colored red, highly salted and molded into a cannonball shape, weighing 3 to 4 pounds. It is made of whole milk, cured, and keeps well. It is best served in its shell with a cheese scoop and crackers handy. The empty shell is excellent for use in making and serving a creamed vegetable.

Swiss cheese is made of whole milk and has a mild, sweet flavor. It can be distinguished by its large and small "eyes" that permeate the cheese while curing. It is a hard cheese and keeps well. It also is available in half-pound packages without the "eyes." It may be used much as cheddar cheese is used.

Martha Logan Says . . . . . "Try Pepper Pot"

Pepper pot was originally a Spanish dish. Put a thick slice from a shank of beef and a piece of knuckle of veal, with a thick slice of ham, into your soup kettle. Cover with cold water and bring it slowly to a boil. Skim well and simmer about three hours. By that time the flavors will be well blended and the meat should be cooked. Strain off the liquor, return it to the soup pot, and add six potatoes peeled and cut into small pieces, two onions cut into slices, one-half a red pepper cut up, six cloves, one tablespoon of chopped parsley, summer savory and sweet basil mixed, a pinch of sweet marjoram, and a bay-leaf. Cut the beef, veal, and ham into small pieces, put them into the pot, together with one-half pound of tender, well-boiled honeycomb tripe cut into small pieces. Boil all this once more. Simmer gently half an hour and serve as hot as possible. Dumplings may be added if you wish.

The Meanderer

Finds an Englishman Who Would Gently Correct American Ways of Making Tea—and Offers Tea Accompaniments from Local Shops.

Telephone questions on The Meanderer's column to The Washington Post, National 4205, Extension 19; or address The Meanderer, The Washington Post, inclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply.

Piping hot cups of tea—prepared in a way which makes the most of tea as a beverage—dominate the Meanderer's food findings for today. Tea parties, so numerous during the coming inaugural week, should justify a large consideration of the subject of tea-drinking.

Americans do not make the most of tea drinking, according to an Englishman from Devonshire, who has come to make his home in Washington. Politely as he could, over his teacup at a party the other day, this Englishman told the Meanderer the usual American way of making tea is not right. He did not say it as flatly as that. But his polite but firm feeling that we had something to learn about tea-making led the Meanderer to question him closely about the English ways of brewing their much-beloved tea.

Pouring the hot water directly on the leaves is important, he said. Serving the tea at the right moment is another vital point. The rules of never, never letting the tea cool or never attempting reheating of tea are two the Englishman rigidly observes.

As this tea-wise Englishman told the Meanderer all this, between his sips of American-made tea, the Meanderer realized that her readers, undoubtedly fond of the best tea, made properly, would like such information passed on. Therefore, the Englishman's pointers on tea-making are being printed by The Washington Post in a form which will be mailed to those who ask the Meanderer for it. Ask for it by telephone or mail, as indicated at the head of this column.

Inaugural week guests in their glimpses of Washington shops may like to know where the teapots the Englishman recommends are to be found. Shelves and shelves of teapots in the fascinating housewares section of one of our most glamorous department stores were examined by the Englishman, with the Meanderer at his elbow making notes. The Meanderer will tell you the name of this store and refer you to the head of the teapot section, who will be glad to show you the pots the Englishman approved, if you will communicate your interest by telephone or mail.

Teas packed in England, teas packed in America and blends made in Washington are on the Englishman's approved list. Chain stores offer values in the approved teas, while a local blend of tea sold by an old, established grocery on Fourteenth street has the stamp of recommendation.

Crusty bread, which may be sliced thin without crumbling, is the type bread the English prefer for sandwiches for their tea hour. This kind of bread has been located in two popular bake shops, after investigation by the accommodating Englishman under the Meanderer's pressure.

Crumpets—genuine English crumpets—as made in a pastry shop on G street, gave the Englishman satisfaction on this tour in search of his country's characteristic foods. Except that they are slightly thicker, these crumpets from the G street shop are just like those "the crumpet man" peddles in London or in villages, often with the crumpets in a basket on his head. Readers wanting to buy these crumpets should order them the day before they want to use them, as freshness in a crumpet is essential. The pastry chef on G street who makes them prefers to sell them as a strictly fresh product.

English muffins, also approved as genuine, and quite different from the English crumpets, are fresh daily in the department store bake shop near its big tea room. Toasted English muffins are particularly delicious.

Marmalades in delightful assortments, six or twelve jars in attractive, bright-colored boxes, are a natural sequence to muffin-buying. Seedless raspberry marmalade, Scotch marmalade of apricots and almonds, orange, grapefruit, blueberry, lemon and a number of other kinds of these concoctions are in the assortment. Twelve of the marmalades in a box cost just $1.25, and six of them in larger sizes are 90 cents.

Fresh cherry pie, made from the large cherries in the frozen state, is selling in a department store's anniversary sale for 30 cents and 55 cents, instead of the usual 40 and 70 cents asked for this pie, with the sale ending this week.

For the busy week ahead, menu-planning helps, the Meanderer has found in a chain store, with an eye for quality as well as price, include choice canned all-green asparagus, two 1-pound cans for 39 cents; fresh green beans, which the chain store manager said were the best he had ever had, now selling 3 pounds for 25 cents; small, whole, tender canned green beans of well-known brand for 15 cents a can; sliced grapefruit for fruit cocktails or salads, in 10-cent cans, or in buffet sizes for 5 cents; chicken a la king, one-halfs, 39 cents; packages of high-grade cheese in half pounds in special sale with a popular kind of crisp crackers, and the very best canned green lima beans, two cans for 25 cents.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

WELL, I hate to be untrue to Paris and all that—but there is just too much anxiety about the subject for me to stand!

Almost every day comes the same question, Are pajamas no longer stylish? And no matter what fashion critics says to the contrary, no matter what Paris would like us to think to the contrary, I must just answer, No! Pajamas are not out of style, and I don't think they will ever be out of style!

Pajamas are not something merely or necessarily to sleep in. Chinese women, and men too, of course, have seemingly always worn this type of trousers or divided skirt. All the Mohammedan peoples of various nationalities wear them.

Anyhow, pajamas won't go out of style. Any more than skirts will go out of style. If pajamas are becoming to you, wear them. If they are convenient for housework, wear them for your housework. If you would rather be last minute in the style, wear a beach dress or apron instead of a pajama, otherwise, wear beach pajamas and be chic and comfortable. If you wish to be ravishing "grand dame" and feminine, wear a tea gown. If you wish to be equally grand dame and feminine—wear tea pajamas. So there.

* * * *

And if you wish to be as smart as you are pretty, send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the leaflet, which is a continuation of last week's leaflet, on how to make more pajamas out of very inexpensive remnants. And, ah-h-h, there is an adorably and gay house or beach pajama in this leaflet, made of—you'll never guess. Yes, bandana hankies! The best part of these is that even a man could make 'em—there being so little cutting and fitting to do, just the way the several handkerchiefs are sewn together. And oh, the tea pajamas that look like $100, and take one yard of velvet, one yard of lahmay, or another colored velvet, and a couple of yards of black crepe or satin or even the old black pajamas that you are so tired of!

Au revoir!

Recipe of Mrs. J. D. Hudgins, of Annapolis, for New Form of Dessert.

A recipe for the preparation of a new kind of pumpkin pie was judged the winner in this week's Post contest. It was submitted by Mrs. J. D. Hudgins, of Annapolis, Md.

Mrs. Hudgins recipe follows:

Date Cream Pumpkin Pie.

(Awarded $5 Prize.)

Crust: 1 cup ground white crackers. Roll cracker crumbs fine. Grease a deep pie tin and cover with cracker crumbs, bringing them well up to the top edge.

Filling:

1¾ cups pumpkin pulp
¾ cup sugar
2 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon ginger
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1¾ cups milk scalded
2 eggs
1 cup cream
½ cup diced dates

In a bowl mix pumpkins, dry ingredients, scalded milk and beaten eggs. Pour over cracker crumb crust and bake in a moderate oven for about one hour. Serve with cream whipped and dotted with the dates.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

THE second proposal to investigate the radio industry within a week was made by Representative Hampton P. Fulmer, Democrat, of South Carolina.

Mr. Fulmer said that under the present radio system, which he believes is tending more and more toward monopoly, the public as a whole receives little consideration.

"Labor and education are not getting a square deal," Mr. Fulmer said. He thinks it is time there was some legislation in the interest of the people as a whole.

Representative Fulmer added that he did not expect the present Congress to take any action, but would reintroduce the measure next session.

A House resolution was introduced by Representative McFadden, Republican, of Pennsylvania, a few days before, asking that the finances of the National Broadcasting Co. and the Columbia Broadcasting System be investigated.

The resolution would direct the Speaker to appoint a committee of five to determine whether the management of the two chains was "properly in the public interest" and whether they tended to "monopolize the radio broadcasting field."

The chain broadcasters' income, McFadden said in the preamble to the resolution, was "derived from sources which are properly in the public domain."

Massenet's opera "Manon," with Lucrezia Bori and Richard Crooks singing the leading roles, will be broadcast from the Metropolitan Opera House this afternoon. The complete opera will go on the air over WRC, beginning at 2 p. m. It will be the first time Crooks, who joined the Metropolitan Opera Company last fall, has sung in this opera.

Louis Hasselmans will conduct, and the opera will be sung in French with the following cast: Manon, Lucrezia Bori; Poussette, an actress, Aida Doninelli; Javotte, an actress, Philine Falco; Rosette, an actress, Dorothea Flexer; Des Grieux, Richard Crooks; Count des Grieux, his father, Leon Rothier; Lescaut, Manon's cousin, Giuseppe De Luca; Guillot, a minister of finance, Angelo Bada; De Bretigny, George Cehanovsky; innkeeper, Paolo Ananian.

Jouett Shouse, former chairman of the Democratic committee, will discuss the next step toward repeal of the eighteenth amendment during an address over WMAL at 10:30 o'clock tonight. "What Happens to the Repeal Amendment After It Reaches the States" is his subject.

WITH Col. Louis Howe, the President-elect's adviser, appearing in Rudy Vallee's program; with Rudy himself to march in the inaugural parade uniformed as a naval commander on the seagoing staff of the Governor of Maine; with Mrs. Roosevelt having appeared regularly on the Pond's program; with Mrs. Dall likely to take her mother's place on that program; with Guy Lombardo playing at the inaugural ball at the personal invitation of President-elect Roosevelt; and with the compositions of William H. Woodin, next Secretary of the Treasury, widely broadcast, radio seems destined to play an important part in the new administration.

Capt. Taylor Branson gave Mr. Woodin's "Franklin D. Roosevelt March" a try-out in yesterday afternoon's Marine Band Symphony Orchestra broadcast. Woodin's suite, "Covered Wagon Days" was also played.

There will be two special programs today in connection with the 63rd annual convention of the Department of Superintendence of the National Education Association, meeting in Minneapolis, one over WRC, 11:30 o'clock this morning and another over WJSV at 3 o'clock.

President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt was presented a bullet-proof speaker's desk, equipped with outlets for four microphones, by the Columbia Broadcasting System this week. The presentation was made by Herbert S. Glover, director of news broadcasting, at the Roosevelt residence in New York. The desk is being shipped to Washington for Mr. Roosevelt's use during his official career.

It is understood that N. B. C. is also having some kind of a special microphone stand built to present to Mr. Roosevelt.

B. A. Rolfe and his forty piece Terraplane orchestra will be on the air with a full hour of straight dance music, beginning at 10 o'clock tonight, over WRC. The Men About Town—Phil Dewey, Jack Parter and Frank Luther—will furnish incidental vocal choruses and occasional interludes.

INDORSING what Oswald F. Schuette believes to be a trump card in the fight with the American Society of Composers, the National Association of Broadcasters has authorized the incorporation of the Radio Program Foundation. The idea is that the broadcasters will create their own library of music for broadcasting and thereafter will have to pay less in fees for broadcasting music copyrighted by the Composers' Society.

"Through its direct control by the broadcasting industry, the Radio Program Foundation will be in more intimate touch with the American public and therfore better able, in many ways, to satisfy its musical requirements than the limited membership of the American Society of Composers or any similar organization has been able to do," Mr. Schuette said.

The foundation will also be in a position to secure music written primarily for the microphone rather than for the requirements of the stage or dance hall to which much of the American Society of Composers' music has been limited.

It is understood many of the individual broadcasters are not so keen about contributing to the large retainer which they must pay to Newton D. Baker to represent them in their fight against the composers. The broadcasters have not made known what this fee is, but outside guesses have been made that it is likely to be between $50,000 and $75,000.

Whatever the sum is, it is believed that the broadcasters will raise it, as they have announced definitely that Mr. Baker will participate in the case.

Stravinsky's "Le Sacre du Printemps," or "Pictures of Pagan Russia," will be presented over the WJZ network at 8:15 o'clock during the Boston Symphony Orchestra concert under the direction of Dr. Serge Koussevitzky. The work will be played in its entirety.

Wallington: What is it?

Cantor: The grindstone.

Bob White

The Old Philosopher

SAYS:

Question—My girl friend will not consent to marry me unless I give up keeping my mother. Do you think she is unfair in demanding this?

Answer—Yes, very unfair. It makes one think that she would make your married life very unhappy if that is her attitude before marriage.

The laws of human life are such that your first duty is to your wife, forsaking all others, but we must not forget the commandment to honor father and mother in order to assure long life and happiness.

It is difficult to understand how a girl, who one day may be a mother herself, can make such a demand as this, that you give up supporting one who went down to the valley of death that you may have life.

Young man—love your aged mother. Her face is careworn, but her heart is ever warm. Lavish upon her all the affection possible, for you owe her a lasting debt. Pour nectar into her fainting heart; strew her path with smiles, and smooth the downy pillow upon which rests her whitened head.

If you do this, flowers will blossom in your path; love will be your portion, and a good woman will want to marry you for the love and care you have given to your mother.

Love your mother, and the very ashes of the sainted dead will pray for your welfare.

Bob White, the old philosopher, will answer an outstanding question each week day on this page. He is heard twice daily over WMAL at 8 a. m. and 4:30 p. m.

Stocks Again Renew Climb With Next Largest Upturn

The average net gain for shares was nearly as large as yesterday's decline; it was, in fact, the second largest gain this year and the first noticeable upturn since banking difficulties in Michigan began to weigh down financial spirits. Numerous net advances ranged from 1 to 3 points in a turnover of 1,069,280 shares.

Rail stocks first caught the recovery signal, though not until they, in common with other groups, had weathered some early selling. A few fair-sized blocks were disposed of on this decline, but by the end of the first hour lost ground was being retraced and from then on the pickup was continuous and final prices were the highest. Considerable covering by a short interest which no doubt had increased substantially over the past week or so was evident.

In carriers, net gains of a point or more prevailed for such issues as New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Chesapeake & Ohio and Lackawanna. Delaware & Hudson, up 3½, and Louisville & Nashville, up 2¼, were stronger than average. Shorts also retreated in some haste from American Can, American Telephone, Allied Chemical, Consolidated Gas and U. S. Steel preferred which rose 2 to 3 points. General Electric jumped a point when its regular dividend was announced. Westinghouse, which maintained its cash position last year against a larger net loss than was recorded for 1931, firmed more moderately. American woolen issues were steady in the face of an unfavorable earnings report.

Chief contributions to business developments were made by the mercantile reviews, which thought favorable signs had more than counterbalanced less pleasant aspects. Dun's said the week's reports were "of a more cheerful tenor," and that progress had been "interrupted but slightly by disquieting events which in less calloused times might have been fraught with overwhelming retardative influences." Bradstreet's found most industries produincg "just enough goods to fill immediate needs."

Cigarette production statistics for January showed a sharp rise over December, but were nearly 4 per cent under a year ago. On the other hand, sales of manufactured tobacco were off about 9 per cent from 1932, indicating that the price cut early last month by the "big four" manufacturers had recaptured some business. Another reduction was made recently, but its effects will not be seen until February figures become available.

What the Stock Market Did

	Friday.	Thursday.
Advances	288	36
Declines	194	481
Unchanged	173	124
Total issues	655	641

Stocks.

Advances were renewed again, and the market recorded the second largest gain for the year. The rise averaged 1.8 points, which almost wiped out Thursday's loss. Sales were slightly less in volume, totaling 1,069,280 shares.

Bonds.

Cheerful trading and rising prices ended bonds' downward movement. Government issues played an important part in the general recovery. Three-tenths of a point gain was recorded. Sales totaled $13,335,000.

Curb.

Selling pressure ceased and prices advanced from a fraction to two points. Transfers again totaled 200,000 shares. The rise was led by utilities.

Wheat.

Securities' revival and unfavorable crop reports sent wheat higher. Other grains followed the advance. May wheat sold at 48 to 48¼ cents.

Cotton.

A steadier tone developed on covering, trade and commission house buying and the uplift in securities. The general market closed 9 to 12 points higher. May sold at 6.13. Liverpool reported a steady market and trade calling.

BONDS SENT HIGHER ON CHEERFUL SALES

New York, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—The recently doleful dirge of the bond market gave way to a more cheerful melody today, as prices in most categories reversed their downward trends.

It was the first rally since February 11, the average for 60 domestic corporations recording a gain of three-tenths of a point. Trading volume was rather restricted on the upturn, however, sales totaling only $13,335,000, par value, against $15,125,000 yesterday.

Corporate issues took their cue from the United States Government list which showed a number of recoveries of a point or more in early trading. While the Federal section did not hold to its top prices of the day, four of the Treasuries retained gains of around a point and the Liberties were just under their peak quotations.

Among the more notable corporation gainers were Santa Fe general 4s, up 5⅝; American Telephone debenture 5½s, up 1; Central Pacific first 4s, up 7; Chesapeake & Ohio general 4½s, up 4½; Erie refunding 5s of 1967, up 2½; Illinois Central 4¾s, up 3; Interborough Rapid Transit 5s, up 2¼; International Telephone debenture 4½s, up 2¼; Kansas City Southern first 3s, up 2½; Missouri Pacific 5s of 1977, up 2¼; New York Central refunding 5s, up 2½; Pennsylvania debenture 4½s, up 3¼; Remington Rand 5½s, up 3½; Iron Mountain 4s, up 2; Southern Pacific 4½s of 1981, up 3¼; Texas Corporation 5s, up 3, and U. S. Rubber 5s, up 1½.

The rails made the best showing with advances of fractions to around a point. There were some weak spots, however. Atlantic Coast Line liens were off 1 to 3 points; Delaware & Hudson 5½s dropped 6; North American 5s lost 3, and some others were unable to join the recovery.

Foreign obligations were irregular. German Government 5½s and 7s came back ½ to 1⅞ points, but losses and gains in other issues of the republic were about evenly divided. French, Belgian and some Japanese issues firmed. Bonds of Colombia declined fractionally to 5¼ points.

Increased Confidence Seen As Factor Aiding Business

New York, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—The weekly mercantile reviews said today that developments making for increased confidence and slowly broadening activity in trade continued to outweigh adverse factors.

As evidence of this trend, Bradstreet's pointed to the more favorable comparison of bank clearings with a year ago, the less than seasonal decline in business failures, signs of stability in the wholesale food price index and industry's evident satisfaction over prohibition repeal action.

On the less favorable side, the agency lists a slower clean-up of winter goods, due to warmer weather, and a somewhat disappointing retail trade volume in key cities.

Dun's said trade progress was interrupted but slightly by "disquieting events which in less calloused times might have been fraught with overwhelming retardative influences."

"The process of distribution has not been halted despite the curtailed buying power," said the agency, "and persistent efforts to sell goods in a regular way are being rewarded, provided merchandise of good quality has brought satisfaction to the buyer.

"Reduced inventories with further curtailment of production have placed manufacturers in a more advantageous position, particularly since full cognizance has been taken of the value of profit rather than volume in operating procedure."

Institute of Mining Plans to Curb Oil

Committee Due to Study Ways of Balancing Industry.

New York, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—The American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers today announced formation of a stabilization committee to study ways and means of controlling petroleum production and bringing the oil industry into balance.

The move was heralded as an effort to devise ways of coping with current disorders in the industry.

Earl Oliver, chairman of the petroleum committee of the institute, will head the new committee, which also includes Henry M. Bates, dean of the Michigan Law School; Warner Clark, vice president of the California Company of San Francisco; Roy Collom, assistant to the president of the Continental Oil Co.; E. L. De Golyer, former president of the institute; Henry L. Doherty, Northcutt Ely, executive assistant to the Secretary of the Interior; W. S. Farish, president of the Humble Oil & Refining Co. of Houston, Tex.; C. K. Leith, chief of the geological department of the University of Wisconsin; J. Howard Marshall, assistant dean of the Yale Law School; Roscoe Pound, dean of the Harvard Law School, and J. B. Umpleby, petroleum engineer of Norman, Okla.

Peak Is Maintained By Equitable Life

Group Insurance in 1932 Pays Company Total of $24,000,000.

Addressing the annual national convention of group supervisors of the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States President Thomas I. Parkinson reported that group insurance—the protection of employes against the hazards of death, disability, and old age—has been maintained during the last year practically at its peak, the volume of group life insurance showing only a slight decresse, while group pensions show more than compensating volume.

As an indication of the support given by employers to group protection for the benefit of their employes, and of the interest of employes themselves, President Parkinson pointed out that the Equitable in 1932 received $24,000,000 in premiums from all departments of group insurance. This is more than $3,000,000 above the previous high record of 1931. This increase was accounted for, he said, by the gain in premiums from group pensions, through which employers and employes join to provide income for workers when advanced age makes their retirement necessary.

LIVELY RALLY LIFTS CURB PRICE LEVELS

Gains Reach Two Points as Sales Volume Totals 200,000 Shares.

New York, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—The pressure of selling lifted on the curb today, and the market enjoyed a fairly lively rally. Transfers totaled 200,000 shares, the same as yesterday. Gains ranged from fractions to around 2 points.

The utilities led the way for other stocks. This group had experienced some forced selling in recent sessions, which in the face of an improvement in electric power production figures, continued to force prices somewhat lower. Today they gained along a broad front.

American Superpower, Cities Service, Niagara Hudson Power and United Light & Power A, in the lower priced group, gained fractionally, while Electric Bond & Share and American Gas & Electric ran up more than a point.

The oils were steady, Standard of Indiana, Standard of Kentucky, Gulf Oil and Humble showing little change.

Aluminum Co. moved up nearly 3 points and the quietly traded Great Atlantic & Pacific ran up 9. Singer was slightly higher.

The Ford issues were steady. Swift International gained fractionally.

Some cross currents were evident in the mining shares, gold mining stocks moving slightly higher. Newmont was also up a little. New Jersey Zinc reacted about a point.

Cow Proclaimed Queen As Farm Income Earner

(Associated Press.)

The humble cow has become the queen of American agriculture.

She has risen to the head of the farm income dynasty which famous dollar producers of the past—cotton, wheat and live stock—successively ruled as king.

Completing a classification of farm income, the Bureau of Agricultural Economics reported yesterday that the products of the cow for the first time led all types of income, usurping the place held in recent years by cattle, hogs and sheep collectively.

Dairy products accounted for $1,180,000,000 of farm income last year, although the figure marked a decline of nearly 50 per cent from 1929, when it was $2,323,000,000.

Live stock held second place, accounting for $1,122,000,000 in income against $2,807,000,000 in 1929—the sharpest decline of all types of farm income.

Cotton accounted for only $397,000,000 against $1,389,000,000 in 1929, a drop of 72 per cent. Grain fell 70 per cent, from $1,288,000,000 to $391,000,000.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

(Associated Press.)

London—Trading on the stock exchange was more quiet and prices were irregular with renewed weakness in foreign bonds especially Far Eastern and German issues. Gold mining stocks drooped, but gilt-edged securities and oil shares were steady. The market closed irregular.

Paris—Business on the bourse was calm and prices were more satisfactory, showing resistance as a result of purchases for short covering. The closing was sustained.

Berlin—After opening cheerful, prices on the bourse weakened owing to the bank situation in America.

COTTON PRICES GAIN ON TRADE'S BUYING

May Closes at 6.13 as General Market Rises 9 to 12 Points.

New York, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—A steadier tone developed in the cotton market today. Liquidation was much less in evidence after yesterday's selling, and prices improved on covering and trade or a little commission house buying, promoted by the better showing of the stock market. May contracts advanced from 6.05 to 6.13 and closed at that figure, with the general market closing very steady at net gains of 9 to 12 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 1 to 3 points in response to relatively steady Liverpool cables, trade buying and further buying through houses with foreign connections. There was sufficient liquidation or scattered selling to cause some irregularity during the early trading, but the offerings were quite readily absorbed on slight setbacks, and the market showed increasing steadiness during the afternoon.

Stocks Aid Tone.

Reports of a steadier tone in the stock market, no doubt, led to covering or rebuying by some of yesterday's sellers, while offerings continued light with little or no pressure from the South. The best prices of the day were reached in the late trading with March selling at 6.02 and July at 6.27. Closing quotations were at or within a point of the best.

General business was probably restricted to some extent by a disposition to await further legislative developments.

According to the New York Cotton Exchange Service Indian mills consumed 204,000 running bales of Indian cotton during January, compared with 216,000 in December and 199,000 in January last year.

Exports today, 7,992, making 5,582,493 so far this season. Port receipts, 28,772. U. S. port stocks, 4,847,504.

Cotton Seed Oil.

Bleachable cotton seed oil was a little easier under March liquidation and selling of September by commission houses promoted by easier crude oil, which offset the steadiness of other commodities. Sales were 38 contracts of which 30 were in the form of exchanges from March to later positions. Final prices were 1 to 4 points net lower. Bleachable spot closed, 3.55; March, 3.62; May, 3.74; July, 3.88; September, 3.97.

Industry Advances In Latin America

(Pan-American News.)

Panama, Feb. 24.—Without doubt certain Latin American countries show industrial progress and this is particularly true in textiles. Local factories in a number of countries are turning out goods that are practically the same as imported cloths. These facts have been made the basis for a very general belief that in time a sort of economic union would be possible, and that wide development of international trade could be brought about.

In many products there is a good deal of commerce between Latin American countries today. Trade is active on the west coast between Chile, Peru and Ecuador, greatly helped by cheap water transportation. The recent agreement between Argentina and Chile seems to promise trade development between these two countries, while commerce between Argentina, Uruguay and Brazil has been substantial for many years.

With reference to any wide development of inter-American trade in manufactured goods where communications are not well developed, there is considerable doubt. About a year ago the Mexican Ministry of Industry sent a delegation with stocks of Mexican print goods to several Central American countries, but results were not satisfactory since imported goods were found to be cheaper after the costs of interior freights and transfer charges were calculated.

In spite, therefore, of the hope for an economic union in Latin America one may put off the realization of the idea for some quite distant future. Domestic industry will develop, but it will be found cheaper and more satisfactory, in many cases, to import foreign manufactures. There is good reason to believe that when trade improves much the same business will be done as before with Latin American markets, although there will be a constantly shifting demand due to money factors.

WHEAT VALUES RISE IN CLOSING TRADING

Securities' Revival and Crop Reports Aid Advances; Other Grains Up.

Chicago, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—Keeping in step with securities, the grain markets advanced late today, and more than overcame early setbacks.

Increasingly unfavorable crop reports were received from domestic winter wheat States, Nebraska and Kansas in particular. An official report said 62 per cent of the wheat acreage in southwest Nebraska would be abandoned.

Wheat closed firm at the day's top, ¼ to ⅝ above yesterday's finish; corn, a shade to ¼ up; oats, unchanged to ⅛ higher, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 2 cents.

Market Views Change.

At first, wheat showed a tendency to reflect transient weakness of the New York stock market, and to respond to possibilities of moisture relief for drought districts of domestic winter crop territory. Later, however, traders' attention focused more on talk that rains now would not prove of much help Southwest, where damage was asserted to be irreparable. Word that mills were buying wheat at Minneapolis gave emphasis to unfavorable crop reports, and the wheat market here was further strengthened by liberal purchasing in Chicago against simultaneous selling at Winnipeg.

An authoritative unofficial summary of domestic crop conditions said: "Dry weather persists over the greater part of the winter wheat belt, with dust storms reported over a considerable territory and complaints of drought. The grain trade generally refrains from making estimates until growing weather discloses the extent of damage from drought, cold weather and other causes. There is no improvement in the movement of cash wheat to terminals, and surveys indicated increased grinding in small mills."

Corn and oats swayed with wheat. Some export business in United States corn was noted, and there were advices of drought injuring the South African crop.

Provisions averaged higher, owing to demand from previous speculative sellers.

3 INAUGURAL MUSIC CONTESTS ARRANGED

National Legion Commander Announces Personnel of Complete Staff.

Three contests—one for drum and bugle corps and two for bands—will be held in connection with the street festival which the general entertainment committee will stage on the night of March 4, John W. Childress, vice chairman of the entertainment committee, in completing plans for this affair yesterday found that his principal difficulty was in finding time for all of the drum and bugle corps which wish to enter.

It may yet prove necessary, Mr. Childress said, to restrict in some way the number of organizations participating.

The plan as announced yesterday calls for the drum and bugle corps competition between 6 and 8 p. m. Constitution avenue, west of Fifteenth street; Fifteenth street up to E, and E to the roadway back of the White House, are to be roped off so that the military musical organizations will have room to execute their drills, as well as play.

Bands in Competition.

Six bands have been entered in competition for the smaller bands and two from larger organizations. It is planned either to erect a band stand or seat the musicians near the intersection of Fifteenth and E, so that spectators may avail themselves of the stands in that vicinity. Prizes will be awarded in all three classifications.

The New York State Society, of which William R. Vallance is president, and Howard S. Leroy, chairman of the entertainment committee, has made plans to entertain distinguished visitors from New York at a banquet to be held at the Mayflower Hotel the night of March 4.

Gov. and Mrs. Lehman, Mr. and Mrs. James A. Farley, Attorney General and Mrs. John J. Bennett and Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Baruch are to be guests of honor. The banquet, at which at least 750 guests are expected, will begin at 7 p. m. and ends at 10, in order to give opportunity for the guests to attend the inaugural ball.

Completion of Legion Staff.

Louis A. Johnson, national commander of the American Legion, has announced completion of his staff as marshal of the Third Division of the inaugural parade. In this division will be grouped the veterans of all of the Nation's wars since the Civil War, wearers of the blue and the gray marching shoulder to shoulder with those who fought in the Spanish-American and World Wars.

Every veteran in line must be in full uniform, according to Maj. Kenneth A. McRae, liaison officer to Commander Johnson, and the contrast between the days of '64 and '17 is expected to provide an inspiring spectacle. At the head of the division, the Nation's battle flags, State standards and the flags of the allies in the World War will be escorted by special guards of honor. Between 5,000 and 6,000 men and women, veterans all, will march or ride in the division, accompanied by famous bands and drum corps.

The Grand Army of the Republic will be under its commander in chief, Capt. William P. Wright, while Gen. Homer Atkinson, commander of the United Confederate Veterans, will be in charge of those who fought with the South in the war of the States. The Spanish-American War Veterans will be headed by William J. Otjen, commander in chief of the United Spanish War Veterans. Commander Johnson, besides serving as marshal, will have charge of units from the American Legion.

State Legion Departments.

PALACE

"HALLELUJAH I'M A BUM." Joseph M. Schenck's picturization of a story by Ben Hecht, adapted to the screen by S. N. Behrman, starring Al Jolson, supported by Madge Evans, Frank Morgan, Harry Langdon and Edgar Connor. Directed by Lewis Milestone. Reviewed Friday night by Dorothea Lewis.

Different! And after different, fun. Then we think the next words for this fantasy with a perfect title should be quite mad, utterly delicious and sufficiently satiric.

All about Bumper, mayor of the Central Park bums and knight of the open road; plutocratic tramps with great class feeling; Egghead, a socialistic park clean-up man who can never forget his profession and relax; the democratic (habit, not politics) Mayor of New York, and a heroine with amnesia and the name of Angel—you can see it would have to be either different or dreadful.

With Ben Hecht and S. N. Behrman writing it, Richard Rodgers and Lorenz Hart composing swinging and sturdy music for it, Director Lewis Milestone introducing "rythmic dialogue," which is nothing more than rhyming couplets, and an extremely skillful use of music, and Al Jolson playing Bumper to a fare-you-well, assisted by an excellent cast, it's, as we may have mentioned, different.

There's no use telling the little bit of story, because it needs all of its musical trappings. Suffice to say that it is all the story the fun requires, and is very reminiscent of Philip Barry's "White Wings," an epic of his presociety-drama days.

The picture is too long, a little slow at times, a trifle too realistically solemn toward the end for such a fairy story, but we loved it. A lot of people won't.

Al Jolson, pioneering again five years after his cinema-world shattering in the first talkie, paces throughout at exactly the right tempo and with grand play acting, making Bumper's "jumble" of blue sky, green grass, sun and laziness so, so tempting. Not a Mammy, anywhere, but lots of good singing.

Harry Langdon does a swell Egghead, and Black Edgar Connor will grin his way into your affections. Madge Evans, looking so pretty, does a nice piece of work as the absent-minded heroine, the only even slightly serious part in the play, and Frank Morgan is his impeccable, inimitable, delightful self as Mayor Hastings of New York on the Hudson.

A ZaSu Pitts-Thelma Todd comedy, "Asleep in the Feet," with ZaSu as a "swishy" taxi-dancer, and "Bugs in Love," one of the better silly symphonies, add enough laughs to make the program fun all around.

METROPOLITAN

"THE KING'S VACATION." Warner Brothers picturisation of a story by Ernest Pascal, starring George Arliss, with Dudley Digges, O. P. Heggie, Marjorie Gateson, Dick Powell, Patricia Ellis and Florence Arliss. Directed by John Adolfi. Reviewed (second week) by W. A. Whitney.

Whenever Mr. George Arliss comes to town a good show is a foregone conclusion, for, apparently, this star is quite incapable of anything but an excellent piece of work. "The King's Vacation" is no exception to the rule. While it may, perhaps, lack that dramatic quality that made his "Disraeli" one of the high spots of the cinema, the current vehicle does give Mr. Arliss the opportunity to carry on the good work so nobly begun in the Warner Brothers' "coup d'etat," "The Millionaire."

Here is a most entertaining commentary on kings and the lives of kings, and the sort of thing that might be expected to result at a time when this species of mankind is rapidly becoming obsolete. A satire, perhaps, but withal, a most pleasing vehicle for Mr. Arliss.

One need not dwell on his performance—he is always grand. Nor does his supporting company require any further bolstering at this time, the beginning of the second week's run. Opposite Mr. Arliss, the king, are Florence (Mrs. George) Arliss, as the queen turned rustic; Marjorie Gateson as the one who would be queen (even to a deposed monarch); Patricia Ellis, as the daughter; Dick Powell as her lover; Dudley Digges and O. P. Heggie.

In the supporting program Edgar Bergen and his inseparable boy friend, "Charlie McCarthy," discover that "Africa Speaks English," and most astounding English at that; Ruth Etting is seen in a delightful medley of songs entitled "By-Gones." "Ride Him, Bosko," a Looney Tune, and a release of Paramount Sound News completes the bill.

EARLE

"THE WOMAN ACCUSED." Paramount picturisation of the story by Rupert Hughes, Vicki Baum, Zane Grey, Vina Delmar, Irvin S. Cobb, Gertrude Atherton, J. F. McEvoy, Ursula Parrott, Polan Banks and Sophie Kerr, adapted to the screen by Bayard Veiller, featuring Nancy Carroll, Cary Grant, John Halliday and Louis Calhern. Directed by Paul Sloane. Reviewed Friday evening by W. A. Whitney.

All-star casts are nothing new in the cinema world, but when a motion picture takes on a story w' ch is the combined work of ten of the country's leading writers, it becomes news. "The Woman Accused," being just that sort of literary work, will be watched with interest by practically every one, for there is in the roster of authors a favorite of every one.

The skeleton narrative, the brain child of Polan Banks, deals with the murder of Leo Young by Glenda O'Brien when he starts to negotiate the erasure of her husband-to-be. Getting away before any evidence points to her, Glenda and Jeffrey leave on one of these "cruises to nowhere." There is no evidence pointing to her, but Leo's partner has his suspicions, and he boards the liner in an effort to trap her into a confession. On the captain's night, a mock trial is held in which Glenda is forced to defend herself on a charge identical with the crime she committed. Back on land she is arrested, but the extenuating circumstances free her.

Nancy Carroll in the title role has one of her best parts, one in which she can be her own charming self and emote through a wide variety of scenes, from real and forced comedy to stark drama. As her prospective husband, and the one who successfully removes the accusations, Cary Grant does a swell job. John Halliday, as the accuser, and Norma Mitchell as the resourceful maid, and Louis Calhern, the murdered Leo, are the other principals.

Headlining the stage show, and introduced by his own radio signature and not by the charming Maxine Doyle, is Arthur Tracy, who regales the audience with a cycle of typical street singer ballads, of which "Ol' Man River" and "Farewell to Arms" are the outstanding.

The Six Decardos make their appearance with as rapid-fire series of jumping acrobatics as you would care to see. Then comes Nell Kelly, that bunch of titian dynamite, with a series of imitations, songs and dances. And how that gal works! In third are Grace Elder and the two Reed Brothers in a group of expertly executed rhythm tap dances.

Rounding out the program, Franklyn Panghorn is seen in "Easy on the Eyes," a comedy of a socialite-pugilist; "One Step Ahead of My Shadow," a Merrie Melodie gone Japanese; an issue of the Paramount Pictorial, with the rifle-making secrets of Washington's Navy Yard being the high spot, and a release of the Universal News. An overture composed of music from "42d Street" was played by the orchestra under the direction of Maestro Fred Clark.

RIALTO

"PRIVATE JONES." Universal picturization of a story by Richard Schayer, featuring Lee Tracy, Gloria Stuart, Shirley Grey, Russell Gleason, Emma Dunn, Walter Catlett and Frank McHugh. Directed by Russell Mack. Reviewed (second week) by W. A. Whitney.

With the presentation of "Private Jones" all classes and kinds involved in the unpleasantness of 1914-1918 have had their innings with cinema plays: officers, men and the various branches of the service having previously been pictured. In that long line-up the draftee has been overlooked, but now that hiatus is closed.

And how Lee Tracy closes it! Usually pictures dealing with the war have been for the glorification (more or less) of those who sought, directly or indirectly, to "save the world for democracy." But here is a republican whose only German acquaintance had been a swell bartender. Naturally, he has no overpowering desire to join the fracas of which he knows nothing and who can see no especial altruism in messing around in some one's else front yard.

Coupling this lack of sympathy with the whole affair with a positive genius for violating about all the rules of the martial calendar, Lee Tracy, in the title role, is seen at his best, and in a part which, besides possessing a plethora of Tracy lines, offers a none too subtle addition to the array of antiwar preachments of the motion pictures.

Ably assisting Mr. Tracy are Frank McHugh, as the cook; Donald Cook, as the first lieutenant who takes a decided, but mistaken, dislike to Mr. Tracy; Gloria Stuart, as the Red Cross worker, adding the day of sunshine in Private Jones' otherwise gloomy existence, and Walter Catlett, as the Y. M. C. A. worker. Others in minor roles include Russell Gleason, Shirley Grey, Berton Churchill, Emma Dunn, Ethel Clayton.

The supporting short subjects include "I Know Everybody and Everybody's Racket," featuring Walter Winchell, and a new issue of Universal News.

LOEW'S FOX

"WHAT! NO BEER?" Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picturization of an original story by Robert E. Hopkins, costarring Buster Keaton and Jimmy Durante, with Rosco Ates, John Miljan and Phyllis Barry. Directed by Edward Sedgwick. Reviewed Friday night by W. A. Whitney.

Especially for Durante fans and generally for all those who enjoy a lusty comedy, chalk this one on the book to be surely seen. What with the recent landslides to the "wet" cause, it is quite fitting and proper that there should be filmed a yarn concerning the premature manufacture of beer. And then, too, who but Buster Keaton and Jimmy Durante, whose work in "Speak Easily" makes them direct heirs to this job, should be the proper ones for the principal roles?

With that for an introduction, is there any need for a further consideration? There probably is none, but it should be added that, as the real beery days are not here again, it must be added that a couple of rival gangsters make their appearance, and that only adds to the enjoyment of all concerned—in the audience.

It is Mr. Durante's picture, from start to finish, and while Mr. Keaton, Rosco Ates and Henry Armetta have their moments, they are rather secondary to Mr. Durante. As the leaders of the "opposition," John Miljan and Edward Brophy are well cast, as is Phyllis Barry, as the charming siren, the moll of Mr. Miljan, who later falls for Mr. Keaton.

On the stage there is Bill Robinson, who has justly earned the title of the world's greatest tap dancer. Can that man tap! His four numbers, between which are sandwiched an attempt at singing and a flock of stories, are just swell, his disarming, lackadaisical and effortless manner of working comedy into routines all combine in making this demonstration quite the best Washington has seen.

Opening the bill are the Starnes-Kover Dancers, with Dick Saxton, Betty Mooney and Emrik Andreason crashing through with a novel adagio finale. Sheila Barrett does a series of exceptional imitations, including those of Greta Garbo, ZaSu Pitts and Bert Lahr. Chic Yorke and Ross King, with the very acceptable assistance of Edyth Drake, Colly Worth and Herbert Kingsley, give another series of their inimitable "tintype comedies."

Especially noteworthy is the first cinemathedral presentation of Ravel's famous "Bolero," played by the Fox Orchestra as an overture under the direction of Phil Lampkin. As part two was an orchestral arrangement of Mr. Lampkin's recently published "I'm Always Dreaming of You."

A release of the Fox Movietone News completes the line-up.

"Street Singer" Sued for Alleged Alienation of Affections.

Those "alienation blues" might have been the title of Arthur Tracy's opening song yesterday at a downtown theater. For the "Street Singer," well known to radio and stage fans, was served with papers in a suit seeking $100,000 from him just as he entered the Earle preparatory to making a personal appearance.

The suit, filed by Lis sister-in-law, Betty Tracy, of 4018 Marlboro place northwest, charged that her famous brother-in-law had, with his wife, Beatrice Tracy, of 1428 Monroe street northwest, alienated the affections of her husband, Bert M. Tracy.

Because of this alienation, she claimed, her husband left her October 25, 1932, and she has since been deprived of his companionship. Arthur Tracy and his wife are blamed for the estrangement because of their disparaging remarks about her to her husband, she alleged.

The couple were married March 20, 1931, and lived the happy life until there came the estrangement. All of her troubles are laid at the doorstep of her illustrious brother-in-law and his wife by Betty Tracy.

GLEE CLUB STAGES "INAUGURAL BAWL"

Political Satire Presented by Seminary Girls Hurls Jabs at All Alike.

The faint echo of the voice of the forgotten man mingled with the clamor of applause of a generous audience and the raucous voicings of lame ducks as the Chevy Chase Frantics presented "The Inaugural Bawl" last night at the Wardman Park Theater, for charity's sake.

A political satire which included a chorus, voice display and a demi tasse during intermission, the 1933 edition of the Frantics, all members of the Glee Club of the Chevy Chase Seminary, spared neither the donkey nor the elephant from fast and furious wise-cracks.

In a scene entitled "A Game Preserve," members of the Glee Club began their portrayal of political woe. The men forgotten in the last election were cornered for display purposes and were able to give only an occasional "quack" before a sympathetic screen hid their shame.

Peanuts Fed Audience.

As the girls shifted scenes, a "donkey" and an "elephant," also members of the exclusive school, fed the audience peanuts and repartee. At 8:30 o'clock tonight, the members of the school will give friends and relatives another performance of the satirical presentation at the theater.

The "bawl" or "Mourning Becomes Election," written by Mrs. Isabelle S. Farrington, who also composed the lyrics, was presented as the 1933 midwinter dramatic effort of the seminary glee club.

The Frantics are given each year at the Chevy Chase Seminary for invited audiences. The proceeds this year will be given to the Unemployment Relief Fund.

More Than 40 Participate.

Mrs. Farrington was assisted in arranging the lyrics by Mrs. Robert Ferguson, who directed the glee club, and was assisted by Miss Dorothy Bryde and Miss Barbara Bramwell.

More than 40 undergraduates of the school participated in the show. Technocracy, Congress and the international debt came in for their quota of panning, with the figure of "Eugenics O'Neill," all contributing to the wording of the political travesty.

Albemarle County Efficiency Grows

Special Supervisors Are Found Valuable to Education.

Charlottesville, Va., Feb. 24 (A.P.).—An intensive measurement program pursued over a four-year period has yielded data which show decided increases in instructional efficiency in Albemarle County, it is asserted in a study published in the University News Letter.

The county supervisory program, it was said, incorporates several unique features which have attracted wide attention. In the elementary schools field six special supervisors are employed, two cooperatively by the county schools and the university department of education.

The experience covered in the four-year study, it was said, points to the desirability of further developing in the State an educational program which will articulate the tasks of instructional supervision in the public schools and teacher training in the institutions of higher learning.

RENOVIZE CAMPAIGN BACKED BY AD CLUB

Berry Chooses Committee After Heaton Explains Plans of Drive.

The Advertising Club of Washington yesterday placed its unanimous approval on the Renovize Washington Campaign after an address at the Raleigh Hotel by Arthur B. Heaton, chairman of the campaign committee.

After Mr. Heaton had outlined the plans and purposes of the movement, Walter Barkdull, vice president of the club, presiding, put the question to the gathering and the response was heartily unanimous.

Committee Is Named.

President Howard W. Berry then named the following committee to represent the club in the movement:

James W. Hardey, Woodward & Lothrop's, chairman; Norman C. Kal, Kal Advertising, Inc.; John E. Shoemaker, General Outdoor Advertising; Bernie Viens, D. C. Engraving Co.; Col. Leroy W. Herron, advertising manager of the Evening Star; F. C. Wheeler, advertising manager of the Washington Herald; Troland Cleare, advertising manager of the Washington Times; Ernest S. Johnston, advertising manager of The Washington Post; Nelson P. Poynter, business manager of the Washington Daily News; Vincent F. Callahan, assistant to the president of the National Broadcasting Co.; Harry C. Butcher, manager of Radio Station WJSV, of the Columbia Broadcasting System; Leroy Mark, president, American Boradcasting Co., owner of Radio Station WOL, and William T. Pierson, of Radio Station WMAL.

A meeting of the main committee was held yesterday afternoon at the Board of Trade offices, and Francis P. Sullivan, president of the Washington Chapter of the American Institute of Architects, was designated to head an operating subcommittee to locate a ramshackle dwelling which will be placed in the park triangle in front of the Department of Commerce Building and renovated as an example of what can be accomplished.

Keen Interest Shown.

Business concerns throughout the city have already evinced keen interest in the campaign and are pouring promises of cooperation into the Board of Trade offices. Organized labor also is in concord with the movement. John Locher, head of the Building Trades Council of Washington, attended the afternoon meeting of the committee with other labor leaders.

The committee of Mr. Sullivan will be subdivided into groups with particular purposes. Its personnel follows:

Indorsement Given Drive By Manufacturers Board

The board of governors of the Merchants and Manufacturers Association indorsed the Renovize Washington Campaign yesterday.

The association went on record in favor of the bill now pending in Congress, which would permit the District, in case of urgent necessity, for emergency relief, which could not be financed in any other way, to borrow money from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

The board indorsed the report of the fact finding committee of the joint committee on workmen's compensation rates, and expressed the opinion that the increase of 26.9 per cent in workmen's compensation rates in the District was entirely unreasonable and unnecessary.

The association voted to petition Congress to reduce the water rates 20 per cent in the District, pointing out that the 50 per cent increase in rates last year had produced funds much in excess of those needed and that the subcommittee of the Appropriations Committee had found that this could be reduced 20 per cent and permit of sufficient revenue to operate the Water Department.

Wets Are Assailed In Nicholson Case

Sentinels Charge Fining of Dry Leader Due to Persecution.

(Associated Press.)

The National Sentinels, meeting here yesterday, characterized the conviction of their president, Mrs. Jesse W. Nicholson, of violating a zoning ordinance in Montrose, Md., as "a matter of persecution by the wets."

Mrs. Nicholson, dry crusader, has announced her intention of appealing from the conviction. She was fined $11 in police court in a case which grew out of the erection of an addition to a gasoline station she owns. The resolution adopted by the National Sentinels said in part:

"We have seen the permit and know that Mrs. Nicholson has complied with the provisions of the zoning law in every way. The National Sentinels believe in the courage, fair dealing and righteousness of their leader in this matter, and indorse her action in every way."

Luray, Va., Feb. 24 (A.P.).—A filling station just outside Stanley, Va., was entered and the contents of two slot machines were rifled this morning immediately preceding a fire in Huffman's filling station, a mile away.

The Huffman's building was burned and other buildings were damaged before the fire department from Luray arrived. Damage was estimated at $15,000.

Sheriff E. L. Lucas said evidence had been found that the fire was of incendiary origin. He said he also believed there was some connection between the robbery and the fire. He said he would notify the State fire marshal of his findings.

Ritchie Drops Theater Tax; Film Censor Board Scored

(By Staff Correspondent.)

Annapolis, Md., Feb. 24.—Possibility of a State tax on theater and movie tickets in Maryland disappeared today when Gov. Albert C. Ritchie suggested an alternate tax, while in the Senate a biting attack was launched on the State Board of Motion Picture Censors.

Presenting a revised tax program and budget, Gov. Ritchie pointed out that it needed only one new tax, a levy on race track bets. Referring to the suggested amusement tax, he said: "I came to the conclusion that the theaters and movies should not be burdened with additional taxation."

The attack on the board of censors originated in RALEIGH, N. C., Feb. 24.—The University of Maryland was eliminated, 65 to 28, in the first round of the twelfth annual Southern Conference basket ball tournament tonight by the University of South Carolina, the tournament favorite.

Freddie Tompkins, elongated Gamecock forward, could not miss the hoop tonight and rang up fourteen field goals and three free shots for 31 points, passing the old tournament record of 27 points for an individual player in one game.

Thompson stood under the basket and his Athens, Tex., teammates fed him the ball, and he was a willing receiver.

Noted Stars With Gamecocks.

Dana Henderson, center, and another one of the Athens quartet, scored 14 points for the South Carolina team. Bennie Tompkins, guard, and John Roland are also from Athens, Tex. This quartet played together on the high school team of Athens which won the national high school championship two successive years. The Tompkins brothers were named all-time All-American high school players for their respective positions.

Rufus Vincent, Maryland center and high scorer of the conference, led the Old Liners with 14 points. Bob Snyder played a nice floor game and scored 8 points.

Maryland played rather erratic ball, passing the ball wild and shooting from all angles of the court. The Old Liners, however, had to shoot fast as the alert Bird guards were constantly on their heels.

South Carolina scored 16 points before Rufus Vincent sank a field goal for Maryland's first score of the night. The game was ten minutes old at the time. The scoring at the half was 30 to 10.

Coach Billy Laval, of South Carolina, used a second team during the last ten minutes of the game. South Carolina will meet University of North Carolina, winners over V. P. I. in the first round, tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the first semiannual game.

Von Porat, Taken Ill, Griffiths Wins

Norwegian, Leading Foe, Collapses Without Being Hit Hard.

Chicago, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—A fight that took four years to make ended with startling abruptness tonight when Otto Von Porat, stately Norwegian heavyweight, failed to come out for the eighth round, and Tuffy Griffiths, of Sioux City, Iowa, was declared winner by a technical knockout.

Von Porat had given the Sioux City youngster a thorough and methodical beating from the second round to the sixth, but in the seventh, apparently without having been hit hard, he suddenly ceased firing. He managed to hang on and stall out the round, but when he reached his corner he became severely ill and nauseated.

His seconds and manager, Ed Stevenson, worked over him frantically, but when he coughed up blood, Stevenson notified the referee, Tommy Thomas, that he could not go on.

The sudden end of the bout, a Chicago West Side neighborhood feud, inspired a storm of boos from the crowd of about 7,500 spectators, which subsided when the Norwegian tried to get to his feet, only to slump back onto his stool.

Campbell to Pay Washington Visit En Route Abroad

Daytona Beach, Fla., Feb. 24 (U.P.).—Sir Malcolm Campbell, who registered a new land speed record of 272.108 miles an hour on Wednesday, will start his return journey to England Sunday when he leaves for Washington.

The millionaire British racing driver will spend Monday in the Capital, will be guest of honor at an American Automobile Association luncheon and possibly will have a chat with President Hoover.

Sir Malcolm will arrive in New York Wednesday and sail that night for Southampton on the liner Aquitania. Because of misinformation regarding the Aquitania's sailing time, he had not planned to leave here until Tuesday.

His record-shattering Bluebird automobile was crated today and placed in a freight car, along with its spare motor and 27 cases of supplies. It was scheduled to leave tonight for New York. Campbell's six mechanics will leave Monday and sail with the car on the Aquitania.

Clarke, of Firemen, Ill, Game Is Canceled

When Morris Clarke, Fire Department basket ball captain and veteran star, was taken ill in the second half of last night's Government League combat between the Smoke Eaters and Bolling Field, hostilities were brought to a halt and the game ordered canceled. Bolling was leading, 9 to 8.

The final first half Government League tilt will take place this afternoon at 3 o'clock, when Bolling Field plays host to the champion Bureau of Investigation outfit. The Sleuths will go into a tie for the laurels with G. P. O. if they win, while a Bolling triumph gives the Typos initial titular honors.

Doc Wilson's Injuries Deemed Not Serious

Indianapolis, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—Al G. Feeney, State athletic commissioner, said today he had been informed Dr. Ralph (Doc) Wilson, professional wrestler, suffered no serious injury in his bout last night at Muncie, Ind., with Wee Willie Davies.

VA. U. BOXERS LEADING IN TOURNEY

Goldstein Stops Foe in First; 8 Cavaliers Win Tests.

UNIVERSITY, Va., Feb. 24 (A.P.).—Ten torrid bouts in the lower bracket tonight ended the initial day's elimination in the seventh annual Southern Conference boxing tournament at the University of Virginia.

Two technical knockouts, both by Virginia scrappers, were among the ten bouts, conclusion of which found the Cavaliers' hopes of retaining their Southern Conference championship for another year appreciably brighter.

Through afternoon and night scraps the defending champions showed the way in team play, placing all eight of their entries in the semifinals tomorrow afternoon.

Goldstein Outclasses W. & L. Man.

From the start Thomas, of Washington and Lee, was no match for Bobby Goldstein, the Virginia captain in their lightweight bout. The General took a punishing attack that wilted him in a minute and a half.

Goldstein scored repeatedly with lefts and rights and ducked most of Thomas' offerings. Under a barrage of blows, face and head, Thomas sagged to the floor and Goldstein was declared the winner with a technical knockout.

The other technical knockout was gained by Lewis Reiss, Virginia's Southern Conference light-heavyweight champion, whose terrific straight jabs were too much for Peyton Brown, of North Carolina. The Tarheel hung on desperately after taking severe punishment in the second round, but slipped to the canvas for a technical knockout after 1 minute 16 seconds.

Tarheels Sing Praises Of Injured Captain.

Boss Cronin Barks Orders In Brisk Workout of Nats

By BOB CONSIDINE
(Post Staff Correspondent).

BILOXI, Miss., Feb. 24.—Barking orders with a confidence that belied his one-day career as manager of a big league team, Joe Cronin sent a score of pitchers and catchers through a brisk hour's workout here this morning on a training field flooded with cascades of sunshine and swept by the kind of zephyrs you read about in the Florida railroad ads.

It was a thoroughly damp crowd of ball players who wound up the morning's activities, which opened and closed with a fast trot around the huge ball yard. If the beads of sweat were laid end to end, it would create quite a nuisance.

Incidentally, there's no doubt in anybody's mind about who's the boss of the Nats this year. Cronin, who has been a natural leader ever since he came here as a rookie, has blossomed out into an amiable autocrat, but still retains one of those personalities best described by the word winning. The boys, all eager to get going at this here baseball training after a day of lobby sitting and rain-regarding, worked like a pack of pyramid-building slaves and reported to Rubber Martin, the bicep banger, after the drill drenched in their own broth.

Cronin Enthused Over Workout.

At the conclusion of the first real drill of the season, Cronin expressed boyish enthusiasm at the condition of the men and the fact that they went about the drill as if they seemed to realize that it was a sport and not that they were hired hands paid certain sums to make certain motions certain afternoons. Cronin said that he would continue the "light" workouts for three more days before doing anything serious with the boys.

Al Crowder, whose arm gave out an audible creak when he threw the first ball this morning, is six pounds over weight, 176. Cronin, himself, for that matter, is four pounds above his playing weight of 180. Outside of these two, all of the regulars appear as though they weren't near a seidel of beer all winter. In fact, Earl Whitehill weighs only 169, his lightest weight in six years.

Luke Sewell New Arrival.

Luke Sewell, Washington's new backstop, arrived early this morning and donned uniform in time for the workout. Sewell is a good-looking fellow, 32 years old, very dark, kind of stocky, and with one of those Alabama drawls thick enough to make mud pies out of. His first act of office was to tell the one about the photographer and the dancing team, which may be had by addressing a letter, along with a 2-cent stamp, to the above address.

Most of the hard work this morning was not the pitching back and forth, but what is known as "pepper drilling." With Cronin, Kerr, Altrock, Schacht, Bolton and Sewell wielding the bats with quick snappy bunts, the raft of 14 pitchers were sent diving into the turf in quest of the snaky grounders and jumping high into the air for the incipient Texas leaguers.

Cronin lost no time in finding out whether Cliff Bolton had done anything about improving his main weakness, going back after pop flies. He detailed Nick Altrock to pop some of the twisters to the spool-shaped catcher, and the way he tore back and snared about 25 in a row without dropping one, convinced both Cronin and Griffith, who watched this performance with particular attention, that he has done much to master the single drawback that is keeping him bouncing back to the minors with such regularity. There's not much doubt that if Bolton does make good his promise of better defensive play, his determined young pan will be seen behind the plate when the Nats swing north for a trip down Pennant Boulevard.

Ed Linke still continues to be the clown of the camp, in spite of the presence of both Altrock and Schacht. Quite unconsciously Linke stole the show this morning when he came out of the dressing room looking so much like a medicine ball that a couple of the nearsighted veterans were all for throwing him around the ring. The roly-poly, blond kid, as playful and cheerful as a puppy, had on a heavy undershirt, rubber shirt and his baseball shirt. They ran him around the park a couple of times, made him work longer at the pepper drill than anybody, had him pitch for half an hour, and then Altrock took him over in a corner, stood about 3 feet away from him and started to toss balls to him, now dropping it at Linke's feet, then making him jump for it, now to the right and then to the left, but always stooping, bending or twisting this way and that. Linke wound up his long, hot workout all but drowned in perspiration. They put him on the scales and he weighed 203 pounds, 2 pounds more than before the workout.

RISKO VICTOR IN LEVINSKY SLUGFEST

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—In his very best form as a "spoiler" of heavyweight ambitions, despite his 31 years, bounding Johnny Risko, the round-faced baker boy from Cleveland gave King Levinsky a thorough trouncing tonight in ten rounds. It was Risko's third decision over the wild-punching Chicago youngster.

It was a fine old pier 6 brawl between a couple of the roughest warriors in the ring today, and the stamping and snorting and wild punching entertained thoroughly a crowd of over 10,000, although the duel was of little significance in the present heavyweight scheme of things.

Floors Levinsky In First.

Risko, looking as well and smart as the day Tex Rickard named him "The Spoiler" after he punched Jack Sharkey out of a title match with Gene Tunney, scored the only knockdown of the match in the first round. He smacked the curly-headed Chicagoan down with a left and right-handed volley to the head, but the Kingfish bounded up again without a count.

But for the first three rounds Levinsky made very heavy weather of it indeed as the bland Bohemian, getting the jump, belted him all over the premises with jooping lefts that all the topline heavyweights have found trouble stopping over a period of the last seven or eight years.

In the second round, particularly, Risko staggered Levinsky twice with clouts to the jaw and belted his body so vigorously that the Kingfish sat nauseated in his corner between rounds.

Free-Punching Melee.

Once Levinsky got his wind back after the third round, they put on a fantastic, free-punching melee that had the crowd roaring with a mixture of laughter and admiration. They paid absolutely no attention to the bells that indicate the end of a round and the start of a minute rest, and merrily slammed away at each other until Little Pete Hartley, the referee only half as big as either one of them, wore himself out so that he had to get the help of all the seconds in both corners prying them apart after the final gong.

On the Associated Press score card, Risko won six rounds, the first three and the last three, Levinsky, three with one even.

Sale of Red Sox Today Possibility

Quinn Admits Negotiations With N. Y. Syndicate on Deal for Club.

Boston, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—On the eve of a visit from President William Harridge of the American League, Bob Quinn, Boston Red Sox magnate, today admitted the possibility of a speedy disposal of his baseball interests to a New York syndicate.

President Harridge, according to Quinn, is coming here tomorrow merely to attend a testimonial luncheon to Marty McManus, the Red Sox manager. Followers of the club's ill fortunes, however, were convinced that the league head has a more pressing reason for one of his rare official visits to Boston.

Quinn did not appear greatly impressed when he admitted that a New York group was dickering for his club. He predicted, however, that if the deal is not made within the next 24 hours, there is slight chance of it being consummated thereafter.

"This is not the first time I have come close to selling the Red Sox," he said. "For that reason I wouldn't even say what I think the chances are of the deal going through. If we agree on terms, I'll sell the club. If we don't I'll hold on to it. I am not worrying one way or another."

Quinn added that one of the prospective purchasers inquired whether $250,000 was enough to build up the club.

He said he has not even considered his future plans in the event he sells his Boston holdings.

Winner at Agua Pays $840 to $2; No Bets to Place

Agua Caliente, Mex., Feb. 24 (A.P.).—Augeas, 5-year-old brown gelding, owned by Mrs. H. M. Parkes, paid the longest price of the Jockey Club meeting, $840 to $2, in the parimutuels here today when he beat Tack by a nose at 1 1-16 miles.

Augeas broke away from the starting gate and ran a half-mile while the starter was lining up the field, but he was controlled by Jockey Verne Wallace, who brought him back. He still had enough left to win.

The race was the sixth on the program. Only one straight ticket was sold on Augeas. E. L. Harris, of Long Beach, Calif., held the lucky one. There was no place ticket sold on the horse, but he paid $28.60 to show.

It was Wallis who rode King Jack to a surprise victory at 1 1-16 miles here January 28, when that thoroughbred paid $821 to $2. Wallis earlier today had ridden Tienette, a 16-to-1 shot, to victory in the 6 furlong second race for Mrs. Parkes.

Captain Gilbert was third to Augeas, which covered the distance in 1:46 4-5. While the odds were the longest ever paid here, they fell short of the $1,885.50 that Wishing Ring paid at Latonia, June 17, 1912.

Grakle, Grand National Winner of 1932, Hurt

London, Feb. 24 (U.P.).—Grakle, winner of the Grand National Steeplechase in 1931, in the record time of 9 minutes 32 4-5 seconds, was scratched from the 1933 race today because of an injury to the fetlock. There were 67 acceptances to the classic this year, to be run over the famous Aintree course March 24.

Pitt Suffers First Defeat in League as Hargaden Stars.

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON.

A FIGHTING Georgetown quintet came from behind to catch Pittsburgh's fleet Panthers and score a 28-27 victory before a noisy throng of several hundred fans last night at Tech High School. Capt. Jack Crowley's pot shot, made from just beyond the free throw zone in the final three seconds of play, swung the decision in the Hilltoppers' favor when defeat seemed imminent.

Best described as a stunning upset, Georgetown's triumph snapped a string of four consecutive victories which Pittsburgh had accumulated in the intercollegiate cage league. It was the District team's second league triumph.

Ed Hargaden, second highest scorer of the association, was assigned to Don McCamant, Pitt's ace, for the evening, and so attentive was he to his task that the thin-faced, black-haired McCamant registered only 3 points. Hargaden managed to find the time and opportunities to help the local cause along with three field goals and a foul for 7 points.

O'Conner's Play Vital Factor.

Though Hargaden and Crowley were invaluable in Georgetown's attack, the outstanding star of the fray was Jerry O'Conner, who broke up numerous Pitt passes and led his team in scoring with 9 points. O'Conner was given a tremendous ovation when taken out for a rest late in the game.

Georgetown finally seized a 16-15 lead at the intermission after the teams took turns at holding it throughout the first half. Bill Hughes, Pitt forward, whose 9 points came at opportune moments, led the team's scoring. McCamant was held pointless in the first stanza.

The Pennsylvanians reopened hostilities with a barrage of shots that quickly erased Georgetown's lead and gave them a 22-16 advantage.

Hughes Misses Winning Goal.

Hargaden later brought the Washington collegians within a point of the Yellow Jackets with a pot shot. There was a hot scramble for the leather in a corner near the Georgetown basket as Pitt sought to freeze the ball. Suddenly the ball bounded free into midcourt where Bill Hughes picked it up on a dead run and streaked for the goal. It looked like an easy snowbird and the game, but

SEA FOX NEVER HEADED IN HIALEAH PARK MILE FEATURE

Winner Sets Own Pace At Miami

Jubilate Beaten Half Length in Drive Down Stretch

HIALEAH PARK, Fla., Feb. 24 (A. P.).—The Panacea Purse, a dash of one mile, which was provided as a feature at Hialeah Park this afternoon, furnished a stirring contest when J. P. Somerville's Sea Fox, in a driving finish, beat the Brookmeade Stable's Jubilate out by half a length. The Panacea carried a purse of $1,000. There were six starters and Action was the favorite. Sea Fox, who broke from an inside position, left the post in front and scored in runaway fashion. He set a rapid pace and, making the turn into the home stretch, had a lead of two lengths. In the final furlong he began to weaken and at the end was under a hard drive to stall off a determined challenge from Jubilate. Action, racing on the outside most of the trip, was never a dangerous factor.

Ideal racing weather brought out a large gathering and keen sport was in order.

Twelve maidens went to the post in the third race. This was a dash of 1 mile for which Bran Muffin was made favorite. The winner turned up in Dusky Lass, a filly, whose chances were not taken seriously by the rank and file. When the break came Dusky Lass, breaking forwardly, quickly assumed the lead and once in front she remained there. In the stretch run she stalled off determined opposition from Bran Muffin and in a driving finish beat the latter out a scant length. Dodlodo was third. The winner paid $92.80.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

MIAMI, FEB. 24.

DEAR AL:

Johnny Gilbert gave the boys something to remember him by today when he rode Dusky Lass home to hang up a $92.80 mutuel. Johnny was riding his first winner in three days and brought his total for the year to 25 in 145 mounts which leaves him far in the dust of Lou Humphries, who has booted in 57 winners at Agua Caliente, averaging one winner to every four mounts. Thought you would be more interested in those few facts than in another series of Bennings alibis. I have some alleged horses going tomorrow.

BILL.

FIRST RACE—LIVE ONE has been showing keen speed of late and seems ideally suited for a winning effort among these. ST. CHRISTOPHER gets in with only 100 pounds and may cause the top one trouble. SOLACE appears capable of taking the show. SCOT FREE may surprise by being in the money, some clockers say.

SECOND RACE—COLLATERAL gets the edge over the heavily weighted FULL TILT in the baby engagement. Both are speedy and courageous. MACADAM has been fairly consistent and will be ready to move up if the top ones make any mistakes.

THIRD RACE—MOVE FASTER has been working sensationally and may pop down the stretch to take this purse at sizable odds. Looks like the classy VILLAGE VAMP and FRIGATE BIRD will complete the money picture.

FOURTH RACE—DON LEON is in such rare form that I can't pass him up even in a field of this caliber. Like him to lead CON AMORE and MR. SPONGE to the wire.

FIFTH RACE—KINCSEN should take care of the field in the feature. This mare, which took care of a brilliant field at Bowie last fall, has been raced into top form and will pick them up in the stretch, I believe. CHIEF JOHN and LARRANAGA for the place and show. ST. BRIDEAUX may do it, but it took a long campaign last fall to bring this one up to a real race.

SIXTH RACE—I'm going out on the limb by myself here by naming INLANDER. Go across the board and ask no questions. POT AU BROOMS and COAT TAILS to do the chief chasing at the finish.

SEVENTH RACE—MERIDAN QUEEN carries the Bennings dough here. MIKE HALL probably will be bet up and down the coast. I put him second. BRASS MONKEY for the show.

G. W. Swimmers Tied By Duke; Records Fall

Five pool records were smashed as George Washington and Duke University paddled to a 33-33 tie in their swimming meet at the Ambassador pool last night. The Colonials passed up their marring Duke's undefeated record when they conceded the relay race to the Southerners after a close finish.

Gormely, diving for the first time, won the event for G. W. He also smashed the 200-yard breast stroke record, negotiating the distance in 2:46. Max Rote, G. W. captain, surpassed the existing marks in the 50-yard free style and 100-yard free style races.

200-YARD RELAY—Won by Duke University. Time, 1:35.

FANCY DIVING—Won by Ghormley (G. W.); second, Young (Duke); third, Pischal (Duke).

50-YARD FREE STYLE—Won by Rote (G. W.); second, Losee (Duke); third, Vedder (G. W.). Time, 0:23.4. (Record.)

150-YARD BACK STROKE—Won by Varela (Duke); second, Hain (G. W.); third, MacMullen (G. W.) Time, 1:56.3. (Record.)

200-YARD BREAST STROKE—Won by Ghormley (G. W.); second, Tennat (Duke); third, McAnalay (Duke). Time, 2:46. (Record.)

100-YARD FREE STYLE—Won by Rote (G. W.); second, T. Losee (Duke); third, B. Losee (Duke). Time, 0:53.1 (Record.)

American U. Winner, 45-30; Dick, Sells Star

Leonel Dick and Oscar Sells led American University to a 45-30 victory over Virginia Medical College in the Eagles' final game of the season last night on their home floor. A large crowd saw the District quintet score its twelfth victory in 14 games.

The Medicos found the Eagle defense too difficult to penetrate and were forced to resort to long shots for their points. The visitors were unusually adept at sinking their pot shots.

Dick and Sells scored 18 points each, giving the home team a lead at the outset which it maintained until the end.

TRACK ELITE IN ACTION TONIGHT

8 National Champions Defend Crowns in A. A. U. Meet.

NEW YORK, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—The pick of the country's indoor track and field competitors, recruited from 18 States and 21 colleges and universities, will make their annual assault on titles and records tomorrow night in Madison Square Garden in the National Amateur Athletic Union championships, with records in imminent danger in several events.

The meet is being conducted on a metric basis for the first time. Eight champions have entered to defend their titles.

Of all the champions, Gene Venzke, in the 1,500 meters, faces the most threatening opposition. His track nemesis, Glenn Cunningham, of the University of Kansas, aims not only at Gene's title and record for the shorter distance, but also at his world indoor mile mark of 4:10. The Kansas flier has obtained permission to continue on from 1,500 meters to the 6-furlong mark. He has mapped out a program which may take him to 1,500 meters well under Gene's record of 3:53.4 and to the mile in 4:09.6, or a fraction better.

Other champions on whose heads crowns rest uneasily are Emmett Toppino in the sprint, George Lermond in the 5,000 meters run, George Spitz in the high jump, Leo Sexton in the 35-pound weight throw and possibly Joe McCluskey in the 3,000-meter steeplechase and Everett Utterback in the broad jump.

Gallaudet Beats Baltimore U., 34-22

Gallaudet College closed its season at Kendall Green last night with a surprise 34-to-22 victory over Baltimore University. It was the Blues' sixth victory in eighteen starts.

Andy Crockett led the Gallaudet attack, locating the hoop for seven field goals and a brace of fouls for 16 points. The Washington team led from the start and boasted a 15-to-12 advantage at the intermission.

Clabaugh, forward, and McKenzie, guard, were outstanding for Baltimore, which played a disappointing game as a whole.

In a preliminary game, Gallaudet's Junior Varsity lost a 41-to-20 decision to the Olmsted Grill tossers.

GEORGETOWN FIVE UPSETS PITT, 28-27

Hughes overtimed his dribble and his belated shot struck the underside of the backboard.

The ball was passed back into play and came into possession of Hargaden, who dribbled to the center circle, started to shoot, but passed to Crowley, who scored the winning goal. Pitt called time out and the final gun barked as the succeeding tapoff was hauled in by Carolan.

In a preliminary game Tech High School defeated Georgetown freshmen, 35 to 15, featured by Waverly Wheeler's stellar work.

"Christ Jesus" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all the Churches of Christ, Scientist, tomorrow. The golden text is from Hebrews 1:1-2: "God, who at sundry times and in divers manners spake in time past unto the fathers by the prophets, hath in these last days spoken unto us by his Son, whom He hath appointed heir of all things, by whom also He made the worlds." Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "The Lord thy God will raise up unto thee a Prophet from the midst of thee, of thy brethren, like unto me; unto him ye shall hearken." (Deuteronomy xviii:15).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science Textbook, "Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Jesus was the son of a virgin. He was appointed to speak God's word and to appear to mortals in such a form of humanity as they could understand as well as perceive. Mary's conception of him was spiritual, for only purity could reflect Truth and Love, which were plainly incarnate in the good and pure Christ Jesus. He expressed the highest type of divinity, which a fleshly form could express in that age." (page 332.)

HOWARD HILL, Florida huntsman, regularly bags wolves and coyote on the range, but never uses a gun or ammunition. He simply takes his bow and arrows on the chase. He has developed a rapid-fire technique which, with his ability to shoot an arrow so far that it stays in the air more than 20 seconds, enables him to keep eight arrows in the air at the same time.

The small statue shown above has been called Brussels' first citizen. It has enjoyed recognition of several rulers, and now has a wardrobe of eight suits of clothes. Louis XV gave the statue an embroidered coat and a medal. Napoleon honored it with a chamberlain's key. During the revolution the statue wore the red cap of liberty, and it now is dressed in the uniform of the Belgian guard.

In districts where snow has covered the ground, birds have difficulty finding enough food to keep them alive. Large numbers of them are dependent on bread crumbs and grain placed for them. To aid residents all over the Nation to assist in this work, the postal authorities have provided that parcel post packages containing cracked corn or small grain can be posted anywhere in the country. Rural route carriers will distribute the grain where it is needed.

The Washington Post.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

RURAL DRAMA, THEN AND NOW.

Scene: Living room of the old farmhouse.

Time: Any time up to 1933.

OUR HERO—Nellie, I love you. Will you be my bride?

Nellie (very sadly)—I couldn't leave pa and ma now, of all times.

Our Hero—They've got the old farm and the home, Nellie.

Our Hero (not quite understanding)—But . . .

Nellie (sensing it all)—Who's there?

Voice—It is I, Sheriff Jack Kincaid!

Pa (who has come in from the kitchen)—Whatcher want, Jack Kincaid?

Sheriff (throwing open the door and flourishing the papers)—You know very well what I want! You ain't met the payments on the mortgage and I've come to take it away from ye!

(Our Nell swoons in Our Hero's arms. Pa sinks into a chair and buries his head in his arms. From upstairs ma is heard sobbing. The sheriff paces the room triumphantly.)

TODAY.

Scene: The same.

Our Hero—I love you, Nell. Will you be my bride?

Nell—Why not? Things are so bad they couldn't get worse.

Our Hero—I'll take you to the city to live, Nell.

Nell—I suppose pa and ma will miss me, but there's one consolation: They owe so much money that nothing can happen to 'em.

Nell—Who's there?

Voice (very politely)—It is Jack Kincaid, the sheriff.

Pa (from the kitchen)—What is it, Nellie?

Nell—The sheriff is here.

Pa—Tell him to scram!

Ma (from the head of the stairs)—Yes. We don't want no sheriff today.

Sheriff (still staying outside)—I'm sorry, folks, and I hope you'll understand my position. Squire Ambrose has foreclosed and the court's sent me to auction off the old farm.

Nell—You better run along, sheriff. We're in no mood for auctions.

Pa (coming in and opening the door)—What's all this nonsense about court foreclosures and auctions?

Sheriff (very nervously)—It ain't none of my doing! Squire. The Court sent me to sell the property to the highest bidder an' I gotta do it. I've gotta sell all the cattle.

Cattle (from the barnyard)—Sez you!

Sheriff—Two mules and . . . . . .

Mules—Hee! Haw! Hee! Haw!

Our Hero (dramatically pulling out a long piece of rope)—Enough of this nonsense, Jack Kincaid! Here's thirty cents! I bid in the whole works.

Sheriff (taking the money with an air of relief)—Sold for thirty cents, and I'm sorry I had to trouble you folks.

Pa (disappointedly)—Shucks! And it was such a lovely mornin' fer a nice lynchin'!

FLORIDA REACTION.

Here I lie upon the sand,
Where weather's summery and grand;
From nearby radio comes forth:
"Cold spell and snowstorms sweep the North . . ."
Ah, what a spirit mean is mine!
I find it makes me feel just fine!

Auto Crash Passenger Asks $10,000 Damages

Dickerson N. Hoover, 413 Seward Square southeast, supervising inspector general of the Steamboat Inspection Service, yesterday instituted suit for $10,000 damages from Bartholomew F. Comer, 2141 K street northwest, and Wilson P. Kilgore, of the National Press Building, because of an automobile accident last October.

Through Attorney John P. Bramhall, Hoover charged that while he was a passenger in a taxicab owned by Comer, the cab collided with an automobile operated by Kilgore. The accident occurred at Louisiana avenue and D street northwest.

Fire Rush

Fourteen hundred Interstate Commerce Commission employes had an exciting recess just before quitting time yesterday.

The wheels of the railroad rate-making body were grinding along placidly. A wisp of smoke issued from an elevator shaft. A watchman became alarmed and struck the fire alarm gong.

In a moment the building was roaring with the rush of hurrying feet. Engines were shrieking on the way. A pitch game was even held up for a moment in the press room while reporters waiting to flash momentous I. C. C. decisions craned necks.

Hundreds of passersby joined the crowd out front. Much merriment reigned. Many wisecracks were passed. Firemen sweated in the springy air. Reporters—the police variety—asked firemen questions.

GEN. CROSBY TO QUIT COMMISSION OFFICE AFTER INAUGURATION

Dr. Reichelderfer Unlikely to Follow Example of His Colleague.

Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, District Commissioner in charge of the Police Department, yesterday confirmed rumors which had been current for some time that he would tender his resignation immediately after Franklin D. Roosevelt takes the oath of office as President. His term would expire April 9.

His action will in no way constitute a protest against change in administration, Gen. Crosby said, but will merely be a fulfillment of a wish he has long harbored. In addition, it is understood that the Commissioner is considering several lucrative offers to enter private industry.

That Gen. Crosby has not liked the role of District Commissioner, particularly since the aftermath of the Bonus Expeditionary Force eviction climaxed by the resignation of Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford as superintendent of police, has been an open secret. His whole attitude was one of eagerness to complete his term.

Insistence of President Hoover.

Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer, chairman of the board, yesterday stated that he had no intention of following Gen. Crosby's lead although he stated he had given the matter little thought in that his term expires so shortly after Roosevelt takes office.

Gen. Crosby took the post of District Commissioner somewhat against his will and upon the insistence of President Hoover, who had visions of making the National Capital a model city of law enforcement. At that time Gen. Crosby, then chief of U. S. Cavalry, made it clear that he would accept the appointment for but one term, and he expressed a wish to be relieved earlier if it were found convenient.

Shortly after he took office, Gen. Crosby began trying to make the Police Department conform to a military organization. He ordered a regrouping of the precincts on a military plan and made it clear that he expected each subordinate officer to be entirely responsible for the men under his charge.

Rift With Gen. Glassford.

With the expected resignation of Maj. Henry G. Pratt as chief of police and of William S. Shelby as chief of detectives, Gen. Crosby selected a military officer with the expressed intention of carrying further his ideas of military discipline into the Police Department.

The B. E. F. encampment threw a bombshell into this plan, however, and shortly led to a rift between the Commissioner and the man on whom he had banked to build up a model Police Department.

All told, Gen. Crosby has had a rather explosive administration, covering the Mary Baker and Beulah Limerick murder mysteries, among others; the sensational third degree inquiry, the resignation of two police chiefs and the B. E. F., two hunger marches and several Communist demonstrations.

Immediately after his resignation is accepted, Gen. Crosby plans to take a rest on a cruise in Southern waters.

Swap Pity

Ecklund Girl and Mother of Cash in Dramatic Grief Exchange.

Sorrow swept away hate and grief took the place of revulsion as the two forgotten victims of the Ecklund murder met yesterday on the common ground of mutual pity.

The daughter of Elner H. Ecklund, murdered paymaster, consoled the mother of Albert E. Cash, who is accused of killing Ecklund, and Mrs. Cash consoled the girl at the death of her father.

As the court recessed a black-garbed girl approached the gray-haired mother of Cash. It was the Ecklund girl. The mother of Cash clasped the extended hand of the girl. On one of the fingers of the hand, Mrs. Cash fondled, was a fraternal ring, which the Ecklund girl carried in memory of her father. It was a ring Ecklund was wearing when Mrs. Cash's 20-year-old son allegedly murdered him.

"I told Mrs. Cash," the girl said, "that I held nothing against her. If a mother brings a child into the world and does all she can for him and he does something wrong, the mother should not be blamed. The mother has done her part.

"Mrs. Cash offered me sympathy at the death of my father. I thanked her. I felt sorry for her. She asked me if I would not plead for mercy for her boy. I could not do that. People would think I had no feelings for my father.

"I think the murderers should be punished. How they should be punished is a question for a jury to decide. The ones who killed my father left me alone in the world. Mother is dead. She died last May. Then father was murdered. I have no near relatives. I am utterly alone."

JUDGES' PAY CASE IN SUPREME COURT

Economy Act Scope Dispute of District Bench Is Received.

The fight over whether the judges of the courts of District of Columbia come under the economy act was carried to the Supreme Court yesterday when the Court of Claims asked a decision on whether the District of Columbia Supreme Court, the District Court of Appeals and the Court of Claims were created by the Constitution or by Congress.

Under the ruling of Comptroller McCarl, the judges of those courts were forced to accept a 20 per cent reduction in their salaries.

Judges William Hitz, of the Court of Appeals; Daniel W. O'Donoghue, of the District Supreme Court, and Thomas S. Williams, of the Court of Claims, filed suit in the Court of Claims seeking to recover their salaries.

They contended that the reduction was in violation of the provision that the salary of judges of "constitutional" courts should not be reduced. Hence the validity of the Comptroller's ruling depends upon whether the three courts are "constitutional" or "legislative."

Seized Driver Accused Of Deserting Victim, Six

Raymond Huston, 28, 2422 Twenty-fifth street southeast, was arrested on hit-and-run charges last night after his automobile was identified as the one which had run over Henry People, 6, colored, 517 Rhode Island avenue northwest, in front of 1734 Sixth street northwest.

When the accident occurred the driver of the car is said to have picked up the injured boy, saying he would take him to the hospital. A short while later the boy was found unconscious at New Jersey avenue and M street northwest by a motorist, who took him to Sibley Hospital. The boy suffered a lacerated ear and other injuries. He was allowed to return home.

ECKLUND JURY DUE TO GET CASE TODAY OF 4 ACCUSED MEN

Only 2 Defense Arguments and Collins' Address Yet to Be Heard.

The fate of the four defendants in the murder of Elner H. Ecklund may be known before nightfall today, it appeared last night as their trial neared its final stages, with defense attorneys engaging in a frantic battle to save their clients from the electric chair.

Only two defense arguments and the closing address of Assistant United States Attorney William H. Collins remain to be heard, before the destinies of the four are placed in the hands of the jury by Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue.

Likening the four accused men to "rats scurrying to shelter from a sinking ship," Mr. Collins asked the jury to convict the men of murder in the first degree, which would automatically carry with it the death penalty.

Sister Weeps Audibly.

The plea that the men be forced to expiate with their lives for their alleged crime also was heard by the mother of Cash, and by the daughter of Elner H. Ecklund, whom the four men are accused of having murdered.

In defense of Everett Lee Blackwell, the brother-in-law of Cash, his attorneys, James Archer and J. Joseph Donohue, argued that while he had been in conspiracy with the other four defendants to rob Ecklund, yet he abandoned his purpose and did not go through with the plan.

Not Asking Mercy.

"If he did back out," Mr. Archer said, "he should be acquitted."

"We are not asking mercy," Mr. Donohue pleaded, "nor do we ask sympathy. What we do ask is justice. If you do find that this boy did not abandon his purpose, he should be compelled to forfeit his life. He is but 22 years old and for the last ten years he has been without a mother."

Mr. Donohue ridiculed the contentions of Fewel Workman and Claude Myers, colored, who are accused of doing the actual killing, and who have testified they were compelled by Blackwell and Cash to go through with the robbery under fear of death.

Declared Without Gun.

"Can you believe that this 132-pound boy, without a gun, could compel these grown men, who were armed, to do anything they did not want to do?" he asked.

Al Philip Kame, one of the defense counsel for Myers, told the jurymen that they "must find that a purpose to kill was in the mind of Myers at the time of the alleged crime," and rested Myers' defense on the grounds of intoxication, compulsion and an accidental killing.

"Punish Cash, if you will, but not by death," Alfred Goldstein adjured the men who will decide the fate of his client.

Points to Surrender.

"Cash," he continued, "surrendered himself after the alleged crime. He surrendered himself and tried to cover up the crime of robbery but not the crime of murder. And when Detective Sergt. Dalglish told him that Mr. Ecklund was dead, he told the truth."

Other arguments on behalf of Cash will be given today by James A. O'Shea, while the defense argument of Fewel Workman will be given by Louis Whitestone.

The men are accused of having murdered Ecklund during an attempted pay roll holdup near the new House Office Building on January 20.

Swarthmore Defeated By G. W. Girl Debaters

George Washington University girl debaters, arguing against Swarthmore University last night, convinced their hearers of the merits of cancellation of the interallied war debts. A vote of the audience on the question, taken before and after the debate, showed a preponderance of opinion changed by the arguments of the affirmative.

Child Painfully Hurt When Struck by Car

Four-year-old Julia Styler, 304 D street northwest, suffered a fractured collar bone and bruises yesterday afternoon when struck by an automobile near Third and E streets northwest. She was treated at Sibley Hospital.

Police said the car was driven by Samuel Gold, 631 Pennsylvania avenue northwest.

Walsh Says Soviet Ideas Old.

The technocrats of 1933, as well as the Bolshevik leaders of Soviet Russia, have borrowed many of their ideas from the Utopian philosophers of centuries ago, who clamored for a shorter work day and other social economic reforms, Dr. Edmund A. Walsh, S. J., vice president of Georgetown University, declared last night in the third of a series of public lectures on the "Evolution of Communism."

SECOND DEFICIENCY MEASURE REPORTED FOR HOUSE'S ACTION

$175,000 Item for Junior High School in Anacostia Is Eliminated.

Eliminating $175,000 for the construction of a junior high school in Anacostia, the $30,725,494 second deficiency bill was reported to the House yesterday by the House Appropriations Committee.

The bill carried $589,129 for the District of Columbia. The junior high school fund was the only major District item recommended by the Budget Bureau, which was not included in the reported bill.

The bill ignored, however, a request for authority to use $45,000 of an unexpended balance, to make improvements in the central heating plant, for the M Street Junior High School and the Douglass-Simmons School.

$90,000 for Lorton Heat.

Appropriation of $90,000 to build a heating plant for the District Workhouse at Lorton, Va., was included. Other public welfare items were $18,500 for the National Training School for Boys, $7,302 for Children's Hospital, $6,919 for the Central Dispensary and Emergency Hospital, $13,417 for Eastern Dispensary and Casualty Hospital, $709 for the Hospital for the Insane, $4,250 for the nonresident insane, $5,825 for relief of the poor and $3,000 for transportation of indigent persons.

An item of $118,139 was included for settlement of claims, $217,399 for refund of assessments, and $77,983 for judgments. Other items included $18,089 for the support of convicts, $6,965 for incidental expenses, and $2,000 for the contagious disease wards at Garfield Hospital for 1933 and $304 for 1932.

Total appropriations in the second deficiency measure were cut $12,367,000 under budget estimates.

School Food Measure.

A favorable subcommittee report on the McLeod bill, appropriating $40,000 to feed undernourished District school children, will be brought to the full House District Committee at a special meeting called for 10:30 o'clock this morning.

Action also will be asked on the King bill to regulate professional bondsmen in the District. The latter measure, which would penalize fee splitting and force police precincts to post a complete list of professional bondsmen, already has passed the Senate.

The McLeod measure would direct the District public health officer to go into the schools. Where children are found to be suffering for want of food, nourishment in the form of milk, hot soups and the like, would be furnished.

Representative Clarence J. McLeod (Republican), Michigan, author of the measure, tried unsuccessfully to have it annexed to the District appropriations bill. The bill will be reported to the full committee today by Representative Vincent L. Palmisano (Democrat), Maryland, who is handling the bill for Representative J. Bayard Clark (Democrat), North Carolina, chairman of the Public Health subcommittee.

Auto Crash Death Laid To Driver's Negligence

A coroner's jury at Hyattsville, Md., yesterday found that Harry Bochner, 35, of Baltimore, who died Thursday from injuries suffered in an automobile accident on Paint Branch Bridge near College Park a week ago yesterday, died as a result of his own negligence.

According to the evidence presented, Bochner's car sideswiped the car of C. H. Steward, of Wilmington, Del., and then crashed head-on into the automobile of Wallace Angell, 23, of Alabama avenue, near C street southeast. Angell also was seriously injured.

McLeod Asks Amending Of District Parole Act

Amendment of the act establishing a District Board of Indeterminate Sentence and Parole, under which persons sentenced to life imprisonment would be eligible for parole in 15 years, was proposed yesterday in a bill introduced in the House by Representative Clarence J. McLeod (Republican), Michigan.

Persons twice convicted of an offense would not be eligible for parole until serving half their sentence, under the measure, which proposes several minor changes in the present parole law.

ANACOSTIA CITIZENS SCORE AID METHODS

Association Declares Area Is Neglected by Agencies of District.

Citizens of Anacostia proper last night criticized the distribution method of District relief agencies, stating that the Anacostia sector has received practically no charitable assistance in comparison to the attention given other parts of the city.

Capt. Frank Dent, retired policeman and member of the association, who is conducting an investigation into relief accomplishment in Anacostia, attributes the present condition to the fact that relief cases are not directly investigated but are referred to community organizations, causing an unbalanced distribution. Following the investigation the association will bring the matter up for action.

Resolutions to petition the Traffic Bureau to mark off cross-walks at intersections near Anacostia schools and the improvement of road conditions near Eighteenth and V streets and on Eighteenth street between U and Fendall streets southeast were adopted.

SOVIET CONTENTION DENIED BY PRINCESS

Modern farm equipment and industrial machinery were not introduced into Russia after the revolution, as the Soviet claims, but were in use during the old regime, according to Princess Cantacuzene in an address before members of the National Geographic Society at the Washington Auditorium last night. The princess was introduced by Dr. Gilbert Grosvenor, president of the society.

The granddaughter of Gen. U. S. Grant, Princess Cantacuzene married Prince Michael Cantacuzene in 1898 and spent twenty years in imperial Russia. She made her home in the Crimea where her husband's family, the Cantacuzenes, occupied a splendid chateau and had vast estates. When the revolution broke out and wholesale massacres of the nobility and intellectual classes took place, the Cantacuzenes lost all their estates.

During her residence in Russia, the princess had exceptional opportunities for studying the life of the people. Since the revolution she has been a close student of Russian affairs.

With motion pictures and lantern slides, she depicted the happy homes, picturesque costumes, and the general optimism that was evident among the peasants. She pointed out that under the Soviet system, the peasant is led to believe that there was no Russian culture, religion or material well-being under the czars.

The illustrations also showed the splendor of the old Russian court, handsome buildings and churches. St. Isaac's Cathedral, one of the former show spots of St. Petersburg (Leningrad) and one of the most prominent churches in Russia, has been made a Museum of Atheism, the famous Winter Palace has been looted, and the treasures of other splendid buildings have been sold.
